2762. AMENDMENTS UNDER THE GOVERNMENT SECURITIES ACT; LARGE POSITION REPORTING

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 15 USC 780-5(f)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 404; 17 CFR 405

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: These rules would provide a mechanism for the maintaining and reporting of information about large positions in to-be-issued or recently issued Treasury securities. The rules will define what constitutes a large position and how positions should be aggregated across affiliates and subsidiaries, and the recordkeeping and reporting requirements. The scope of the reporting requirement would extend to any entity whose positions in the covered securities would meet the definition of a large position.

2763. ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 50 USC app 1 to 44. Trading With the Enemy Act; 22 USC 6001 to 6010, The Cuban Democracy Act of 1992

CFR Citation: 31 CFR 500.704; 31 CFR 515.704

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Foreign Assets Control Regulations, 31 CFR part 500, and the Cuban Assets Control Regulations, 31 CFR part 515, are being amended to provide for detailed procedures governing administrative hearings, as provided in section 1710(c) of the Cuban Democracy Act of 1992 (the CDA). Because the CDA amends section 16 of the Trading with the Enemy Act to permit the imposition of civil monetary penalties and civil forfeiture, subpart G is revised to establish the procedures governing administrative hearings. The regulations impose no obligations or duties, but rather make available administrative hearing procedures for those persons wishing to appeal the assessment of a civil administrative penalty issued under parts 500 or 515.

Additional Information: FMS previously characterized this revision to 31 CFR part 203 as an "economically significant" regulatory action and included it in Treasury's Regulatory Plan. As this project developed, it became clear that the economic effects of the new payment system are not attributable to the rule, but are a direct result of the implementation of the requirements of the North American Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act (see 26 USC 6302(h)). Accordingly, this regulation is no longer considered "economically significant" and has been deleted from the Regulatory Plan.

Abstract: This revision proposes to amend 31 CFR part 235, which governs the issuance of settlement checks for checks drawn on designated depositaries of the United States by accountable officers of the United States that have been negotiated and paid on a forged or unauthorized indorsement. These amendments are intended to clarify the type of claim for which settlement checks will be issued under this section. The change will differentiate between a forgery claim and a nonreceipt inquiry. The revisions accommodate the concerns of disbursing agents regarding the necessary steps involved in the settlement check process. A better understanding of the process should result in settlement checks being issued in a more timely manner.

CFR Citation: 31 CFR 256

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulation governs the procedure for securing payment for money judgments against the United States. The proposed revision will update the procedure for making claims. This will benefit claimants and others in understanding the claims process. This regulation currently sets a threshold for judgment claims greater than $100,000, and judgment claims equal to or less than $100,000. The change would eliminate the $100,000 threshold distinction for processing a claim. This change in the regulation would make it consistent with current practices for claimants securing money judgments against the United States.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 31 USC 321; 31 USC 3322; 31 USC 3332

CFR Citation: 31 CFR 209

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed revision is a separate action from the revision to 31 CFR part 209 published December 12, 1992, in a notice of proposed rulemaking. This revision proposes to remove part 209 in its entirety. This part governs the regular remittance to financial institutions of Treasury checks which are for credit to the accounts of employees and beneficiaries. Regulations at 31 CFR part 210, implemented July 1, 1994, require that financial institutions receive Government Automated Clearing House transactions through electronic means. This regulatory change made a separate part 209 regarding checks unnecessary. In addition, proposed revisions to 31 CFR part 210, Federal Government Participation in the Automated Clearing House, make substantive changes that supersede the savings allotment provisions of part 209, because savings allotment and recurring benefit payments formerly made under the terms of part 209 are made by the Automated Clearing House method under the terms of part 210.

2800. ALCOHOLIC CONTENT LABELING FOR MALT BEVERAGES

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 27 USC 205(e)

CFR Citation: 27 CFR 7

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: A 10/28/92 Decision in the U.S. District Court for the District of Colorado held that the Federal Alcohol Administration Act prohibition against the statement of Alcoholic content on malt beverage labels is unconstitutional under the first amendment. ATF issued an interim rule on 4/19/93 which permits the optional labeling of malt beverages with their alcoholic content. The Supreme Court heard oral arguments in the appeal of this court decision on 11/30/94. The Supreme Court decided this case on April 19, 1995, in favor of Coors, and unanimously found the FAA Act prohibition against labeling malt beverages with their alcohol content unconstitutional. ATF will issue an NPRM on the subject of malt beverage labeling to request information on tolerances, type size, placement, and whether such an alcoholic content labeling requirement should be mandatory.

3051. USE OF GAAP EARNINGS AS E&P OF FOREIGN CORPORATIONS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 26 USC 7805; 26 USC 964; 26 USC 952

CFR Citation: 26 CFR 1

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The regulations are proposed as part of Treasury's ongoing simplification efforts. The proposed regulations would modify the computation of earnings and profits (E&P) of foreign corporations by allowing taxpayers to account for inventory costs using capitalization methods used for financial accounting purposes rather than the uniform capitalization rules required by section 263A. The proposed regulations would also permit reliance on financial accounting conventions in computing depreciation for foreign corporations deriving less than 20% of gross income from U.S. sources and maintaining assets with tax bases not materially different from financial book bases. Use of these simplified rules may result in an accounting method change which would ordinarily require the filing of Form 3115 (Application for Change in Accounting Method). However, the proposed regulations waive this filing requirement if its conditions are met.

Abstract: These regulations implement sections 126 and 1255, which were added to the Code by section 543 of the Revenue Act of 1978 and amended by section 105(a)(7) of the Technical Corrections Act of 1979. Section 126 provides an exclusion from income of a portion (or all) of certain cost-sharing payments made to a person under any programs described in section 126(a) which is determined by the Secretary of Agriculture to be made primarily for the purpose of conserving soil and water resources, protecting or restoring the environment, improving forests, or providing a habitat for wildlife, and is determined by the Secretary of Treasury or his delegate as not increasing substantially the annual income derived from the property. Section 1255 provides recapture provisions for early disposition of section 126 property.

This treatment was previously required only for PMSRs.

Abstract: Several laws have been enacted since the last revision and update of the regulations governing the State Home Per Diem Program. Among them is Public Law 100-322, which provided that the Secretary, Department of Veterans Affairs, is to evaluate per diem rates annually and increase them as appropriate; the rates may not exceed the percentage increase in VA general hospitals. Numerous other changes and updates are needed to (1)assist the States in recognition of State homes; (2) provide various options for operating State homes, such as contracting or leasing and clarify of States' responsibilities for providing financial support for the operation; and (3) opening of beds, after completing construction in which VA provided up to 65 percent of the cost. Timeframes for opening beds and clarification of assurance of financial support need to be documented. Current regulations will be updated and revised to accomplish these purposes. Additionally updates are necessary for the State Home Construction Program. Public Law 102-585 amends the time for conditional grant approvals, prohibits obligation of funds for rescinded projects during the same fiscal year, defines the date the recapture period begins, and provides for retroactive per diem payment after completion of recognition inspection. Further, the Life Safety Code requires updating to the 1993 edition and various other technical and editorial changes need to be made.

Abstract: Section 208 of Public Law 94-581 provides that unclaimed property or funds and effects left by a dependent or survivor of a veteran receiving medical care at a Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) facility as a CHAMPVA beneficiary will be disposed of in the same or similar manner as such property left by a veteran. Also, estates of dependents or survivors of a veteran who dies intestate and without legal heirs while a patient in any VA facility or any hospital, while being furnished care or treatment therein by VA, will escheat to the U.S. Government. Some of these regulations have not been updated since 1948; therefore, editorial changes will be made, which will not affect policy.

Abstract: VA proposes to amend its regulations concerning informed consent for patient care. It is proposed to describe the requirements for obtaining and documenting informed consent. It is also proposed to describe the types of treatments or procedures for which the patient's signature on a VA authorized form would be required and to establish a list and priority of surrogates authorized to act on behalf of patients who lack decisionmaking capacity. Further, it is proposed to establish an internal decisionmaking process for patients who lack decisionmaking capacity and have no authorized surrogate. This action is intended to protect patient rights and to ensure that the patient (or the patient's surrogate or representative) receives sufficient information to make an informed health care decision.

Abstract: There is a section of PL 102-16 which is designed to eliminate some VA debts. Abstract: Under certain conditions VA can suspend or discontinue payments of educational assistance to individuals even though the course in which they are enrolled is approved for VA training. Current regulations provide for a review of the circumstances at the local VA facility and another de novo review at VA Central Office. The proposal would gather in one place the procedures which VA follows in deciding whether to suspend or discontinue payments; would make a part of the Code of Federal Regulations the rules at the hearing which may be conducted in making this decision; and would eliminate the de novo Central Office review.

Abstract: VA is proposing to amend its loan guaranty regulations regarding criteria used to approve nonsupervised lenders to process VA-guaranteed loans on the automatic basis. The Department is considering changes in the following requirements for lender participation in the automatic authority program: lender experience, working capital, lines of credit, and VA-approved underwriter eligibility and training. The Department is also considering changes in the regulation regarding annual recertification of lenders and standards for withdrawal of automatic authority. VA is also proposing to amend the requirements pertaining to lenders' reporting of VA-guaranteed loans to the Secretary within 60 days following full disbursement. The revised regulation will provide that if the lender does not report the loan within 60 days, the late report must be accompanied by a statement signed by a corporate officer of the lending institution, certifying that the loan is current and offering an explanation for the late reporting. This change will eliminate the current requirement for VA regional office to go through the formality of making a decision on whether or not to waive the requirement and instead either issue the guaranty or not, as appropriate under the circumstances.

Proposed Rule Stage

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule will revise the dollar thresholds specified in VAAR 801.602-70, legal/technical review requirements to be met prior to contract execution. Many of the dollar thresholds are unrealistically low, given the economy and the volume of contractual actions VA contracting officers execute. These dollar thresholds hinder the ability of VA contracting officers to execute many of the documents and award contracts in a timely manner. This rule is consistent with the Department's goal of enhancing its competitiveness in the health care industry and this Administration's commitment to streamline the bureaucracy.

These acts expanded this program by adding new types of permissible training such as apprenticeship and on-the-job training, cooperative training, and flight training. Furthermore, the eligibility provisions were significantly liberalized, and the rates of payment were increased. This final rule will restate statutory requirements and set forth VA's statutory interpretations.

Among these is a change in the rate of payment made to individuals who are pursuing independent study, a change in the eligibility rules for veterans and servicemembers receiving educational assistance under the Montgomery GI Bill, Active Duty. The National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 1993 also contains provisions which affect the Montgomery GI Bill, Active Duty. For example, certain individuals who have voluntarily separated from the military are given an opportunity to become eligible for the Montgomery GI Bill, Active Duty. Abstract: The Service Members Occupational Conversion and Training Act of 1992 established a job training program for recently discharged veterans. That act authorizes the Secretary of Defense to delegate some of the responsibility for implementing it to either the Secretary of Veterans Affairs or the Secretary of Labor, or both. The Secretary of Defense has done this. These regulations will acquaint the public with the way in which VA will implement the responsibilities which have been delegated to the Secretary of Veterans Affairs.

Priority: Other

Legal Authority: 38 USC 3018B

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 21.7131

Abstract: The provisions of 38 U.S.C. allow a veteran who was voluntarily separated from active military, naval, or air service under either 10 U.S.C. 1174a or 1175 before October 23, 1992, to elect to receive educational assistance under the Montgomery GI Bill, Active Duty. He or she was given until October 23, 1993, to make the election. The provisions of 38 U.S.C. 3018B also require the veteran to submit $1,200 to the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) as a condition of receiving the educational assistance. The statute does not contain a deadline for paying the $1,200. This document amends the VA's Vocational Rehabilitation and Education regulations to explain that an individual who made the election before October 23, 1993, must still submit the $1,200 to VA as a condition of receiving educational assistance under the Montgomery GI Bill, Active Duty.

Abstract: This final rule adds the new category of Reservist and National Guard Members and Their Eligible Dependents to 38 CFR, sections 1.620 and section 1.631, to conform with Public Laws 102-547 and 103-240, respectively. The rule is published as final to provide information to the public on expanded headstone or marker eligibility and eligibility for burial in a national cemetery. Therefore, there is no public comment period. The rule is not subject to the requirements of either the Administrative Procedures Act or EO 12866 because it is a restatement of statute. No costs are associated with publication of the final rule. The effective date for Public Law 102-547 is October 28, 1993, and that for Public Law 103-240 is May 4, 1994. NOTE: In light of the VA-wide regulatory reform effort, this rule may be withdrawn at some future date. CFR Citation: 38 CFR 39.1; 38 CFR 39.2; 38 CFR 39.3; 38 CFR 39.7; 38 CFR 39.8; 38 CFR 39.9

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule revises 38 CFR, part 39, to amend Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) regulations for the State Cemetery Grants Program to implement and update information on program requirements and the application process for participants. The amendment formalizes new standards and provides guidance on how States may obtain funding for grants to expand, establish, or improve State veterans cemeteries. The rule is published as proposed in the Federal Register to provide information to the public on how to apply for Federal funding for Sstate veterans cemeteries. A 60-day public comment period is provided. It is subject to the requirements of the Administrative Procedures Act and E.O. 12866 because the rule is an interpretation of statute. The proposed rule will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities; only those States that apply for funding may be direct beneficiaries.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 38 USC 1703

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 17.50f(h) (Revision); 38 CFR 17.50g(New)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule will amend part 17.50f(h) to change payment methodology for ancillary medical care service from usual and customary to Medicare's Fee Schedule for Physicians' Services. Part 17.50g will be added to fully describe the payment methodology for outpatient and ancillary medical care services provided by non-VA providers. Payments under this fee schedule would be based on national uniform relative value units,based on the resources used in furnishing a service and adjusted for local economic conditions. Use of this fee schedule will enable VA to overcome payment discrepancies between geographic localities and various specialties and will relate payments to the value of the procedure that is identified on a claim by a current procedural terminology code. VA payment would be consistent with payment for similar medical services provided by other government agencies.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 38 USC 501

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 16

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: VA proposes to amend its regulations to provide (or pay for the provision of) necessary medical treatment to human subjects injured as a result of participation in VA research. All participants in research approved by a VA Research and Development Committee and conducted by VA employees would be eligible for such treatment, even if the research was funded from sources other than the VA research appropriation. Experience suggests that the incidence of research-related injury is low, and therefore the additional costs of this policy will be minimal.

Abstract: The Department of Veterans Affairs is amending its loan guaranty regulations to comply with certain provisions of the National Flood Insurance Reform Act of 1994, title V of Public Law 103-325. These amendments strengthen requirements for procuring and maintaining flood insurance on properties which secure loans guaranteed or made by VA and which are located in areas identified by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) as having special flood hazards. The amendments also include new procedural requirements for VA to follow in making, servicing, or selling loans, which Public Law 103-325 requires all "Federal agency lenders" to incorporate into regulations.

Priority: Other

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will eliminate existing text in the CFR.

Legal Authority: 41 USC 321; 41 USC 322; 38 USC 501

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 1.770 to 1.776; 38 CFR 2.5; 38 CFR 2.62 to 2.65a

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action removes the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) regulations concerning appeals from decisions of contracting officers. These regulations concerned appeals to the VA Contract Appeals Board (VACAB). Prior to 1978, contract disputes were resolved by the VACAB. However, the VACAB was superseded and subsumed into the VA Board of Contract Appeals (VABCA). The VACAB's functions were to be phased out. The last VACAB appeal was docketed in 1986, and the phase-out has been completed. Hence, the VACAB regulations are no longer needed.

Federal Regulations; AID Regulatory Agenda Semiannual Summary

AGENCY: Agency for International Development, IDCA.

ACTION: Publication of the semiannual agenda of Federal regulations and regulatory plan.

SUMMARY: The Agency for International Development (AID) is publishing this agenda as required by Executive Order 12866 "Regulatory Planning and Review" (58 FR 51735, October 4, 1993) and the Regulatory Flexibility Act. This agenda reports the status of those regulations currently under review and gives AID's plan for the issuance of proposed regulations during the next 12 months. It is expected that the information provided in this agenda will enable the public to be more aware of and to participate more effectively in AID's regulatory process.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

General: For further information on the agenda or the review list in general, contact: Genease E. Pettigrew, Chief, Information Support Services Division, Office of Administrative Services, Bureau for Management, Agency for International Development, Washington, DC 20523; telephone (202) 736-4743.

Specific: For further information about any particular item on the agenda, contact the individual listed as the contact for that item.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12866 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act require the semiannual publication in the Federal Register of an agenda of regulations. The Regulatory Flexibility Act applies only to regulations for which a notice of proposed rulemaking was issued on or after September 19, 1980. AID is required to publish an agenda listing all the regulations it expects to propose or promulgate that are likely to have a "significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities." The Executive order became effective on September 30, 1993, and it is required that AID publish a listing of all the regulations it expects to have under active consideration for promulgation, proposal, or review during the coming 1-year period.

Dated: September 20, 1995.

Larry Byrne,

Assistant Administrator for Management.

Environmental Protection Agency

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY (EPA)

40 CFR Ch. I

[FRL-5320-5]

Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: EPA's regulatory agenda is published each April and October. It serves as a semiannual summary of current and planned rulemakings, reviews of existing regulations, and Agency actions completed since the previous publication of the agenda. By providing the public with current and advance information about regulatory actions scheduled to take place within the following year, the Agency hopes to encourage public participation in the regulatory process. The rules and schedules presented here reflect EPA's plans based on the best current information. However, the public should understand that legislative and budgetary proposals now under consideration by the Congress may affect the Agency's authority to undertake or capacity to complete any activity listed in this agenda within the schedule presented.

ADDRESSES: To be placed on the agenda mailing list, either write to USEPA/NCEPI at P.O. Box 42419, Cincinnati, Ohio 45242, or fax your request to (513) 489-8695. If you need confirmation that your request was received, you may call (513) 489-8190.

If you have suggestions to improve this publication, comments on rules that substantially impact small entities, or need general information about the agenda, contact Angela Suber, Regulatory Development Branch (2136), EPA, 401 M Street SW., Washington, DC 20460, (202) 260-7205.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: If you need detailed information about a particular entry, the name, address, and telephone number of the agency contact who is most familiar with the subject matter is listed for each action.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Reinventing Environmental Regulation

The Environmental Protection Agency is committed to reinventing environmental regulation to provide greater protection at less cost. To further this goal, EPA has initiated a comprehensive review of its existing regulations. EPA has reexamined the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) to identify rules that are obsolete or no longer applicable or which could be modified to reduce compliance costs while still protecting human health and the environment. On June 1, the Agency identified and initiated action to remove from the CFR those actions that are obsolete and identified those that are scheduled for modification or for further study. Over a quarter of the actions listed in this agenda are actions the Agency has or expects to streamline within the next 6 months either by eliminating existing CFR text or revising text to reduce burden, duplication, or specific requirements. At the same time, EPA is subjecting its paperwork requirements to rigorous reexamination. The Agency has set a target of reducing reporting and recordkeeping burdens on the public by 25 percent. Toward this end, the Agency is responding to the President's instruction to reduce reporting requirements by half wherever legal and appropriate.

Additionally, EPA is building and enhancing partnerships with the regulated community through increased stakeholder outreach and involvement. The Agency is seeking to increase participation by the private sector and other governmental entities in its efforts to improve its regulatory programs. Last March, the President announced a program of 25 substantial actions EPA will take to carry out its mission of environmental protection in more flexible and publicly responsive ways. These initiatives include such varied steps as expanding the use of market incentives to promote environmentally responsible behavior, addressing the most stringent regulation and enforcement to problems posing the highest public risks, and experimenting with novel solutions to the real environmental problems posed by an industry or locality when generally applicable mandates may prove ineffective or inefficient in a specific application. This edition of the agenda describes the actions EPA is taking to meet the goals described above.

How the Agenda Is Organized

For this edition of EPA's regulatory agenda, the most important significant regulatory actions are included in The Regulatory Plan, which appears in Part II of this issue of the Federal Register. The Regulatory Plan entries are listed in the Table of Contents below and are denoted by a bracketed bold reference, which directs the reader to the appropriate Sequence Number in Part II. Each entry indicates in the "Priority" section if the action is published in the 1995 Regulatory Plan. This means that this action is a priority for the Agency and has been or will be reviewed by OMB under Executive Order 12866. Actions that do not indicate that they are part of The Regulatory Plan may also be subject to OMB review if they are deemed "significant" as defined in the Executive order.

Each agenda entry includes the title, legal authority, CFR reference, legal deadline, abstract, timetable, any analysis under way, and an Agency contact person for each action listed. A new question on whether the action is part of the Reinventing Government effort has also been added for each entry.

The agenda is organized by statute and ordered numerically within each statute. Entries within each statute are divided into five categories: (1) Prerule, (2) proposed rule, (3) final rule, (4) long-term actions (i.e., actions under preparation that will not be published until after the 1-year horizon for this agenda), and (5) completed actions (i.e., regulations that EPA is deleting from the agenda because the Agency has completed, withdrawn, or postponed them indefinitely). Detailed information on each of these categories is presented below. A bullet (•) preceding an entry indicates that this is the first time this entry appears in an agenda.

I. Prerulemakings

Prerulemaking actions are activities intended to determine whether to initiate rulemaking. These activities include anything that influences or leads to rulemaking, such as advance notices of proposed rulemaking, significant studies or analyses of the possible need for regulatory action, requests for public comment on the need for regulatory action, or important preregulatory policy proposals.

II. Proposed and Final Rules

This section includes all substantial EPA regulations. To focus the public's attention on the most timely actions, EPA lists regulations in this category of the agenda that are within a year of proposal or promulgation. The listings, however, generally exclude (a) specialized categories of actions (e.g., EPA approvals of State plans and other actions that do not apply nationally) and (b) routine actions (e.g., pesticide tolerances and minor amendments to existing rules).

The Agency has attempted to list all regulations and regulatory reviews except those considered as minor, routine, or repetitive actions. There is no legal significance to the inadvertent omission of an item from the listing. The agenda reflects dates for actions on each item; these dates are estimates that should not be construed as an Agency commitment to act on or by the date shown. The Administrator of EPA will review the items contained in this agenda over the next 6 months. Items in this agenda may be deleted, or new items may be added as a result of that review.

EPA also seeks to enhance public participation in development of proposed rules by potentially affected stakeholders. We therefore invite expressions of interest to be directed to the contact person listed for each rule.

III. Long-Term Actions

This section includes actions with publication dates beyond the next 12 months. Please note that the Agency will continue to work with the public to develop partnerships and information necessary to support these rulemakings with long-term publication dates.

IV. Completed Actions

This section contains actions that appeared in the previous agenda but which EPA is deleting because they are completed or no longer under consideration for rulemaking. If an action appears in the completed section, it may not appear in future agendas, unless the Agency decides to initiate action again, and then it will appear as a new entry.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) requires the identification of those regulations which are likely to have a "significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities" (i.e., small governments, small businesses, and small nonprofit organizations). Under the requirements of the Act, such regulations are subject to a "regulatory flexibility analysis." This analysis must consider the likely economic impacts on small entities, as well as any significant alternatives to the rule which accomplish the objectives of applicable statutes and which minimize significant economic impacts of the rulemaking on small entities.

In April 1992, EPA adopted a policy which exceeds the requirements of the RFA (this policy applies to rulemakings that were initiated on or after April 9, 1992). For rulemakings subject to this policy, EPA will perform a regulatory flexibility analysis if the rule is likely to have any economic impact on any small entity. For rulemakings not subject to this policy (i.e., initiated prior to April 9, 1992), a regulatory flexibility analysis will be conducted only if the rulemaking will meet the RFA's standard of having a "significant impact on a substantial number of small entities."

Each rulemaking listed in this agenda indicates in the "Analysis" section whether EPA expects to conduct a regulatory flexibility analysis. If EPA • believes small entities will be affected by a rulemaking, this is indicated under the "Small Entities Affected" and/or the "Government Levels Affected" section of the summary for each listed rule. EPA invites public comment regarding EPA's assessment of which of the listed rulemakings are appropriate for regulatory flexibility analysis. (See "Small Entities Index to the Environmental Protection Agency Agenda" at the end of this document. It lists the regulatory actions EPA believes may have effects on small businesses, small governmental jurisdictions, or small organizations.)

The RFA requires that existing regulations with significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities are to be reviewed within 10 years of promulgation of the regulations. While, as described above, EPA is currently reexamining all of its existing regulations, the Agency recognizes that many rules will require detailed study before they may be appropriately modified or retained. As part of that process, as well as under the requirements of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, EPA invites public comment identifying any existing EPA rules believed to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Comments should be provided in the following format:

- Title
- Authorizing statute and CFR citation
- Description of economic effects on small entities, especially on the commenting person or organization
- Recommendations for changes

Any additional detailed comments or data are welcome.

When EPA completes its review of an existing rule, it will indicate in the agenda whether that rulemaking will be continued without change or will be amended or rescinded consistent with the stated objectives of applicable statutes to minimize any significant economic impact of the regulations upon a substantial number of small entities.

Dated: October 20, 1995.

Proposed Rule Stage

Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA)

3367. PESTICIDE TOLERANCE DECISIONS UNDER THE DELANEY CLAUSE

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 21 USC 348/FFDCA 409; 21 USC 346a/FFDCA 408

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 185; 40 CFR 186; 40 CFR 180

Legal Deadline: Other, Judicial, September 30, 1995.
Variable. Court-ordered deadlines beginning September 1995.

Abstract: The Agency will make decisions whether to revoke processed food and raw food tolerances for a number of pesticide carcinogens because of the Delaney clause. The Delaney clause prohibits chemicals in processed foods that induce cancer in man or animals. These decisions are required by a settlement agreement between EPA and the Natural Resources Defense Council et al, and will be in compliance with a decision by the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals which ruled that the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act requires a strict interpretation schedule set out in the consent order approved by the Court.

3369. • THE 10-ACRE LIMITATION FOR PESTICIDE SMALL-SCALE FIELD TESTING

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136c

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 172

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA will propose a modification to its pesticide experimental use permit (EAP) regulations that will permit field testing of new pesticides or existing pesticides for new uses on a greater number of acres without an experimental use permit. Currently such testing is limited to 10 acres cumulative total per pesticide under a presumption that this limited testing poses no adverse effects, and therefore does not warrant the Agency's oversight under the EUP program. This action would reduce burdens on pesticide producers who currently must obtain an experimental use permit for greater than 10 acres testing. Little impact would be expected on small businesses, because they rarely engage in pesticide field testing of new chemicals or new uses.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136a; 7 USC 136w

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 158

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This amendment will update the existing data requirements (40 CFR 158) for evaluating the registerability of pesticide products. Reasons for the revisions include recent health and environmental concerns (e.g., groundwater contamination, worker exposure and neurotoxicity) advancements in testing technology, and new ecological risk testing approaches. The revisions will clarify all data requirements to reflect current practice. Procedural and explanatory sections of 40 CFR 158 will be amended to make them consistent with the revised data requirements and new use indexing implemented pursuant to 1988 FIFRA amendments.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136a(d); 7 USC 136i(e); 7 USC 136j

Abstract: The regulation will designate certain individual pesticides to be subject to EPA approved State Management Plans (SMPs) as a condition of legal sale and use. This regulation would establish SMPs as a new regulatory requirement for those pesticides; absent an EPA-approved state plan specifying risk-reduction measures, use of the chemical would be prohibited. The rule would also specify procedures and deadlines for development, approval and implementation of SMPs.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA proposes to modify its labeling regulations that currently prohibit various kinds of false or misleading statements to allow, in the Agency's discretion, certain types of claims to appear on pesticide labeling. The rule would not specify criteria or claims that would be permitted. Permitted statements would be addressed through the registration program. By permitting certain types of claims or information on labels that currently is prohibited, EPA expects that pesticide users will be able to make better informed choices about products that are lower risk or more efficient or have environmentally preferable characteristics. This rule would not be proposed until after non-regulatory criteria or specific allowable types of claims are developed, and would be coordinated as needed with an ongoing Consumer Labeling Initiative addressing consumer pesticides and other chemicals.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136w

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 170

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Since the issuance of the 1992 WPS and the January 1, 1995 implementation, farmworker groups have expressed an interest in enhancing specific protection measures, while grower groups, the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture and others have expressed an interest in addressing practical, operational concerns. The Agency received various requests and comments in the form of letters, petitions, and individual and public meetings to address the concerns with the WPS. As a result, there may be a need to make further changes of a minor nature to the WPS rule. EPA will take such actions as rules, policy statements or other documents as appropriate. The following are currently planned: Language and size requirements for Warning Signs; and Decontamination Requirements.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136w/FIFRA 25

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 152.20

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA will propose to exempt from regulation under FIFRA sterilant products used to control microorganisms on treated environmental surfaces. EPA currently regulates sterilant products as pesticides; concurrently FDA regulates chemical germicides used as sterilants for medical devices under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act (FFDCA). Under a Memorandum of Understanding signed June 4, 1993 and amended June 20, 1994 EPA and FDA agreed to eliminate this redundant regulatory jurisdiction. By exempting sterilants under FIFRA, sole jurisdiction will reside with FDA.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136a

Abstract: This rule streamlines and accelerates the review of certain registration amendments by allowing EPA to notify registrants directly of types of registration amendments that may be accomplished through notification and non-notification. EPA believes this streamlining change will speed up the registration process while maintaining protection of the public health and the environment. The rule changes are procedural. The revised rule also clarifies when sale and distribution of a product changed by notification are permitted.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136a

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 158.167

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA is evaluating its current policy on allowable limits on cross-contamination of pesticide products. EPA's current policy is that any amount of a pesticide active ingredient in another pesticide product must be reported to EPA as part of the registration process. This zero tolerance is a problem in particular in the area of bulk repackaging of pesticides, because pesticide producers have difficulty in anticipating when when their product might be subject to cross-contamination as it moves from the production facility to bulk facilities. EPA is attempting to clarify situation in which the producer will be required to report cross-contamination. The expected output of this exercise will be clear guidance to the regulated community as to the levels of contamination that will be allowed for pesticides in other pesticide products. EPA is using a risk- based approach to determining acceptable levels of cross- contamination; the levels the Agency will establish, should in most cases, protect users and the environment from adverse effects. The adverse effect that can occur at the lowest levels in most cases phytotoxicity.

Abstract: EPA will make clear that the substances that plants produce to protect themselves against pests and disease are pesticides under FIFRA. The Agency designates these substances along with the genetic material necessary to produce them, as "plant-pesticides." The Agency will clarify that the focus of EPA's regulation will be on these substances rather than on the plants that produce the pesticidal substance. The Agency will define the categories of plant-pesticides that would be regulated and those that would be exempt under FIFRA and FFDCA. For those plant-pesticides that would be subject to Agency requirements, the Agency will outline the process by which these pesticides will be regulated and the information that would be needed in the Agency's review.

Abstract: This rule would require that pesticide total release foggers be labeled with additional flammability precautionary statements (including possibly a graphic symbol), and more precise use directions. Total release foggers have been implicated in a number of fires and explosions because of their flammable propellants. The labeling of these products has been determined to be inadequate to mitigate this potential hazard.

3383. WORKER PROTECTION STANDARDS; PESTICIDE HAZARD COMMUNICATION

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136w /FIFRA 25

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 170

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule would require the provision of hazard information to agricultural workers covered by the Worker Protection Standard. The requirements as proposed were designed to be substantially equivalent to the Hazard Communication Standard promulgated by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA). Specific hazard information would be made available to agricultural workers and pesticide handlers concerning the pesticides to which they are exposed.

3384. REPORTING REQUIREMENTS FOR RISK/BENEFIT INFORMATION (REVISION)

Priority: Other Significant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136d/FIFRA6

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 153; 40 CFR 159

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 6(a)(2) of FIFRA requires pesticide registrants to report to EPA additional factual information regarding unreasonable adverse effects of their products. By statutory definition, "unreasonable risk" includes risk and benefit information. In 1992 EPA proposed to revise its 1979 enforcement policy on section 6(a)(2) by expanding upon the types of information which must be reported. This final rule includes modifications to the 1992 proposals made by EPA in response to comments received on the proposed rule.

3387. • EXCEPTIONS TO PESTICIDE WORKER PROTECTION STANDARD

Priority: Routine and Frequent

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136w

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 170

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA administers an exceptions process for restricted entry intervals (REIs) under the pesticide Worker Protection Standard. Under this process, persons may request the Agency to modify the REIs for agricultural workers. REIs define the time after application of a pesticide before workers are allowed to reenter treated areas. EPA issues a notice of receipt of the petition in the Federal Register, and announces its decision in a Federal Register notice. TYpically requests for exception involve reducing the REI, and requesters submit information on the risks and benefits of the requested modification, with the objective of maintaining worker protection while allowing growers needed flexibility where REIs may have substantial impacts upon crop production needs or costs. Typically exceptions are time-limited. Currently the following exceptions are under review: Delaware exception for chlorothalonil on melons and squashes

Abstract: Pesticides which are substances or mixtures intended to control or mitigate pests, are regulated under FIFRA and are required to be registered prior to sale or distribution in the United States. Some pesticides may also be widely used in foods or for other non-pesticidal purposes. These pesticides are considered innocuous or are otherwise of a character that do not require registration. 3396. • PESTICIDE EXPORT POLICY

Priority: Other Significant
Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.
Legal Authority: 7 USC 136f/FIFRA 25; 7 USC 136o; 7 USC 136w
CFR Citation: 40 CFR 168; 40 CFR 169
Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA is considering revisions to its pesticide export policy. EPA believes that certain modifications are necessary because (1) EPA's current policy has resulted in too many export notices on pesticides of little or no concern to other governments; (2) the increasing numbers of export notices undermines the effectiveness of the international Prior Informed Consent (PIC) procedures, an international information and exchange and chemical management program developed by the Food and Agriculture Organizations and the United National Environment Programme (UNEP); (3) the costs of implementing the existing program on the U.S. government, other governments, and industry, should be reduced. EPA is considering several revisions: (1) Exempting certain products, through a FIFRA section 25(b) rule, from the foreign purchaser acknowledgement statement requirement. (2) Requiring exporters of registered pesticides on the U.S. and international PIC lists to submit export notices. (3) Changing the content of the notices and the manner and frequency of transmission. EPA is also considering integration of its pesticide export program with other export notification schemes, i.e., its export requirements under the Toxic Substances Control Act, the international Prior Informed Consent Procedures, and the export notification program of the European Union.

3402 TSCA CHEMICAL USE INVENTORY PROJECT

Priority: Other Significant
Legal Authority: 15 USC 2607(a)
CFR Citation: 40 CFR 710
Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action would require chemical manufacturers to report to EPA the industrial and consumer end uses of chemicals they produce. Currently, EPA requires chemical manufacturers to report the names of the chemicals they produce, as well as the locations of manufacturing facilities and the quantities produced. About 4,000 facilities reported data on about 8,000 unique chemicals during the last reporting cycle under the TSCA Inventory Update Rule (IUR). Data obtained would be used by EPA and others to: Better understand the potential for chemical exposures and then screen the chemicals now in commerce and identify those of highest concern; Establish priorities and goals for their chemical assessment, risk management and prevention programs and monitor their progress; Encourage pollution prevention by identifying potentially safer substitute chemicals for uses of potential concern; and Enhance the effectiveness of chemical risk communication efforts. EPA has held meetings with representatives of the chemical industry, environmental groups, environmental justice leaders, labor groups, State governments and other Federal agencies to insure public involvement in the (cont.) of the Chemical Use Inventory project.

Legal Authority: 40 USC 11013/EPCRA 313

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 372.65

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Isopropyl alcohol (IPA) itself does not meet the toxicity criteria for listing on the Toxic Release Inventory (TRI). It is the strong acid process itself which is associated with an increased cancer incidence. The proposed action would remove IPA from the list of chemicals for which reporting is required under the Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act (EPCRA) section 313. Because IPA is not manufactured by the strong-acid process and thus there are no releases of IPA reportable under section 313, deletion of IPA from the list would eliminate erroneous IPA reports.

Abstract: EPA is using its authority under TSCA section 4 to require health effects testing on 11 chemical substances to fulfill data needs identified by the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR), the National Toxicology Program (NTP) and EPA pursuant to CERCLA section 104(i). ATSDR is charged with developing "Toxicological Profiles" for hazardous substances most commonly found at Superfund NPL sites and which pose a significant potential threat to health. This involves identifying data gaps and needs, and developing a testing program to meet identified needs. ATSDR's data needs were reviewed by NTP and EPA to avoid duplicative testing. Abstract: A multi-chemical endpoint test rule will require the testing of many chemicals for a specific effect or endpoint, e.g., neurotoxicity. This type of rule is an alternative to single chemical rules which require testing of one chemical for many effects. The multi-chemical endpoint rule approach will obtain a significant amount of testing while conserving on Agency resources. The multi-chemical rule for developmental and reproductive toxicity testing will require testing of twelve chemicals for developmental and/or reproductive effects; the multi-chemical rule for neurotoxicity testing will obtain base set neurotoxicity testing of certain production solvents. These rules may be amended in the future to require the same testing for other chemicals. Also, future multi-chemical rules will require testing of additional endpoints and chemicals. The testing requirements for each chemical in a multi-chemical rule will be listed in a single table by chemical under section 799.5050. This table will be amended with each publication of a new multi-chemical rule.

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2603/TSCA 4

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 799.5055

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Multi-chemical endpoint test rules require the testing of many chemicals for a specific effect or endpoint, e.g., chemical fate and environmental effects (formerly identified in this Agenda as "persistent bioaccumulators") . They are an alternative to single chemical rules which require testing of one chemical for many effects. A multi-chemical endpoint rule for chemical fate and environmental effects will include chemicals that EPA expects will persist and bioaccumulate in the environment. In the past, chemicals such as dioxins, dichlorodiphenyltrichloroethane, and the polychlorinated biphenyls that persist (do not degrade), bioaccumulate (may enter the human food chain), and may be toxic have created widespread environmental concerns. EPA has evaluated chemicals on the Toxic Sub stances Control Act (TSCA) inventory for these characteristics and has identified chemicals for chemical fate and environmental effects testing for additional evaluation of their potential risks.

Section 112 of the CAA indirectly imposes deadlines on this test rule, inasmuch as the test data is needed to carry out programs and activities that have statutory deadlines.

Abstract: A multi-chemical endpoint test rule will require the testing of many chemicals for a specific effect or endpoint. This type of rule is an alternative to single chemical rules which require testing of one chemical for many effects. The multi-chemical endpoint rule approach will obtain testing while conserving Agency resources. EPA is proposing health effects testing under TSCA section 4 in support of programs and activities required under section 112 of the Clean Air Act (CAA), governing Hazardous Air Pollutants (HAPs). Section 112 of the CAA directs EPA to determine the risk to health and the environment remaining after application of a technology-based standard to major and area sources. Section 112 also sets forth a mechanism for revising and modifying the statutory list of 189 HAPs under section 112(b), requirements for an accidental release control program, requirements for an urban air toxics program, a mechanism for ranking of hazards for offsets, and requirements for Great Waters studies. In order to implement these and other programs and requirements under section 112, EPA must identify the health and environmental effects of potential concern from exposure to HAPs, ascertain the minimum data needed to adequately characterize those health and environmental effects, and assess the risks posed by HAPs. In addition, under section 103(d), EPA is required to conduct a research program on the short- and long-term effects of air pollutants on human health.

Abstract: The original Toxics Release Inventory (TRI) chemical list consisted of 320 chemicals and chemical categories. In an effort to provide the public with a broader picture of chemicals that will have to submit information for the Toxics Release Inventory in their communities, EPA is expanding the original TRI chemical list. On January 12, 1994 (59 FR 1788), EPA published a proposed rule to add 313 chemicals and chemical categories to the TRI chemical list. Of the 313 chemicals and chemical categories proposed, there are approximately 160 pesticide active ingredients. The chemicals and chemical categories being proposed were selected from numerous other regulatory lists and meet the criteria for human health and environmental toxicity and in addition are extremely toxic to aquatic organisms, EPCRA section 313(d)(2). In addition, the chemicals passed a production volume screen to ensure that reports would be received if the substance is added to the TRI chemical list. Part of this activity included the review of 17 chemicals, previously described in RIN 2070-AC40, 16 of which are from a list of hazardous air pollutants subject to the requirements of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990, and one of which was considered for addition due to its extreme aquatic toxicity. Of these 17 chemicals, nine were included in the proposed rule. Linked to this rule is a possible small-source exemption that will provide some measure of relief to the reporting community. This exemption will allow facilities releasing small amounts of listed chemicals to be exempt from full TRI reporting requirements.

Abstract: EPA is proposing to amend the Asbestos Abatement Projects, Worker Protection Rule (WPR), by incorporating certain revisions to the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) asbestos workplace standards issued since EPA's WPR was promulgated in 1987. The proposal would generally extend the coverage provided under the OSHA Asbestos Standard for Construction to State and local government employees who are not covered by OSHA or EPA-approved State plans. It would also extend coverage provided under OSHA's Asbestos Standard for general industry for brake and clutch repair to such employees, and would clarify that they include prisoners and students employed by the State and/or local government. EPA also proposes to delegate authority to grant or deny State exclusions under the WPR to EPA Regional Administrators and to add compliance and enforcement requirements for State exclusions. In addition, EPA is proposing to amend the Asbestos-Containing Materials in Schools Rule by relocating certain worker protection provisions in the WPR. EPA plans to further update this rule to make it consistent with the most recent OSHA rule.

Abstract: Currently, waste derived from lead-based paint (LBP) abatements is managed under the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) hazardous waste regulations. Other Federal agencies (Department of Housing and Urban Development, Department of Human Health Services) and several states and advocacy groups have expressed concern that the costs associated with the disposal of large volume architectural components (e.g., doors and windows) may interfere with abatement activities. EPA's Office of Prevention, Pesticides and Toxic Substances and the Office of Solid Waste have initiated a joint rulemaking to address the disposal of these architectural components. This rulemaking would develop disposal standards for these components under the Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA) Title IV, (the definition of abatement under TSCA Title IV, section 401(1)(B), includes disposal). The TSCA regulations would establish appropriate disposal standards for LBP architectural components and identify recycling and incineration activities that would be controlled or prohibited.

Abstract: EPA has instituted a program to regulate the commercial development of new chemicals that have completed premanufacture notice (PMN) review, where activities described in the PMN did not present an unreasonable risk but uncontrolled manufacture, import, processing, distribution, use, or disposal outside the activities described in the PMN may present an unreasonable risk. EPA will issue Significant New Use Rules (SNURs) requiring 90-day notification to EPA from any manufacturer, importer, or processor who would engage in activities that are designated as significant new uses. Under the Expedited Follow-up Rule (EFUR) which became effective on October 12, 1989, EPA will identify such new chemicals and publish them in a batch SNUR 3-4 times per year. Chemicals that were subject to a proposed SNUR before the effective date of the EFUR or do not qualify under the EFUR, may be regulated individually by notice and comment rulemaking and are listed below.

3428. CHEMICAL-SPECIFIC SIGNIFICANT NEW USE RULES (SNURS) TO EXTEND PROVISIONS OF SECTION 5(E) ORDERS

Priority: Routine and Frequent

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2604/TSCA 5

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 721

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: When the Agency determines that uncontrolled manufacture, import, processing, distribution, use or disposal of a premanufacture notification notice (PMN) substance may present an unreasonable risk, it may issue a section 5(e) consent order to limit these activities. However, such orders apply only to the PMN submitter. Once the new substance is entered on the Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA) chemical inventory, others can manufacture, import or process the substance without controls. Therefore, EPA extends the controls to apply to others by designating manufacture, import or processing of the substances for uses without the specified controls as significant new uses. Under the Expedited Follow-Up Rule, which became effective on October 10, 1989 (54 FR 31314), EPA routinely publishes batch SNURs containing routine section 5(e) and non-5(e) SNURs. However, certain activities, such as modifications, withdrawals, revocations, and SNURs upon which comments are received in the direct final publication process, are subject to notice and comment rulemaking and are listed below.

Abstract: The generic acrylate significant new use rule may require any person who proposes to manufacture, import, or process an acrylate/methacrylate subject to the category definition contained within the proposed rule to notify EPA at least 90 days in advance of the initiation of manufacture or processing for a significant new use. The significant new use rule will apply to a subset of acrylates added to the inventory after the effective date of the rule. It will no longer be necessary to issue routine 5(e) orders or chemical specific SNURs for those acrylates covered by the rule.

Priority: Other Significant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2604/TSCA 5

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 700; 40 CFR 720; 40 CFR 721

Abstract: EPA is proposing a regulation under the Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA) for the oversight of certain microbial products of biotechnology. The proposed rule would be issued under the authority of Section 5 of TSCA, which generally requires that new chemical substances must be reviewed by EPA before they are introduced into commerce.

The proposed rule will contain mechanisms for exemption as well as actual proposed exemptions, guidance on how the TSCA Inventory will be used, and EPA's approach to Research and Development with biotechnology microorganisms.

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2605(e)(1)(A)/TSCA 6(e)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 761, subparts C, D, E, G

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The ANPRM solicited comments on alternate disposal methods for non-liquid PCBs and invites public input on modifications to the PCB disposal regulations. In February 1990, several parties petitioned EPA under Section 21 of TSCA to amend the regulations at 40 CFR 761, which govern the disposal of PCBs, and issue an interpretive rule or declaratory order construing the existing PCB disposal regulations. In responding to the petition, EPA agreed to initiate a regulatory investigation to determine whether or not to amend the disposal regulations. After analyzing the comments received in response to the ANPRM, a proposed rule was drafted to address alternative disposal methods for newly identified scenarios such as large volume solids; mixed wastes such as PCB/radioactive wastes; and other issues, such as disposal of household wastes, small capacitors, and used paints. This notice solicited comments on a modification to the disposal regulations which would allow for the recognition of PCB waste management activities under other Federal or State authorities. After analyzing comments received in response to the NPRM, a final rule will be drafted promulgating more than 50 changes, additions and deletions to the current regulations. Finally, this rule incorporates a reproposal of the April 6, 1990 proposed rule (cont)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule would relax the regulatory requirements for reclassifying PCB transformers to a lower regulatory status by modifying the current reclassification requirements of 50 degree centigrade temperature and 90-day testing. Results of a preliminary analysis indicate that many transformers never reach the required temperature, but still reduce PCB concentrations and that safety risks to employees and to the general public occur in mandating the continued adherence to the current regulations.

Abstract: These rules add chemicals to the list of chemicals and designated mixtures subject to the requirements of the Toxic Substances Control Act Section 8(a) Preliminary Assessment Information Rule (40 CFR part 712). These chemicals have been identified by the Office of Pollution Prevention and Toxics, other EPA offices, and other federal agencies, as well as recommended for testing consideration by the Interagency Testing Committee. Manufacturers and importers are required to submit exposure-related data (EPA Form No. 7710-35) on the chemicals. These data will be used to monitor the levels of production, import and/or processing of these substances and the avenues of human and environmental exposure to these substances. Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2607(e)/TSCA 8(e)

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The TSCA section 8(e) "Notice of Clarification and Solicitation of Public Comment" would amend certain aspects of the 1978 TSCA section 8(e) Statement of Interpretation and Enforcement Policy (1978 Policy Statement). The 1978 Policy Statement describes the types of information that EPA considers reportable under section 8(e), the "substantial risk" reporting provision of TSCA, and describes the procedures for reporting such information to EPA. This clarification effort derives from a review of the existing section 8(e) guidance done in the context of questions raised by companies considering participating in the Section 8(e) Compliance Audit Program (CAP). As a result of this review, EPA determined that parts of the 1978 Policy Statement concerning the reportability of information on "widespread and previously unsuspected distribution in environmental media" and "emergency incidents of environmental contamination" needed some refinement. The subject Federal Register action solicited comment on refined reporting guidance concerning widespread and previously unsuspected distribution in environmental media and provides additional circumstances where information is not reportable because it is considered known to the Administrator; refined reporting guidance on emergency incidents of environmental contamination will be developed as appropriate, by the Office of Solid Waste and Emergency Response. Finally, the notice solicited comments on changes to the section 8(e) reporting deadline, and reaffirmed the standards for claims of confidentiality for information contained in a notice of substantial risk under section 8(e).

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 131

Abstract: Water quality standards set by States and Indian Tribes establish the water quality goals for surface waters of the US. They are the foundation for protecting public health and welfare and the ecological integrity of the nation's waters. Water quality standards regulations govern the development, review, and revision of water quality standards under section 303 of the Clean Water Act by States and Indian Tribes and the review and approval of those standards by EPA. The regulations are being revised to reflect the experience gained in the program by EPA, States and Tribes. All major components of the Water Quality Standards Program will be reviewed for potential regulatory and implementation improvements to provide increased State/Tribal flexibility and further strengthen the Standards Program as a key element of watershed based programs. This includes the process for establishing and revising use classifications; establishing and revising numeric and narrative criteria, including chemical specific criteria, nutrient criteria, wildlife criteria, and biological criteria; expansion and clarification of the antidegradation policy; more explicit requirements for optional policies such as mixing zones and variances.

Abstract: EPA is amending the Round I Final Sewage Sludge Use and Disposal Regulations in two phases (i.e., Phase One and Phase Two). Phase I will respond to minor comments received on the Final Sewage Sludge Use and Disposal Round I Rule (Part 503), correct some publication errors, and include some technical amendments. This action will modify the existing regulations to make the portion governing sewage sludge incinerators self implementing and allow the regulated community of less than 200 incinerators flexibility in selecting among appropriate requirements. The proposed changes should not have any adverse impact on State,local, or tribal government or small businesses since no additional requirements are being imposed. Abstract: Several municipal entities and one industry in California sued the California State Water Resources Control Board (SWRCB) in State court over whether the SWRCB's water quality control plans for inland surface waters and enclosed bays and estuaries were adopted in compliance with authorizing State law. The court issued its final decision in March, 1994; the Court agreed with the plaintiffs and found that the plans could not remain in effect. The SWRCB has been ordered to rescind its plans. In the absence of approved State criteria, the Clean Water Act requires EPA to promulgate water quality criteria for priority toxic pollutants. EPA Region IX will promulgate water quality criteria for priority toxic pollutants for the State of California.

Abstract: This rule will amend 40 CFR part 136, by adding new West Coast test procedures for the analysis of pollutants under section 304(h) of the Clean Water Act. This list of approved biological test methods would be amended by adding methods for measuring chronic toxicity in estuarine and marine species exposed to pollutants in effluents and receiving waters. State, local and tribal governments and small businesses on the West Coast are already using variations of these methods in NPDES permits. This rule will not have a significant impact on State, local or Tribal governments or small businesses on the West Coast.

Abstract: EPA is amending the Round I Final Sewage Sludge Use and Disposal Regulations in two phases (i.e., Phase One and Phase Two). Phase Two will address issues raised during litigation on specific requirements in the final rule (part 503) and modify technical and implementation requirements. Some of the issues that may be addressed in this action include: pollutant limits for molybdenum and chromium, total hydrocarbon (THC) operational requirements for sewage sludge incinerators, and the ratio of hexavalent chromium to total chromium for incineration. The proposed changes will impact Federal, State, local and tribal governments as well as small businesses. Abstract: On February 21, 1995, President Clinton issued a directive requesting that Federal agencies review their regulatory programs to eliminate any obsolete, ineffective, or unduly burdensome regulations. In response to that directive, the Office of Wastewater Management plans to issue a comprehensive rulemaking package revising certain NPDES requirements in parts 122, 123 and 124 to eliminate redundant regulations, provide clarification, and remove or streamline unnecessary procedures which do not provide any environmental benefits. Some of these revisions include: 1) consolidating regulatory definitions; 2) removal of Part 124 Subpart F non-adversary panel hearings; 3) possible removal of storm water group application requirements; 4) streamlining permit termination procedures; and 5) possibly revising Part 124 evidentiary hearing procedures.

This rulemaking is expected to affect entities who operate the NPDES program or who are regulated by it. This includes small businesses and State and local governments. Most of these effects are expected to be deregulatory or streamlining in nature.

Abstract: On February 21, 1995, President Clinton issued a directive requesting that Federal agencies review their regulatory programs to eliminate any obsolete, ineffective, or unduly burdensome regulations. In response to that directive, the Office of Wastewater Management plans to issue several rulemaking packages to revise NPDES requirements in parts 122, 123 and 124 to eliminate redundant regulations, provide clarification, and remove or streamline unnecessary procedures. Revisions under consideration include adding additional permit modifications that can be considered minor modifications at 122.63, and changes to requirements concerning EPA's review of State permits. Other revisions may be considered as work on this rule progresses. This rulemaking is expected to affect entities who implement the NPDES program or who are regulated by it. 3459. STREAMLINED PROCEDURES FOR DEVELOPING AND MAINTAINING APPROVED PUBLICLY-OWNED TREATMENT WORKS PRETREATMENT PROGRAMS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1314/CWA 304

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 403

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under the current regulations, many changes to approved publicly owned treatment works (POTW) pretreatment program are not effective until formally approved by EPA or the State. The formal approval procedures require two public notices of program changes. The entire approved POTW pretreatment program is also made a part of the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) permit of the POTW that administers the pretreatment program. This means that the POTW's NPDES permit must be modified when the pretreatment program is revised. There are State and EPA backlogs of pretreatment program changes for approval. The double notice procedure is expense and normally elicits little public comment.

Under the new regulations, the POTW's NPDES permit will include only certain significant elements of the approved POTW pretreatment program. EPA or the State will need to approve changes to the POTW pretreatment program only where the program is made less restrictive or when EPA or the State requests approval. In many cases, only a single public notice of a change to the POTW pretreatment program will be required.

The new regulations will reduce the administrative burden and cost associated with approving and maintaining approved pretreatment programs without affecting environmental protection. Impacts on State, local and tribal governments and small businesses are expected to be positive. The rule is deregulatory.

3460. • AMENDMENT TO EFFLUENT GUIDELINES AND STANDARDS FOR ORE MINING AND DRESSING POINT SOURCE CATEGORY, NEW SOURCE PERFORMANCE STANDARDS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1316/CWA 306

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 440

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule amends the applicability of best practicable control technology (BPT), best available technology economically achievable (BAT), and new source performance standards (NSPS) for Subpart J-Copper, Lead, Zinc, Gold, Silver, and Molybdenum Ores Subcategory of the Ore Mining and Dressing Point Source Category,40 CFR Part 440 with respect to the site of the A-J Gold Mine Project located near Juneau, Alaska.

This proposal excludes dewatered tailings from coverage for the frothe-flotation process alone, or in conjunction with other processes (40 CFR 440.100(2)). Process wastewaters separated from the dewatered tailings and mine drainage wastewater would continue to be covered by the Subpart. This proposed revision of the applicability is being done by revising the definition of process wastewater to exclude dewatered tailing at the A-J Project site which exhibits certain extreme topographical and climatic conditions not considered in the previous rulemaking. The conditions which exist at this project location limit the diversion of natural stream-flow and runoff around the tailings impoundment. The tailings impoundment is a significant part of the technology basis considered in the above rule to contain the process wastewater from the mine and mill process. Because of the topography in the A-J Project location, a dam to contain the tailings and treat the various wastewater sources must be constructed across the entire valley floor which results in the inability to divert natural stream-flow and runoff without causing potentially unacceptable non-water quality environmental impacts not considered in the previous rulemaking. In addition, because of the inability to divert stream-flow, the entire receiving water body must be contained within the impoundment and any discharge must also meet water quality standards without any mixing zone. This notice of proposed rulemaking also solicits information and data on whether there are any other potential sites with these conditions and what criteria could be used to identify sites for which the revised definition would be applicable.

3461. GUIDELINES ESTABLISHING OIL AND GREASE TEST PROCEDURES FOR THE ANALYSIS OF POLLUTANTS UNDER THE CLEAN WATER ACT

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1316/CWA 304(h)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 136

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed regulation amends the Guidelines establishing Test Procedures for the Analysis of Pollutants under section 304(h) of the Clean Water Act to replace existing gravimetric test procedures for the conventional pollutants, Oil and Grease (40 CFR 401.16) with EPA Method 1664 in order to assist in the Chlorofluorocarbon (CFC) phaseout requirements of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990. Method 1664 uses normal hexane (n-hexane) as the extraction solvent in place of 1,1,2-trichloro-1,2, 2-tribluoroethane (CFC-113; Freon-113), which is used in current 40 CFR 136 approved methods for the determination of oil and grease. Presently approved methods are EPA Method 413.1 in "Methods for Chemical Analysis of Water and Wastes" (EPA-600/4-79-020) and Method 5520B in "Standard Methods for the Examination of Water and Wastewater, 18th edition." This proposal would withdraw approval of Methods 413.1 and 5520B because these methods allow the use of CFC-113. Method 1664 is also being proposed for the determination of total petroleum hydrocarbons.

3462. CLARIFICATION OF THE APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS FOR STATES WANTING TO DESIGNATE DRINKING WATER INTAKE ZONES, THEREBY PROHIBITING THE DISCHARGE OF VESSEL SEWAGE WITHIN THOSE ZONES

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1322/CWA 312

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 140

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 312 of the Clean Water Act entitled "Marine Sanitation Devices" was established in the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 to regulate discharges of vessel sewage. EPA is developing a technical amendment to clarify the regulations implementing section 312. This proposed regulatory amendment to 40 CFR Part 140.4(b) would clarify the information required in a State application requesting EPA to designate State-specified surface water as a drinking water intake zone, thereby making it unlawful for vessels to discharge sewage within that zone. This amendment would provide guidance to EPA Regions and States on the specific information necessary for the designation of a drinking water intake zone.

This amendment will have no impact on small businesses and would only affect those State's choosing to request designation of no discharge zones. The amendment will not impact local and tribal governments. (The Clean Water Act section 518 does not include Tribes under "Treatment as States" in regards to section 312 of the Clean Water Act). State and local governments and public water supply systems should benefit from improved water quality near their drinking water intakes.

Abstract: The purpose of this action is to revise and consolidate existing application forms and requirements for Publicly Owned Treatment Works (POTWs) and other Treatment Works Treating Domestic Sewage (TWTDS), and to streamline the application process for these facilities. The Agency seeks to establish a unified process that minimizes the need for additional information from applicants while providing permit writers the necessary information, including toxics data, to ensure that permits adequately address concerns of permittees and environmental protection. The Agency seeks to allow the use of existing data and to avoid unnecessary reporting. The Agency is also considering how to utilize electronic data submission. Although these forms will increase the burden on permittees not already required to provide these data, many permittees are already required to submit these data. The Agency is minimizing the need for information from small entities, including tribal facilities. The burden on States would be minimized and even reduced because of improvements to the application forms.

Priority: Economically Significant

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1342/CWA 402

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 122.21(g)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: All existing manufacturing, commercial, mining, and silvicultural operations will be required to submit this revised application in order to obtain a National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) permit. The existing industrial application form has not been revised since 1984 and must be updated to reflect statutory and regulatory changes in the NPDES program, advances in scientific methods and an increased emphasis on toxic control. The purpose of this action is to revise and consolidate existing application forms and requirements for industries, and to streamline the permit application process for these facilities. The Agency seeks to establish a unified process that minimizes the need for additional information from applicants while providing permit writers the necessary information, including toxics data, to ensure that permits adequately address concerns of permittees and environmental protection. The Agency seeks to allow the use of existing data and to avoid unnecessary reporting. The Agency is also considering how to utilize electronic data submission. Legal Authority: 33 USC 1342/CWA 402(p)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 122.26

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulation revision will modify the municipal separate stormsewer system NPDES permit application requirements originally established under 40 CFR 122.26 in 1990. This revision will, at a minimum, streamline the storm water sampling requirements and illicit connection screening requirements for all regulated municipalities in the NPDES storm water permitting program. In addition, this regulation revision will clarify permit application requirements during re-application for permits by previously permitted municipalities. This action is de-regulatory in nature and should have a positive impact on local governments. Local governments will be required to submit less information and will undergo less burden in applying for a storm water discharge permit.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1344/CWA 404

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 232

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This joint action by EPA and Department of Army (Army) would clarify two aspects of the regulatory definition of "waters of the United States" under the Clean Water Act (CWA). First, EPA and Army are proposing to clarify CWA jurisdiction over isolated waters and wetlands by adding to the regulatory definition four examples of isolated waters and wetlands, the "use, degradation, or destruction of which would or could affect interstate commerce." Second, the agencies are proposing to clarify that five specific categories of artificial waters created out of dry land are generally not considered to be waters of the United States and, therefore, not subject to permit requirements. This action is consistent with existing agency guidance interpreting the regulatory definition of "waters of the United States" and, therefore, will not change the agencies' interpretation of the definition as it is currently applied to CWA regulatory programs. The purpose of this action is merely to incorporate this existing guidance within EPA's and Army's regulatory definitions.

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1401 et seq/MPRSA 2 et seq

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 225; 40 CFR 227; 40 CFR 228

Abstract: This rulemaking would revise the regulations applicable to the ocean dumping of dredged material. Issuance of these regulations is necessary to respond to the decision in National Wildlife Federation vs. Costle, 629 F. 2d. 118 (DC Circuit 1980) and to incorporate program experience gained since 1977. The revisions will make necessary technical changes and will improve the clarity of the regulations, with supporting technical guidance on disposal site selection, site management, and site monitoring. These revisions will clarify issues that have caused delays in the evaluation of permit applications. The regulations will improve environmental assessments of permit applications, and improve the protection of benthic communities in the vicinity of a dump site. The regulations will affect local governments if they run their Port Authority and are requesting a permit to dispose of dredged material in the ocean.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1251/CWA 303

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 123.25

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: At present, not all States provide standing to citizens to challenge final State-issued NPDES permits in State courts. This rulemaking would amend EPA's existing regulations governing the approval of State programs to issue NPDES permits. These regulations are found at 40 CFR Part 123. The rulemaking would insert an explicit requirement that State law must grant any "interested person" in that State "standing" to bring an action in State Court to challenge NPDES permits issued by the State. The new provision would make it clear that a State must provide standing in State courts to the same extent that standing is granted to citizens in Federal courts when EPA issues an NPDES permit. This approach would ensure that as EPA moves away from permit-by-permit oversight of State programs, there remains direct accountability on a permit-by-permit basis to the public.

3475. • MODIFICATION OF SECONDARY TREATMENT REQUIREMENTS FOR DISCHARGES INTO MARINE WATERS; CHANGE TO ELIGIBILITY FOR DIFFERENT AVERAGING PERIOD

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1251/CWA 303

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 125, subpart G

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA is proposing to amend the regulations that implement section 301(h) of the Clean Water Act. Section 301(h) provides an opportunity for modifications of secondary treatment requirements for publicly owned treatment works (POTWs) that discharge to marine waters. This proposed rule would amend one specific section of the section 301(h) regulations in order to respond to a petition from Anchorage and other Alaskan municipalities, challenging the August 1994 301(h) regulations.

In response to public comments, the August 1994 regulations allowed applicants to request longer than monthly averaging, to calculate compliance with removal of 30 percent of biochemical oxygen demanding material (BOD). The longer averaging period was not available to plants that met the 30 percent BOD removal requirement on a monthly-average basis for the calendar year prior to the promulgation of the regulations. The lawsuit challenged the restriction on a POTW's eligibility to apply for flexibility regarding the averaging period tht can be used for calculating compliance with the 30 percent BOD removal requirement. The proposed rule would delete the restriction and thus broaden a POTW's ability to take advantage of flexibility provisions.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulatory action would amend the "Guidelines Establishing Test Procedures for the Analysis of Pollutants" under 40 CFR part 136 to approve EPA Method 1613 for the deter nination of 2,3,7,8-substituted diber.zo-p-dioxins and dibenzo furans (CDDs/CDFs). Method 1613 is necessary to extend minimum levels of quantitation of CDDs/CDFs into the low part-per-quadrillion (PPQ) range to support the development of effluent limitations guidelines and for compliance monitoring under the Clean Water Act National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) program and pretreatment program. This regulation approves a test procedure to be used in measuring 2,3,7,8, substituted dibenzo-p-dioxins and dibenzo furans under the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System unless the Regional Administrator approves an alternate test procedure.

3477. MARINE SANITATION DEVICE: ESTABLISHMENT OF DRINKING WATER INTAKE ZONES IN TWO PORTIONS OF THE HUDSON RIVER, NEW YORK STATE

Priority: Routine and Frequent

Legal Authority: CWA sec 312(f)(4)(B)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 140.4(b)(1)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under current regulations, vessels are allowed to discharge from on-board toilets if equipped with a Coast Guard certified marine sanitation device. Section 312(f)(4)(B) of the Clean Water Act directs EPA to prohibit these discharges around intakes for public water supply in response to State petitions. Action on the NY petition for zones in the Hudson River will create the first drinking water intake zones established under this part of the Act. In these zones, vessel discharges of sewage will be completely prohibited. This means that recreational and commercial boats which have on-board toilets will have to either pump-out their sewage from holding tanks to pump-out and disposal facilities, or discharge in accordance with federal marine sanitation device standards outside of the zones.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1344/CWA 404

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 230

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action would revise the testing provisions of the Clean Water Act section 404(b)(1) Guidelines to provide for comparisons between dredged material proposed for discharge and reference sediment. "Reference sediment" would be defined as sediment that reflects conditions at the disposal site had no dredged material disposal ever occurred there. Because the disposal site itself is currently used as the point of comparison, this action would make a technical improvement in assessing cumulative impacts and make dredged material testing under section 404 consistent with that conducted for ocean disposal which currently employs a reference sediment approach. This action is not expected to have a significant impact on state, local, or tribal governments or small business, as the action will be limited to Corps projects and permit applications for which dredged material testing is necessary.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 33 USC 2601/Shore Protection Act of 1988 (PL 100-6-88),4103(b)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 237

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule will implement the Shore Protection Act (SPA) and is designed to prevent the deposit of municipal and commercial waste into U.S. Coastal Waters. The regulations may require the adoption by each responsible party of a manual identifying procedures to prevent, report, and clean up deposits of waste into coastal waters. Municipalities and businesses involved with the vessel transportation and shore side handling of these wastes would be affected by this rule.

State governments in the business of transporting municipal or commercial waste by vessel would have to comply with the minimum waste handling standards. Currently no Tribes are known to be involved in waste handling of this type, therefore none would be affected by this rule. In regards to small businesses, EPA has provided guidance on development of operation and maintenance manuals and encourages the use and documentation of existing industry practices that meet or exceed the EPA proposed minimum waste handling standards. All indications are that this regulation as proposed would have a minimal economic impact. This regulation will result in reduction of municipal and commercial wastes deposited in coastal waters.

Establishing Test Procedures for the Analysis of Pollutants" under 40 CFR Part 136 to approve new EPA methods for the determination of trace metals at EPA's water quality criteria levels. These methods are necessary for the implementation of water quality-based permits under the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) of the CWA. Water quality-based permits are necessary when technology-based controls do not allow a particular water body to meet the state's designated water quality standard. Sine the methods currently approved under 40 CFR Part 136 were designed to meet technology-based permitting needs, and since these technology- based levels are as much as 280 times higher than water quality-based criteria for metals, approval of new EPA test procedures is necessary.

This action will not have a significant economic impact on state, local, or tribal governments or small businesses. This regulation would approve a test procedure to be used in measuring trace metals under the National Pollution Discharge Elimination System unless the Regional Administrator approves an alternative procedure.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulatory action would amend the "Guidelines Establishing Test Procedures for the Analysis of Pollutants" under 40 CFR Part 136 to approve new procedures for the analysis of cyanide under the Clean Water Act.

Total cyanide is a toxic (priority) pollutant as defined in the Clean Water Act and listed at 40 CFR 423, Appendix A. The term "total cyanide" refers to all forms of cyanide, including those forms that are readily bioavailable such as free and weekly bound cyanide and those forms that are less bioavailable because the cyanide is strongly bound to a metal ion. Method 335.1, Cyanides Amendable to Chlorination (CATC), is currently approved for the measurement of free and weekly complexed forms of cyanides. Methods 335.2 and 335.3 are currently approved for measurement of total cyanides.

Subsequent to approval of Methods 335.1 and 335.3 under 40 CFR Part 136, it has been shown that these methods may not accurately reflect actual cyanide concentrations found in wastewaters. Additionally, the approved analytical methods call for hour-long distillation, chlorination requiring an hour, and two separate aliquots of a given sample distilled and analyzed independently to determine the CATC levels. In order to improve the accuracy and reduce the costs of cyanide measurements, EPA plans to develop and propose new test procedures for the determination of cyanides.

This action will not have a significant economic impact on state, local or tribal governments or small businesses. This regulation approves a test procedure to be used in measuring cyanide under the National Pollution Discharge Elimination System unless the Regional Administrator approves an alternative test procedure.

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 122; 40 CFR 124

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Judicial, September 1, 1997. Final, Judicial, March 1, 1999.

Abstract: EPA will be proposing charges to the stormwater regulations for Phase II dischargers. Phase II dischargers generally include all point source discharges of stormwater from commercial, retail, and institutional facilities and from municipal separate storm sewer systems serving populations of less than 100,000. Data collected under section 305(b) of the CWA indicates that benefits will be derived from addressing these discharges under the Phase II program. Urban stormwater runoff is a real cause of water quality use impairment. EPA has invited its stakeholders to participate in the development of the Comprehensive Phase II rule under the Federal Advisory Committee Act (FACA). This FACA group will assist in the development of the rule. Currently all Phase II dischargers are required to have stormwater permits by 2001. EPA will be considering limiting the universe of Phase II sources and may recommend control options that are less burdensome than permits.

Abstract: The Agency is developing regulations to set standards limiting the amount of radiation that members of the public may receive from a contaminated site if released from federal control or from a Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) license or an agreement state license. This rule will propose to eliminate the uncertainty associated with determining what level of cleanup is needed to protect human health and the environment, where cleanup is required under regulatory authorites other than this rule by eliminating the uncertainties this rule will streamline the cleanup process. The rule is only one part of an overall regulatory approach that EPA, NRC, and the Department of Energy (DOE), are developing to address the risk from radioactively contaminated material. The rule will propose a dose limit that is protective of human health and the environment, and will establish a standard that allows a cleaned up federal or NRC regulated site to be released for public use. This rule will not mandate the cleanup of any sites, nor will it provide criteria for selecting remedies when cleanup is appropriate. The decision whether to clean up a site for release to the public, to manage wastes on site and not release the site to the public, or to continue operations, will continue to be made on site-specific basis by the same agencies, under the same cleanup programs, that are currently making these decisions.

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 194

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, October 30, 1993. Final, Statutory, October 20, 1994.

Abstract: The Agency is developing final criteria for certifying and determining whether the Department of Energy (DOE) Waste Isolation Pilot Plant (WIPP) complies with disposal standards set forth in 40 CFR part 191 (Environmental Standards for the Management and Disposal of Spent Nuclear Fuel, High-Level and Transuranic Wastes). EPA is required to promulgate these criteria under the 1992 Waste Isolation Pilot Plant Land Withdrawal Act (WIPP LWA). These criteria will be used by the Agency in ascertaining whether the WIPP disposal system complies with the disposal standards.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action will result in Federal protective action guidance (PAG) for State and local officials to use in the event of a nuclear accident to protect the general public from the adverse health affects associated with the ingestion of drinking water that is contaminated with radioactive material. As soon as the draft guidance is developed it will be submitted to the PAG Subcommittee of the Federal Radiological Preparedness Coordinating Committee (FRPCC) for review and comment. Members of the PAG subcommittee include representatives from DOE, DOD, FEMA, NRC, HHS, USDA, DOT, and the Conference of Radiation Control Program Directors (CRCPD). When a consensus among the representatives is reached, the guidance is recommended to the full FRPCC for endorsement. After that endorsement is obtained a notice of the availability of a revised EPA 400-R-92-001, "Manual of Protective Action Guides and Protective Actions for Nuclear Incidents" will be published in the Federal Register.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 300/SDWA 1401

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 141; 40 CFR 142

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA will propose revisions to the National Primary Drinking Water Regulations for Lead and Copper published June 7, 1991. The basic lead and copper regulations will remain intact, however, EPA will propose minor revisions to refine specific requirements and improve implementation of the rule. Some of these revisions are deregulatory in nature, in that they will lessen monitoring requirements for public water systems which have consistently shown very low levels of lead and copper at the tap. EPA also plans to propose changes that will provide many community water systems more flexibility in the delivery of lead public education requirements, and allow States to invalidate inappropriate samples. Other proposed revisions would promote consistent national implementation by clarifying the monitoring requirements that apply in different circumstances. Finally, EPA plans to respond to a remand in American Water Works Association v. EPA, 40 F.3D 1266 (DC Circuit 1994), on portions of the Lead and Copper regulation by proposing a revised definition of "control" as it applies to lead service line replacement and to explain more fully the Agency's decision to exempt transient non-community water systems from coverage under the rule. Nationally, EPA estimates the proposed changes will not affect the cost or benefits of the Lead and Copper Rule significantly. State governments and some local governments may experience a minor increase in costs as a result of these revisions. Many local and tribal governments and small businesses that operate public water systems should experience a decrease in annual costs.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 300/SDWA 1412

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 141

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Safe Drinking Water Act requires EPA to establish National Primary Drinking Water Regulations for specific contaminants. The rules are to include analytical methods by which the contaminants can be measured. Monitoring requirements are also imposed by regulation. Monitoring frequencies can be increased or decreased by certain monitoring results. Regulations which have been promulgated already contain levels for triggering increased monitoring which are problematic, either because laboratories have difficulty detecting consistently at those levels or because the levels are well below those which might pose a health concern. This rule would revise the current trigger levels for increased monitoring for drinking water contaminants. Proposed revisions are the result of extensive discussions with State officials to define the problem(s) and identify potential solutions. While the proposal is still under development, requirements for some synthetic organic contaminants are likely to be relaxed. All states with primacy would be responsible for overseeing the implementation of the rule, including enforcement of monitoring requirements. Local and tribal governments which own water systems would be responsible for implementing the requirements of the rule.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 300/SDWA 1412

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 141; 40 CFR 143

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA approves analytical methods for analyzing regulated drinking water contaminants. EPA approved methods include EPA methods, Standard Methods (methods evaluated and recommended for use by the America Public Health Association (APHA)), American Society for Testing and Materials (ASTM) Methods, United States Geological Survey (USGS) Methods and others. Periodically, the Agency updates and revises methods to incorporate newer technologies. Standard setting organizations such as APHA, ASTM, and USGS also routinely revise and update methods.

In this regulatory effort, EPA proposes to approve new methods or newer versions of existing methods and at the same time withdraw approval of older outdated methods. The new additional methods to be proposed for approval will include immunoassays. Immunoassays detect target compounds using an antibody which binds only to that substance. These assays are increasingly applied to environmental analysis because of their selectivity, accuracy, speed, low limit of detection and economy.

Abstract: On March 16, 1995 President Clinton issued a directive to reduce existing paperwork burdens by 25%. To help meet this 25% reduction goal, the UIC program will try to reduce approximately 90,000 hours of the paperwork burden on State and injection well operators. The UIC program plans to reduce the frequency of a number of regularly scheduled reports by 50%. The Program will include these reductions in the overall 25% reduction. In order to meet the 25% reduction EPA will consider the following changes: (1) reduction in monitoring and reporting frequency, and (2) reduction in requirements for state reviews of lifetime permits.

Abstract: EPA has negotiated two rules regulating disinfectants, disinfection byproducts, and microbial contaminants. As part of the negotiation, EPA also committed to promulgating a Microbial and Disinfection By-Product Monitoring Rule to provide more occurrence and technology treatment data. The data will enable EPA to promulgate the Enhanced Surface Water Treatment Rule and will enable the negotiators to meet again to consider long term standards. This action fulfills that commitment. Public surface water systems serving 100,000 or more people and groundwater systems serving 50,000 or more people are required to generate data, with the most extensive data requirements levied on systems serving 100,000 people or more. Governments are not affected by this rule unless they operate a public water system.

3520. • STREAMLINING DRINKING WATER MONITORING REQUIREMENTS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 300/SDWA 1445

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 141

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The current drinking water monitoring requirements vary by contaminant (e.g., inorganic vs. organic), the source of the supply (i.e., surface water vs. ground water) and by system size. After an initial series of samples, the sampling frequency increases or decreases based on the results of the initial series. Because there are numerous permutations to the possible frequencies at any one sampling point, the requirements are difficult to understand. And because the requirements presume all systems are contaminated, many systems have conducted expensive monitoring without finding any contamination.

EPA intends to simplify and improve the cost effectiveness of the current requirements by reducing the number of variables upon which the sampling frequencies turn, by providing greater latitude for state discretion in customizing the sampling frequencies to local circumstances (i.e., vulnerability to contamination), by consolidating subsections wherever possible, and by clarifying ambiguous language. EPA will also consider adopting a process under which states may design alternative monitoring frameworks based on goal oriented criteria in the federal regulations and EPA guidance.

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1321/Clean Water Act; EO 12777

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, August 18, 1992.

Abstract: Some offshore oil storage facilities have insufficient response planning and lack the necessary private response resources to respond to worst case oil discharges that affect waters of the United States.

The Oil Pollution Act of 1990 (OPA) requires all oil facilities to prepare, submit and implement plans for responding to worst case oil discharges. This action would implement OPA requirements for offshore non-transportation related facilities located landward of the low water mark. In this rule, EPA plans to extend the applicability of its facility response plan rule for onshore facilities (July 1, 1994) to these offshore facilities. In a 2/3/94 Memorandum of Understanding, the Department of Interior/Minerals Management Service delegated authority to regulate these offshore facilities to EPA.

Abstract: This action is being taken in response to a Court remand of mixture provisions contained in the Used Oil Management Standards. The remanded provisions exempt mixtures of used oil and characteristic hazardous waste (e.g., spent mineral spirits) from the Land Disposal Restrictions. The effect of the existing LDR exemption is to encourage mixing of used oil and characteristic hazardous waste and, consequently, to discourage segregation and recycling the used oil and spent solvents as separate waste streams. Mixtures of used oil and spent solvents are virtually always burned. This stay of the mixture provisions and proposed rule would address the applicability of the LDR to decharacterized mixtures of used oil and characteristic hazardous waste. We expect that any changes resulting from the proposed rule will have minimal impact on state/local/tribal governments and small businesses (e.g., service stations, quick lubes).

Abstract: This action addresses the potential risks posed by wastes from the production of 25 chlorinated aliphatics, and determines whether these wastes should be listed as hazardous wastes under RCRA to control these risks. Any new wastes listed as hazardous will also be added to the CERCLA list of hazardous substances. This action will be implemented by EPA and States authorized under RCRA. Impacts on local governments are not expected, and small business impacts are undetermined. This action is currently on hold pending further settlement discussions with litigants.

Abstract: This action addresses the potential human health and environmental risks posed by 14 waste streams from petroleum refining processes, and determines whether these wastes should be listed as hazardous wastes under RCRA. If listed under RCRA, these wastes would also be added to the CERCLA list of hazardous substances. As part of this action, the Agency is considering opportunities for source reduction, recycling, reclamation or reuse in other manufacturing processes. Legal Authority: 42 USC 6921/RCRA 3001(b)(3)(A)(iii); RCRA 8002(o)

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA prepared a Cement Kiln Dust Report and submitted it to Congress. The report studies the sources and volumes of cement kiln dust, current and alternative waste management practices and their costs and economic impacts, documents damages to human health and the environment from cement kiln dust disposal, and discusses existing state and Federal regulation of these wastes. EPA used this information, after an opportunity for public comment, to make a final regulatory determination. In the determination the Agency decided that regulation under RCRA Subtitle C was warranted to protect the public from human health risks and to prevent environmental damage resulting from current disposal of this waste.

Under the terms of a consent decree, the Cement Kiln Dust Report to Congress was completed by December 31, 1993; the Regulatory Determination was completed on January 31, 1995. The Agency now plans to develop specific tailor-made regulations that are appropriate for the management of CKD.

EPA is currently considering a proposed enforceable agreement, which was presented to the Agency by the U.S. cement industry on March 22, 1995. Under this proposal, cement manufacturing facilities would manage their CKD according to specified management practices and EPA would enforce the terms of the agreement against non-complying companies directly without the existence of a regulation to implement the practices.

The enforceable agreement represents a new approach and raises a number of legal and technical issues which EPA is currently evaluating. No final decision has been made by EPA regarding the viability of the proposal. If the agreement turns out not to be viable, the Agency will resume development of a specific tailor-made regulation for CKD.

Abstract: The purpose of this rule is to amend the existing Uniform Hazardous Waste Manifest rule to make it truly "uniform" across the country. Presently what is supposed to be a "uniform" manifest is instead a patchwork of varying State manifests. Interstate shipments become quite burdensome when industry must deal with several different forms with varied requirements. This is compounded since States have difficulty tracking and verifying interstate loads. EPA is developing a proposed rule, as part of regulatory negotiation, to make the form more uniform and less burdensome, while still addressing state data needs.

Abstract: EPA will issue a rule clarifying when military munitions (including chemical munitions) become hazardous wastes subject to Federal hazardous waste storage, treatment, and disposal rules. The rule will assure transportation and storage of such wastes are safe and protective of human health and the environment. The rule is likely to address munitions in the military stockpile to be demilitarized, burning of excess propellants, emergency responses involving both military and non-military explosives, and unexploded ordnance on firing ranges. State National Guard units as well as Federal DOD, DOE, and DOT (Coast Guard) units will be subject to these rules. EPA and EPA-authorized States will implement the standards.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6926(b)/3006(b)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 271; 40 CFR 270

Abstract: The RCRA statute is silent on approval of Tribal hazardous waste programs. This regulatory action would clarify that Indian Tribes may become authorized for the RCRA Subtitle C hazardous waste program and will also make available to Tribes RCRA grant funds to assist in implementation of authorized hazardous waste programs. Currently, authorization and grant funding is only available to States. The action would establish criteria which a Tribe must meet for authorization. This rule furthers EPA's recognition of Tribal sovereignty and furthers the Agency's goal of delegating environmental programs to Tribes. This action will impact the amount of grants given to States since the level of funding will remain constant but the number of grantees is anticipated to increase. It will also impact the Tribes by allowing them an increased role in environmental regulation on Indian Country.

3537. FIELD FILTERING OF GROUNDWATER SAMPLES

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: RCRA 4010

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 258.51(b)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The RCRA Subtitle D Solid Waste Disposal Facility Criteria, among other provisions, require owners/operators of municipal solid waste landfills to monitor groundwater to detect a release from their landfills. The Criteria ban the filtering of groundwater samples in the field because filtering potentially removes some of the contamination found in the solid phase of the samples. Since promulgation of the Criteria, a number of States and industry groups have stated that it is important to field filter groundwater samples for metals to avoid potential false indications of a landfill release to groundwater. The commenters maintain that the analytical results using filtered samples are sufficiently protective and are as effective as unfiltered samples required in the Criteria. This proposed rule seeks comment on the appropriateness of allowing States/Tribes with EPA-approved permit programs to lift the ban on a site-specific basis.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6945/RCRA 4005; 42 USC 6912/RCRA 2002

Abstract: This action known as the "State/Tribal Implementation Rule" or "STIR", will delegate to States and Indian Tribes the authority to control the human health and environmental risks associated with municipal solid waste (MSW) landfill management, particularly groundwater contamination. The STIR will do so by establishing criteria and procedures for EPA to use to determine whether State and tribal MSW landfill permit programs are adequate to ensure compliance with the Solid Waste Disposal Facility Criteria. While the Disposal Facility Criteria automatically apply to all MSW landfills, States and tribes with permit programs deemed adequate under the STIR can provide some flexibility on design standards and other requirements to landfill owners and operators who meet the Criteria's performance standards. In providing this flexibility, the STIR offers an opportunity to reduce the regulatory burden on State, tribal and local governments and on landfill owners and operators.

3539. REVISIONS TO THE COMPREHENSIVE GUIDELINE FOR PROCUREMENT OF PRODUCTS CONTAINING RECOVERED MATERIALS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6912(a)/RCRA 6002(e)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 247

Abstract: RCRA section 6002 requires EPA to issue guidelines for procuring recycled products. EPA is to designate items that are made with recovered materials and to recommend practices for government procurement. Once designated, procuring agencies are required to purchase these items with the highest percentage of recovered materials practicable. On May 1, 1995, under RCRA and Executive Order 12873, "Federal Acquisition, Recycling, and Waste Prevention," EPA designated 19 items in a Comprehensive Procurement Guideline (CPG) (60 FR 21370). EPA also issued purchasing recommendations in a related Recovered Materials Advisory Notice

EPA—RCRA — Proposed Rule Stage

(RMAN) (60 FR 21386). The Order requires EPA to update the CPG and issue RMANs annually. The Agency consolidated EPA's five existing procurement guidelines (for paper and paper products, retread tires, re-refined lubricating oil, building insulation, and cement and concrete containing fly ash) into the CPG and RMAN. This action would propose the first update to the CPG, in which additional items would be designated, and additional recommendations would be discussed in the RMAN.

3541. ALTERNATIVES FOR GROUNDWATER MONITORING AND DELAY OF GENERAL COMPLIANCE DATE FOR SMALL MUNICIPAL SOLID WASTE LANDFILLS LOCATED IN EITHER DRY OR REMOTE AREAS

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: RCRA 4010

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 258

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On October 9, 1991 the Agency promulgated final solid waste disposal facility criteria (40 CFR Part 258), setting in place national minimum standards for municipal solid waste landfills (MSWLFs). In that rulemaking, the Agency provided an exemption from ground-water monitoring for small MSWLF units located in dry or remote locations. The Agency provided this relief as it sought to balance the protection of human health and the environment with the practicable capability of these small community landfill owners and operators. In 1993, the U.S. court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit vacated this ground-water monitoring exemption. This rule would provide States and Tribes with EPA-approved permit programs the flexibility to determine alternative ground-water monitoring requirements, on a site-specific basis, for small MSWLFs that are located in either dry or remote areas. Under this proposal, approved States and Tribes may consider site-specific alternatives to conventional ground-water monitoring, such as installation of soil moisture detection devices, that are relatively low in cost and are still capable of detecting contamination. Through the use of ground-water monitoring alternatives, the Agency estimates potential annual national cost savings of between $5.9 million to $22.2 million. This proposed rule also solicits comment on a delay of the general compliance date of the MSWLF criteria for qualifying small MSWLFs located in dry or remote locations.

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 265; 40 CFR 270; 40 CFR 124

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under the current RCRA regulations, a facility that needs post-closure care must obtain a permit. In many cases, the post-closure permit is an appropriate mechanism for the regulatory agency to use to address the environmental needs at the facility. In other cases, however, a permit may not be appropriate. And, in some cases, the facility's post-closure care needs may have already been addressed through other legal mechanisms, such as enforcement actions or Superfund actions. In these cases, subsequent issuance of a post-closure permit would not provide any environmental benefit, although, under the current regulations, it is still required. This rule would remove the requirements to issue a permit to address post-closure care in all cases. A permit would remain an option, but EPA Regions and authorized States would be able to use other mechanisms as well, depending on the circumstances at the facility. States authorized to implement the RCRA program are currently required to adopt authority to compel corrective action at permitted facilities. They are not required to have similar authority at interim status facilities, though many States do. As a result, the corrective action program is implemented by the State, at some facilities, and by the EPA Regions at other. This rule would require States to adopt, as part of their authorized RCRA programs, authority to address corrective action at interim status facilities. This would result in a more consistent implementation of the corrective action program in the States.

In October 1991, EPA promulgated the Municipal Solid Waste Landfill Criteria, thereby satisfying part of the statutory mandate. EPA is under a settlement agreement with the Sierra Club to fulfill the remainder of the statutory mandate by promulgating regulations pertaining to the disposal of CESQG hazardous wastes at solid waste disposal facilities. Depending on actual practices at specific facilities, these regulations might be applicable to commercial and private industrial waste facilities and construction and demolition waste facilities managing non-hazardous wastes. States will be responsible for implementing the rule, although a number of States already have comparable requirements and will not have an increased workload.

Abstract: On March 30, 1992, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) adopted the Council's Final Decision on the Control of Transfrontier Movements of Wastes Destined for Recovery Operations. The United States, a member of the OECD, supported the Decision, which is legally binding. The Decision established a graduated system of procedural controls for the export and import of wastes for recovery, depending on whether a waste is included in the green, amber, or red lists. Green wastes are subject only to controls imposed in normal international commercial shipments. Amber and red wastes that are considered hazardous are subject to additional controls regarding: notification to and consent from the exporting, importing, and transit countries; contracts; tracking documents; and recordkeeping. The Agency is codifying these provisions in an interim final rule which would replace the current RCRA export/import regulations for hazardous waste destined for recovery within the OECD. These changes do not affect the RCRA export/import regulations for hazardous wastes moving to or from Canada and Mexico for treatment or disposal within the OECD or moving for treatment, disposal or recovery purposes to other countries outside the OECD.

Abstract: The criteria for Municipal Solid Waste Landfills require landfill owners/operators to assure that they can cover the costs of closure and post-closure care of their landfills and the costs of cleaning up any known releases from their landfills. This rule would allow local governments to meet all or part of their financial assurance requirements based on their financial strength. EPA estimates that the local government financial test would save local governments $138 million annually. Small local governments and Tribal governments that own or operate landfills would share in this savings.

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6912(a)/RCRA 6002

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 247

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: RCRA section 6002 establishes a buy-recycled program for Federal agencies, state and local agencies using Federal funds to buy items, and for contractors purchasing items under government contracts. It uses governments' purchasing power to develop markets for materials collected by municipal and commercial recycling programs. RCRA requires EPA to issue guidelines for government agencies and contractors to use when purchasing recycled products. EPA designates items that are made with recovered materials and recommends recovered material content levels or other methods for agencies to use when purchasing the items. Government agencies and contractors are required to purchase EPA-designated items containing the highest percentage of recovered materials practicable. On June 22, 1988, EPA issued a final procurement guideline which designated paper and paper products and contained recovered materials content recommendations for these items. On April 20, 1994, EPA proposed to consolidate the paper designation into a Comprehensive Procurement Guideline and the recommendations into a Recovered Materials Advisory Notice. In this action, EPA will issue proposed revised recommendations for paper and paper products.

EPA—RCRA — Final Rule Stage

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6921/RCRA 3001

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 265; 40 CFR 271

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On November 18, 1992, the Agency promulgated a final rule on liquids in landfills. That rule satisfied a statutory requirement in the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) as amended by the Hazardous and Solid Waste Amendments of 1984 regarding the landfill disposal of containerized liquids. Specifically, the statute required EPA to issue a rule that prohibited the disposal in hazardous waste landfills of liquids that have been absorbed in materials that biodegrade.

This proposed rulemaking, which provides increased flexibility to the regulated community, would add an additional test to demonstrate that a sorbent is non-biodegradable.

EPA is promulgating this amendment as a direct final rule without prior proposal because EPA views this as minor technical modification that merely broadens the scope of the testing. A detailed rationale for the amendment is set forth in the direct final rule. If no adverse comments are received in response to that direct final rule, no further activity is contemplated in relation to this propose rule. If EPA receives adverse comments, the direct final rule will be withdrawn and all public comments received will be addressed in a subsequent final rule based on the proposed rule. EPA will not institute a second comment period on this action.

Abstract: Emission statements and periodic inventories are new programs addressed in the 1990 Amendments to the Clean Air Act that call for emissions reporting. In addition, requirements for the annual reporting of emissions from stationary sources are contained in 40 CFR 51.321 - 51.323. Each of these programs requires either sources or states to report emissions and other supporting data. The data reporting intervals, type of pollutant source, pollutant type, and geographic coverage varies for the three programs. This rule will address the streamlining and consolidation of reporting requirements of each of these programs. The emissions data made available by these programs will also provide a mechanism for tracking emissions.

Rule is on hold pending action on the "One-Stop" Data Reporting Rule.

Abstract: EPA is amending the SIP Completeness Criteria to establish completeness criteria for commitments in light of EPA's conditional approval authority under section 110(k)(4) of the Act. Additionally, EPA is proposing to remove the parallel processing exception from the completeness criteria. Finally, EPA is proposing to revise the definition of "official submittal" from a State in Section 51.103. Abstract: This addendum to the General Preamble for the Implementation of Title I of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990 principally describes EPA's preliminary views on how the Agency should interpret various provisions of title I with regard to requirements for PM-10 serious nonattainment area State Implementation Plans (SIPs). Although the guidance includes various statements that States must take certain actions, these statements are made pursuant to EPA's preliminary interpretations, and thus do not bind States and the Public as a matter of law. This addendum is an advance notice of how EPA generally intends to take action on SIP submissions and to interpret various PM-10 related title I provisions.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7401, et seq (Clean Air Act)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 71

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, May 15, 1995.

Abstract: Section 502 of the Clean Air Act mandates the Administrator to apply sanctions, identified in section 179(b), in those cases where a State Implementation Plan has not been submitted, or has been disapproved, or is not being adequately administered or enforced, or has passed the point of expiration of interim approval. Two kinds of sanctions are included in section 179: a requirement for 2-to-1 emission offsets, and the withdrawal of Federal highway funds. This action will streamline the process of deciding the order of application of these sanctions.

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 63

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, November 15, 1997.

Abstract: Title III of the Clean Air Act amendments of 1990 requires EPA to develop emission standards for hazardous air pollutants (HAPS). EPA proposed NESHAP rules for petroleum refineries on June 30, 1994 (RIN 2060-AD94) and is under court order to promulgate final rules by June 30, 1995. Abstract: Title III of the Clean Air Act of 1990 requires the EPA to develop emission standards for each major source category of hazardous air pollutants. The standards are to be technology-based and are to require the maximum degree of emission reduction determined to be achievable by the Administrator of EPA. The EPA has determined that some plants in the ferroalloy manufacturing industry may be major sources for one or more hazardous air pollutants. As a consequence, a regulation (emission standards) is being developed for the ferroalloy manufacturing industry to be promulgated by November 15, 1997.

Abstract: The determination of volatile organic compounds (VOCs) content ofa surface coating by reference method 24 involves determination of its water content, and calculation of its VOC content as the difference of the two measurements (volatile content minus water content). Method 24 is inherently less precise for water-based coatings than it is for solvent-based coatings and the imprecision increases as water content increases. This action will amend Method 24 by adding a direct measurement procedure for measuring VOC content of water-based coatings. Abstract: The Compliance Application Guidance (previously titled Format and Content Guide) will be a guidance document for 40 CFR 194 compliance criteria. These criteria are being developed pursuant to the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant (WIPP) Land Withdrawal Act and EPA's radioactive waste disposal standards (40 CFR 191). The compliance criteria are proceeding separately in the regulatory process. These criteria include a number of requirements that will be used by EPA to determine if the Department of Energy's (DOE) application to open the WIPP complies with 40 CFR 191. The Format and Content Guide for 40 CFR 194 will 1) provide more detailed information on the completeness requirements discussed in the criteria, and it will 2) be used by EPA to judge if DOE has submitted in its application the information required by 40 CFR 194. 3603. DETERMINING CONFORMITY OF GENERAL FEDERAL ACTIONS TO STATE OR FEDERAL IMPLEMENTATION PLANS (FOR ATTAINMENT AND UNCLASSIFIABLE AREAS)

Priority: Economically Significant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7401/et seq

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 51; 40 CFR 93

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Judicial, December 7, 1995. Final, Judicial, April 14, 1996.

Abstract: The purpose of this rule is to supplement a previous regulation published on November 30, 1993, which applies to determining conformity of general Federal actions to State or Federal implementation plans ("general conformity"). The previous regulation applies to geographic areas of the country designated (for air quality purposes) as nonattainment or maintenance areas. A nonattainment area is one which is not attaining one or more National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS). A maintenance area is one which now attains the NAAQS and was redesignated as a maintenance area after the 1990 Clean Air Act Amendments (CAAA). States must follow a maintenance plan for such areas which ensure that the area will continue to attain the NAAQS for a specified period of time.

The purpose of conformity regulations is to ensure that actions taken by Federal entities do not cause or contribute to a violation of the NAAQS and thereby undermine the State Implementation Plan (SIP) for that area.

The rule EPA is now proposing would apply the concept of conformity to geographic areas of the country which are designated as attainment or unclassifiable areas (i.e., those areas of the country not currently covered by the existing general conformity regulations).

This proposed rule will establish the criteria and procedures governing the determination of conformity for all Federal actions occurring in attainment or unclassifiable areas, except Federal highway and transit actions ("transportation conformity"). Transportation conformity requirements are being established in a separate rulemaking action.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7414; 42 USC 7545; 42 USC 7601(a)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 80.41(g)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The final rule for reformulated gasoline limits the amount of oxygen allowed under VOC controlled gasoline subject to the simple model to 2.7 percent by weight. States may petition to the Administrator to increase the maximum allowable oxygen content to 3.5 provided that there have been no ozone exceedances during the prior three years within covered areas in that State. Since the complex model for reformulated gasoline does not show a negative impact on NOx of increased oxygen content (the primary argument for restricting oxygen content), it is reasonable to change this simple model requirement. The EPA is therefore re-opening this portion of the final rule for reformulated gasoline to take comments on alternative methods for states to request an increase in the allowable oxygen content.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7401 et seq sec 610(d)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 82 subpart C

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA will reconsider the exception for the use of class II substances in portable fire extinguishers under the Nonessential Products Ban. The current regulations provide an exemption until an alternative substance is "commercially available." At the time the regulations were promulgated (December 30, 1993), EPA was aware of several potential substances under development and testing. These substances are continuing to be tested tested and developed. EPA believes that once these substances are available, they will be able to replace the use of both halon and HCFCs in portable fire extinguishers.

EPA intends to reconsider the expiration of the exemption to provide better guidance to the regulated community. The regulated community is concerned with the use of the term "commercially available" in the regulatory text. Therefore, EPA will propose revising the language by providing a date-certain exemption. EPA believes it can provide this type of certainty to the regulated community without compromising the goals of protecting public health and the environment.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act, section 407

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 60

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action proposes to clarify and update requirements for source owners and operators who must install and use continuous stack or duct opacity monitoring equipment. This action also proposes amendments regarding design and performance validation requirements for continuous opacity monitoring system (COMS) equipment in appendix B, PS-1. These amendments to subpart A and PS-1 will not change the affected facilities' applicable emission standards or requirement to monitor. The amendments will: (1) clarify owner and operator and monitor vender obligations, (2) reaffirm and update COMS design and performance requirements, and (3) provide EPA and affected facilities with equipment assurances for carrying out effective monitoring. The specifications shall apply to all COMS's installed or replaced after the date of promulgation. Following promulgation, a source owner, operator, or manufacturer will be subject to these performance specifications if installing a new COMS, relocating a COMS, replacing a COMS, recertifying a COMS that has undergone substantial refurbishing, or has been specifically required to recertify the COMS with these revisions.

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7401 et seq

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 60; 40 CFR 61; 40 CFR 63

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On March 16, 1995, President Clinton and Vice President Gore issued a report entitled, "Reinventing Environmental Regulation," that identified 25 initiatives to improve the current regulatory system and to initiate innovative pilot programs designed to move toward a new system of environmental management. One of these initiatives, consolidated federal air rules, is intended to eliminate duplicative, near duplicative, and overlapping federal air pollution requirements that apply to a source, resulting in a regulation that will be simpler to implement and comply with than the underlying individual rules.

The Chemical Manufacturer's Association, representing the Synthetic Organic Chemical Manufacturing Industry (SOCMI) and the Air Pollution Regulatory Authorities of Louisiana and Texas (where many chemical plants are located) have agreed to work with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) on a pilot project to explore solutions to crafting a consolidated rule that would combine and simplify various aspects of existing federal air rules that apply to the chemical industry.

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 63

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, November 15, 1997.

Abstract: The Clean Air Act, as amended in 1990, requires the EPA to (1) publish an initial list of all categories of major and area sources of the hazardous air pollutants (HAPs) listed in Section 112(b) of the CAA, (2) promulgate a schedule establishing a date for the promulgation of emissions standards for each of the listed categories of HAPs emission sources, and (3) develop emission standards for each source of HAPs. These standards are to be technology-based and are to require the maximum degree of emission reduction determined to be achievable by the Administrator. The Agency has determined that the mineral wool production industry may reasonably be anticipated to emit several of the 189 HAPs listed in Section 112(b) of the CAA. As a consequence, a regulatory development program is being pursued for the mineral wool production industry to promulgate emission standards within 7 years of enactment of the Clean Air Act Amendments.

Abstract: Hazardous air pollutants (HAPs) known to be emitted from oil and gas production facilities include benzene, toluene, ethyl benzene, and xylene isomers (collectively referred to as BTEX), along with 2,2,4-trimethylpentane and n-hexane. Potential HAP emission sources are glycol dehydrator reboilers (stand-alone and co-located); condensate, and produced water storage vessels; and equipment leaks at natural gas processing plants and off-shore production platforms.

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990, sec 112

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 63

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, November 15, 1997.

Abstract: Title III of the amended Clean Air Act requires development of emission standards for all major sources, and selected area sources, emitting any of the 189 hazardous air pollutants identified in Section 112(b) of the Act. Amino, acetal, and phenelic resins productions have been listed as categories of major sources based on documented emissions of phenol and/or formaldehyde. The purpose of the Formaldehyde-based Resin project is to initiate the regulatory process for sources engaged in the production of amino, acetal, and phenolic resins, and to ultimately develop a NESHAP based on candidate Maximum Achievable Control Technology. Abstract: Title III of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990 requires the EPA to develop emission standards for each major source category of hazardous air pollutants. The standards are to be technology-based and are to require the maximum degree of emission reduction determined to be achievable by the Administrator of EPA. The EPA has determined that some plants in the Portland cement manufacturing industry may be major sources for one or more hazardous air pollutants. As a consequence, a regulation (emission standards) is being developed for the Portland cement manufacturing industry, to be promulgated by November 15, 1997. Cement kilns which burn RCRA hazardous waste would be subject to a separate rule being developed by the EPA Office of Solid Waste.

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act as Amended in 1990, section 112

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 63

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act as amended, section 112

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 63

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, November 15, 1997.

Abstract: Section 112 of the Clean Air Act (CAA), as amended November 1990, requires the EPA to regulate categories of major and area sources of hazardous air pollutants (HAPs) listed in Section 112(b). The EPA has determined that sources that manufacture chlorine may reasonably be anticipated to emit several of the 189 HAP's listed (including chlorine, carbon tetrachloride and mercury) in quantities sufficient to designate them as a major source. As a consequence, chlorine production is among the HAP-emitting source categories selected for regulation and is in the group of categories for which final rules are scheduled to be promulgated by November 15, 1997 (58 FR 63941, December 3, 1993).

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990, section 112

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 63

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, November 15, 1997.

Abstract: Title III of the amended Clean Air Act (CAA) requires development of emission standards for all major sources, and selected area sources, emitting any of the 189 hazardous air pollutants identified in Section 112(b) of the CAA. Flexible polyurethane foam production has been listed as a category of major sources based on documented emissions of methylene chloride and 2,4-toluene diisocyanate. This action will explore alternatives for controlling the release of HAP's from the following emission sources located at both slabstock and molded polyurethane foam production facilities: process vents, storage, equipment leaks and other fugitive sources, and transfer operations. Ultimately, a NESHAP will be developed based on candidate Maximum Achievable Control Technology. This is a 7-year standard, required to be promulgated by November 1997.

Abstract: Section 112 of the Act requires major sources of hazardous air pollutants to achieve a maximum degree of emission reduction based on the maximum achievable control technology (MACT). This regulatory action will establish this level of control for both new and existing sources in the baker's yeast manufacturing industry. This industry is currently comprised of 11 sources of 5 different manufacturers located in 8 different states. The only known HAP emission from this source is acetaldehyde. It is produced as a by-product during the fermentation process. It is likely that regulatory options will be based on improved process control to reduce formation of this by-product.

3643. REGIONAL HAZE PROTECTION

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act section 169A

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 51.300 to 51.306

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, May 1997.

Abstract: Mandatory Federal Class I areas throughout the United States are being impaired by regional haze. Section 169A of the Clean Air Act requires the Environmental Protection Agency to issue regulations to protect these Class I areas from man-made visibility impairment. These regulations would require States to show reasonable progress toward reducing the effects of regional haze on these sensitive areas. Since 1980, technical knowledge of the causes of visibility impairment (i.e., emissions of sulfur dioxide, nitrogen oxides, certain organic compounds, and particulate matter) has progressed so that innovative programs can be developed to address regional pollution. This rulemaking will require regional (multi-state) planning to address regional visibility in groupings of Class I areas. Control activities will be balanced with review of cost and visibility/environmental benefits analysis.

3644. NATIONAL VOLATILE ORGANIC COMPOUND EMISSION STANDARDS FOR AUTOMOBILE REFINISH COATINGS

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990, sec 183(e)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 59

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, March 1997.

Abstract: Section 183(e) requires EPA to study the emissions of volatile organic compounds (VOC) from consumer and commercial products, list those categories of products that account for at least 80 percent of the total VOC emissions from consumer and commercial products in areas classified as nonattainment for ozone, divide the list into four groups, and regulate one group every 2 years using best available controls (BAC). Based on the criteria described in the consumer and commercial product study (March 1995), and category listing (March 1995), EPA has determined that VOC emissions from automobile refinish coatings should be regulated by March 1997. Automobile refinish coatings can be generally classified as primers and topcoats, each consisting of several different types. the proposed rule divides automobile refinish coatings into 6 categories, and contains VOC content limits for each category. Automobile refinish coatings are used by body shops and by "do-it yourselfers." However, the proposed rule does not directly affect these small businesses. Rather, the rule would apply to coating manufacturers and importers, and would limit the VOC content of coatings that are produced for sale in the United States.

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act, section 183(e)

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, March 1996. Final, Statutory, March 1997.

Abstract: Section 183(e) of the Clean Air Act of 1990 (the Act) requires that the EPA study volatile organic compound (VOC) emissions from consumer and commercial products. The objectives of this study are to determine the potential of consumer and commercial products to contribute to ozone levels which violate the national ambient air quality standards (NAAQS) for ozone; and to establish criteria for regulating consumer and commercial products under section 183(e). Upon completion of the study, the EPA must submit a report to Congress that documents the results of the study.

Aerosol spray paints have been identified as being the largest single emitter of VOC emissions, considering all categories of consumer products. Therefore, the EPA has determined that aerosol spray paints is one of the source categories to be regulated under section 183(e) of the Act. For spray paints, EPA considers a VOC to be any organic compound in the coating that volatilizes during air-drying or bake-film forming. This includes solvents and propellants, as well as other volatiles used to dissolve resins and additives. Options for VOC reductions from aerosol spray paints include reformulation and limits on the VOC content. VOC content of the paints, and

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act, section 183(e)

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, March 1996. Final, Statutory, March 1997.

Abstract: Section 183(e) of the Clean Air Act requires that EPA list those categories of consumer and commercial products (CCPs) that account for at least 80 percent of volatile organic compounds (VOC) from all CCPs in ozone nonattainment areas. The list is to be divided into 4 groups by priority. The EPA is to regulate one group of categories every 2 years until all 4 groups are regulated. The first group must be regulated no later than 2 years after the EPA publishes the list and regulatory schedule.

The EPA has listed for regulation a group of 24 products which are currently regulated by California and several other States. The rule would set VOC content limits for the 24 categories of products. These limitations are currently being met by product manufacturers marketing products in California and other States. A Federal rule would provide consistency and would assist other States in achieving VOC reductions toward their 15-percent rate-of-progress requirements. This rule is supported by both the States and by the consumer products industry.

Abstract: This action will establish procedures under which vehicle manufacturers will demonstrate durability of their emission control systems during certification of passenger cars and light-duty trucks beginning with the 1999 model year. Under separate actions, EPA has promulgated revised light-duty durability procedures for certification of model years 1994 through 1998, procedures that are necessary to implement revised useful life levels mandated by the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990. The long term durability program will translate into ongoing efforts by the EPA and vehicle manufacturers to develop durability procedures that will more accurately predict the emissions deterioration of vehicles in actual use.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7525/CAA 206(b)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 86 subpart G (Revision); 40 CFR 86 subpart K (Revision)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action would consider an amendment to the existing regulations to include ports of entry as a location for EPA selection of foreign produced vehicles and engines for SEA emissions testing at laboratories in the U.S. While the regulations do not specify EPA authority to conduct such port selections, the increased flexibility provided by port selections warrants amending the regulations. Presently, EPA must travel overseas to conduct SEA audits of foreign manufactured vehicles and engines, even though most manufacturers now have access to laboratory facilities in the U.S. The benefits include a reduction in Agency cost since fewer overseas trips would be necessary. Also, EPA would be able to conduct more audits of foreign manufactured vehicles and engines.

Separate from the provisions proposed in this NPRM for amendments to allow port selection for SEAs, EPA is also proposing to make two other amendments to 40 CFR Part 86. The first would amend current Selective Enforcement Auditing regulations to change the minimum annual limit of Selective Enforcement Audits per manufacturer to two (2) per year. Currently, the minimum annual limit is one audit per manufacturer. Under the proposed amendments EPA would be able to perform a second audit on those manufacturers that might otherwise be limited to one audit.

The second additional proposed amendment to Part 86 would delete from Subparts A and E references to the Agency representation in certain types of administrative hearings. The two provisions state that the Office of General Counsel will represent the Agency in administrative procedures governing hearings on certification for light-duty vehicles, light-duty trucks, heavy-duty engines and motorcycles. The Agency is proposing to delete these two provisions in order to be consistent with other hearing procedures in Part 86.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7545/CAAA 211(f)

Abstract: Section 211(f)(1)(A) of the Clean Air Act prohibits for use in light-duty vehicles, fuels and fuel additives which are not "substantially similar" to fuels or additives used to certify vehicles to emissions standards. Section 211(f)(1)(B) expands these prohibitions to all motor vehicles. Since the term "substantially similar" is not defined in the Act, the intent of this rulemaking is to interpret the term "substantially similar" in regard to diesel fuel and diesel fuel additives and thus make more explicit which products are prohibited by section 211(f)(1)(B). The definition of "substantially similar" enables manufacturers to determine whether their fuels or fuel additives are covered by, or excluded from, the section 211(f)(1)(B) prohibitions.

Abstract: The current NSPS for electric utility and nonutility steam generating units were promulgated in 1979 and 1986, respectively. A major feature of the NSPS is NOx control through the use of low NOx burners or overfired air. Section 407 of the Clean Air Act requires the EPA to revise existing NSPS for NOx emissions from fossil-fuel fired steam generating units, including both electric utility and nonutility units. These revised standards are to reflect improvements in methods for the reduction of NOx emissions.

3655. ACID RAIN PHASE II NITROGEN OXIDES REDUCTION PROGRAM

Priority: Economically Significant

Legal Authority: Section 407 of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 76 (Revision)

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, January 1, 1997.

Abstract: Title IV of the Act authorizes EPA to establish the Acid Rain Program to reduce the adverse effects of acidic deposition. Specifically, the Act mandates a 10 million ton reduction in SO2, to be achieved in two phases through the use of an innovative emissions of NOx. On April 13, 1995, EPA promulgated a rule establishing emission limits for emissions of NOx from Group 1 boilers (o.50 lb/mmBtu for dry bottom wall-fired boilers and 0.45 lb/mmBtu for tangentially fired boilers). Compliance with the rule would be achieved in two phases: Phase I affected units were required to meet the applicable limits by 1996, while Phase II affected units by 2000. Section 407 also provides for revisions to the Group 1 emission limitations established in the April 13, 1995 rule for Phase II affected units, and for the establishment of emission limits for Group 2 boilers (wet bottom wall-fired boilers, cyclones, units applying cell burner technology, and all other types of utility boilers not classified as dry bottom wall-fired and tangentially fired boilers).

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: Section 602 of Title VI of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, August 30, 1995.

Abstract: Under a consent agreement to complete statutory obligations under Title VI of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990 (CAA), EPA must list the global warming potentials for ozone-depleting substances. As stated in the CAA, the listing of global warming potentials, "shall not be construed to be the basis of any additional regulation." EPA is proposing global warming potentials for class I and class II controlled substances as they are listed in the 'Scientific Assessment of Ozone Depletion: 1994' that was published by the United Nations Environment Program (UNEP) in early 1995.

3657. AMENDMENT TO THE MVAC RULE TO INCLUDE ALL REFRIGERANTS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7401 et seq; Title VI, Section 609

CFR Citation: 42 CFR 82, subpart B

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, November 15, 1994.
Both the venting prohibition and the MVAC "refrigerant" definition expand to cover all refrigerants, beginning 11/15/95, according to sections 608 and 609 of the Clean Air Act.

Abstract: This action would facilitate fulfillment of two statutory requirements; the extension of the no-venting prohibition to all refrigerants under section 608 and the section 609 requirement that the term "refrigerant," after November 15, 1995, include substitute refrigerants. The action would extend the applicable current requirements of the motor vehicle air-conditioning rule to the substitute refrigerants. This would require recovery and recycling of these refrigerants, in addition to the class I and class II refrigerants already covered under the MVAC rule. It would also require approved recycling equipment and specific certifications of equipment and technicians. The MVAC "refrigerant" definition was expanded to cover all refrigerants, beginning November 15, 1995, according to sections 608 and 609 of the Clean Air Act.

3658. PROTECTION OF STRATOSPHERIC OZONE: SUPPLEMENTAL RULE REGARDING A RECYCLING STANDARD UNDER SECTION 608

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7401 et seq, section 608

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 82, subpart F

Legal Deadline: Other, Statutory, May 15, 1995.
The current rule sunsets the reclamation standard after May 15, 1995. Industry is requesting a change to that sunset, which would require a final rule by that 5/15/95 date.

Abstract: The current rule sunsets the requirement that a reclamation standard be met, as of May 1, 1995. Several members of the regulated community have approached EPA requesting that the requirement not be sunsetted or that it be replaced with a somewhat less stringent standard. This amendment will incorporate a level of continued required reclamation and/or recycling standard that the majority of the affected industry agrees is beneficial in order to encourage compliance.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: PL 101-54, section 608 of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990; 42 USC 7401 et seq Section 608 CAA

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, November 15, 1994.
The venting prohibition is extended to all refrigerants as of 11/15/95; rules are necessary to inform the regulated community of the means by which to prevent venting. recovery/recycling.

Abstract: This action would facilitate fulfillment of the statutory mandate to apply the venting prohibition to substitute refrigerants. The action would provide regulations covering recovery/recycling equipment, recovery/recycling practices, and applicable certifications that would be required to accomplish compliance with the no-venting prohibition. Requirements would parallel those of the current section 608 regulations, expanding applicability, where appropriate, to all refrigerants.

3660. AMENDMENT TO THE REFRIGERANT RECYCLING RULE TO MODIFY THE SALES RESTRICTIONS OF SPLIT SYSTEMS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7401 et seq, section 608

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 82 subpart F

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule will include the reconsideration of the sales restriction as it relates to split systems. The Agency was petitioned to reconsider the part of the sales restriction that included the sale of pre-charged split systems. It restricted such sales to certified technicians. Since then, EPA stayed that portion of the sales restriction in response to the petition. It will include the determination of the Agency related to the reconsideration. It addresses environmental problems of ozone-depletion resulting from emissions of CFCs, HCFCs, and other ozone-depleting substances. Through restricting sales of certain precharged items to persons certified as technicians, emissions to the atmosphere are decreased. The impact on small businesses and governments would be negligible, since persons can become certified if the EPA determination is full restriction. Most businesses and governments will have at least one certified technician on board.

Due to the regulatory sunset date, this direct final rule must be promulgated before 5/15/95. EPA hopes to promulgate as early as possible.

Abstract: At industry request, EPA is developing more flexible recycling and recovery standards. Industry also requested that the May 15th sunset date not be sunsetted. WHile we are developing the more flexible regulations, it is necessary to put forth a direct final rule to extend the reclamation standard past the May 15 date. EPA plans to propose the flexible standards in April or May of this year.

These regulations were promulgated on July 21, 1992 (57 FR 32250). Title V also requires EPA to establish a federal permit program where States fail to submit an appropriate State program, fail to adequately implement an approved program, or fail to issue good Title V permits to individual sources. These regulations also address issuance of permits to outer continental shelf sources, acid rain sources and sources located on Tribal lands. This program is established by regulation promulgated in this notice. EPA will approve applications and issue Federal operating permits, as well as enforce the program.

Final, Judicial, June 30, 1995, Consent decree for full program.

Abstract: Section 211(1) of the Clean Air Act (CAA) Amendments of 1990 requires all gasoline sold to the consumer in the United States beginning January 1, 1995 to contain additives to control the formation of motor vehicle engine and fuel system deposits. To accomplish the statute's objectives, EPA proposed a detergent additive certification program which would require testing to demonstrate the effective performance and proper concentration of detergent additives in gasoline. The certification tests were to be vehicle-based test procedures already in use by industry and (at time of the proposal) in the process of being standardized by the American Society for testing and Materials (ASTM). To meet the statute's January 1, 1995 implementation date, while providing sufficient time for finalization of the ASTM test procedures as well as adequate lead time for industry to comply with the certification test requirements, EPA decided to finalize the detergent additive program in two phases. Accordingly, an interim program was finalized in October, 1994, and went into effect on January 1, 1995. The interim program requires all gasoline to contain effective deposit control additives but does not include specific testing and performance requirements. The final rule currently under development will implement detergent additive certification testing and performance standards, and is anticipated to become effective April 1, 1997.

Section 113(f) authorizes the Administrator to prescribe, by regulation, additional criteria for eligibility for such an award. EPA intends that the rule set forth such additional criteria. The rule also describes criteria for assessing the value of information and services when considering paying an award, and what is needed to adequately petition the Administrator for consideration of payment. The rule will also address confidentiality matters; some citizens provide information or services on a confidential basis. Abstract: In accordance with section 112(d)(9) of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990 (CAAA), EPA is considering whether or not to issue a final rule to rescind Subpart I of 40 CFR Part 61, as it applies to facilities licensed by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) or NRC Agreement States which are not engaged in the generation of nuclear power (57 FR 56877, December 1, 1992). Section 112(d)(9) gives EPA the authority to decline to regulate NRC-licensees after the Administrator makes a determination, by rule, and in consultation with the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC), that the regulatory program established by the NRC pursuant to the Atomic Energy Act provides an ample margin of safety to protect the public health. Several issues have arisen since EPA issued the proposal rescission which must be resolved before EPA can make the requisite legal finding pursuant to Section 112(d)(9). EPA has decided that it will not issue the final rescission until after NRC's program is strengthened and provides an ample margin of safety to protect the public health.

An accurate technique for determining capture efficiency (CE) had not been available in the past. This action would add seven methods to determine VOC emissions from stationary sources. These methods can be used to determine CE when used in various combinations.

3677. REVISION OF EPA'S RADIOLOGICAL EMERGENCY RESPONSE PLAN

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: PL 96-295,sec304; EO 12777

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Radiological Emergency Response Plan (RERP) establishes a framework for timely, coordinated EPA action to protect public health and safety and the environment in response to a peacetime radiological incident. The original EPA RERP was approved in 1986. This new revision updates authorities, responsibilities, capabilities, and procedures for implementing effective radiological emergency response actions by EPA Offices. The RERP presents the EPA organizational structure and concept of operations for responding to radiological incidents as a participant in a Federal multi-agency response using the Federal Radiological Emergency Response Plan (FRERP) and the Federal Response Plan (FRP), and independently using the National Oil and Hazardous Substances Pollution Contingency Plan (NCP). This revision incorporates recent changes to the FRERP and NCP, and many other policy updates. In short, this revision ensures that EPA maintains a comprehensive strategy to provide organized, effective assistance to State and local governments in the event of a radiological emergency.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7409; 42 USC 7601(a); 42 USC 7410; 42 USC 7613; 42 USC 7619; 1857G(a) Sec. 15(c)(2)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 50G; 40 CFR 53; 40 CFR 58

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Because of the success in the reduction of ambient lead levels due to the elimination of lead in gasoline and the shift towards focusing on point sources, the Office of Air Quality Planning and Standards (OAQPS) is revising the Part 58 Air Monitoring Regulations for Lead which would allow lead national ambient monitoring stations (NAMS) monitors to be discontinued. At the same time monitoring around point sources will be encouraged, for sources with emissions greater than 5 tons/year. This action is at the direct request of numerous State and local agencies whose NAMS lead monitors are recording values at the minimum detectable (MDL) of the methodology. Since small point sources are so variable in their emissions/impacts, that to prevent over-estimating ambient lead levels, complete sampling coverage is recommended. Complete sampling is defined as continuous or daily sampling. To provide complete everyday sampling at lead point sources at the same relative cost as the current procedure (one sample every 6 days followed by individual filter analysis), the regulation will be modified to allow: (1)use 2 or 3 high-volume samplers at each location; (2)sample for 48 instead of 24 hours; (3)use a convenient continuous sampling schedule, i.e., noon-to-noon or 9a.m.-9a.m., etc.; (4) follow the AREAL approved procedure for compositing up to 8 filters in a single analysis; and (5) report monthly averages which will be averaged together to produce the quarterly concentration to compare with the standard. This rule serves as both a regulation and as a guideline for State and local agencies in establishing and maintaining their ambient air monitoring networks. Much of the language within this rule has not changed since it was originally written in 1979, with a few exception. Because this rule provides guidance as well as regulatory requirements, there are several sections of text that should be updated to reflect current ambient air monitoring information and references.

Legal Deadline: None
In order to assure that state, local, and tribal agencies are still eligible to receive a section 105 air grant in FY 1995, the interim final rule must be in place before October 1, 1994.

Abstract: The purpose of this action is to revise the current air grant regulations contained in 40 CFR 35, subpart A, so that they are consistent to the changes made to section 105 as a result of enactment of the 1990 Clean Air Act. The Act also directed EPA to reexamine and revise, as necessary, certain aspects of the air grant cost-sharing relationship that must now be revised to reflect the impact of: (1) the Title V permit fee provisions contained in 40 CFR 20 and (2) a recent OGC opinion prohibiting the use of Title V fees to help meet the nonfederal contribution requirements of the section 105 air grant program. This revision includes the introduction of a provision to allow recipients to receive (upon demonstration to, and approval by, the Administrator) a waiver from certain cost-sharing requirements for a limited time.

Abstract: The Clean Air Act of 1990 requires EPA to promulgate regulations identifying those provisions of the CAA for which it is appropriate to treat tribes in the same manner as States. For the provisions specified, a Tribe may develop and implement one or more of its own air quality programs. In addition to specifying the CAA provisions for which it is appropriate to treat Tribes in the same manner as States, the rule also establishes the requirements that Indian Tribes must meet if they choose to seek such treatment, and provides for awards of Federal financial assistance to the Tribes.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7411/CAA 111

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 60

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The purpose of this action is to develop standards for regulating non-methane organic compounds (NMOC) emissions from new and modified municpal solid waste (MSW) landfills under Section 111(b). Section 111(d) requires States to develop emission standards for existing landfills based on EPA guidelines. The intended effect of the standards and guidelines is to require certain municipal solid waste landfills to control emissions to the level achievable by the best demonstrated system of continuous emission reduction, considering costs, nonair quality health, and environmental and energy impacts.

EPA is working with landfill owners and operators, including local governments and private owners,, to produce a regulation based on common-sensee techniques, providing maximum flexibility for owners and operators, and achieving the desired emissions reductions in the most cost-effective way. The rule focuses on only the largest soures of emissions, thereby avoiding regulation of small landfills where controls would be inefficient and onerous. The rule also provides complete flexibility to design a control system based on the particular, seite-specific conditions at each landfill.

Abstract: The asbestos processing source category was listed as an area source to be regulated under the Clean Air Act (57 FR 31590). The purpose of this action was to determine whether additional regulation of the asbestos processing source category was needed, and, if needed, to develop maximum achievable control technology (MACT) or generally achievable control technology (GACT) standards for the asbestos processing source category. This source category is comprised of the milling, manufacturing, and fabrication subcategories of the asbestos NESHAP (40 CFR 61). Pollutants to be regulated include asbestos and other HAPs emitted in major amounts by these subcategories. On the basis of new information received during the information collection process, OAR has proposed to remove this source category from the list of source categories to be regulated under section 112. Information on this proposed action can be found in 60 FR 4624.

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act, sec 112 as amended November 1990

Abstract: Cyanide compounds are among the pollutants listed as hazardous air pollutants in Section 112 of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990. As a consequence, the EPA has determined that sources that manufacture cyanide compounds may reasonable be anticipated to emit cyanide compounds in quantities sufficient to qualify them as major sources. Three source categories that either produce hydrogen cyanide or use it in the production of other chemicals, specifically cyanuric chloride and sodium cyanide, are on the initial list of HAP emitting source categories selected for regulation. The results of an initial assessment of the three source categories conducted by the Agency indicated that the facilities comprising each of the three source categories qualify as SOCMI sources. An interim final notice will be prepared proposing the addition of the cyanide chemical manufacturing source categories to the list of SOCMI processes to be regulated under the Hazardous Organic NESHAP.

3697. AMENDMENTS TO PARTS 63 AND 70 TO ESTABLISH PROVISIONS FOR DETERMINING POTENTIAL TO EMIT

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7401 et seq

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 63

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under authority of sections 112 and 114 of the Clean Air Act (Act) Amendments of 1990, provisions are being developed to enable stationary sources to establish federally enforceable controls to limit the "potential to emit" hazardous air pollutants (HAP). These provisions would help sources determine whether they are subject to new Federal air toxics regulations under section 112 and permitting requirements under title V of the Act that apply to sources with the potential to emit air pollutants above a certain threshold. In addition these regulations include provisions that would provide relief to small sources of air pollutants.

This action proposes to amend regulations already established to implement the new Federal air toxics program under section 112, including the General Provisions, and the Federal operating permit program under title V.

This action resulted from splitting of RINs 2060-AC98

In addition, the interim final rule would provide new mechanisms for establishing permanent, federally enforceable limits on a source-specific basis through State rules or programs that are approved by the EPA for this purpose. This rule would: streamline the process for sources to receive approval of emission controls as federally enforceable; reduce the recordkeeping, reporting, and other compliance burdens on section 112 affected sources; and avoid overregulation of facilities that are not true "major sources" of HAPs.

The provisions for determining potential to emit would amend regulations already established to implement the new Federal air toxics program under section 112, including the General Provisions.

This action resulted from splitting of RINs 2060-AC98 and 2060-2918.

Abstract: The Clean Air Act Amendments gives EPA the authority to issue on-the-spot field citations for minor violations of the Clean Air Act, with penalties of up to $5,000 per day of violation. Section 113(d) of the Act requires the field citation program to be implemented through regulations which provide the informal hearing procedures. These hearing procedures are not required to be as rigorous as those imposed by the Administrative Procedures Act (APA), but nevertheless must provide due process. Agency guidance providing appropriate penalties for specific minor violations will be prepared for EPA employees and made available to the regulated community. Training on the issuance of field citations will also be developed.

3699. NEW SOURCE PERFORMANCE STANDARDS (NSPS) AND EMISSION GUIDELINES FOR INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL WASTE INCINERATORS

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act section 129

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 60

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, November 15, 1993. NPRM, Judicial, March 1, 1996. Final, Statutory, November 15, 1994. Final, Judicial, March 1, 1997. Other, Judicial, December 20, 1994.

Abstract: Section 129 of the Clean Air Act Amendments requires the Agency to finalize New Source Performance Standards (NSPS) and Emission Guidelines (EG) for Industrial and Commercial Waste Incinerators (ICWIs). The Agency is under court order to propose NSPS and EG by March 1, 1996 and finalize by March 1, 1997. The Agency has little information on what ICWI sources may be or where they are located. The Agency believes that most incinerators basically operate the same and that the controls for most incinerators are similar. Therefore, unless information is received that leads to consideration of alternative limits, the EPA anticipates using data and information used to develop the Municipal Waste Combustor NSPS and EG to develop the NSPS and EG for ICWIs.

3700. CRITERIA AND PROCEDURES FOR DETERMINING TRANSPORTATION CONFORMITY IN ATTAINMENT AREAS

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7521(a)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 51; 40 CFR 93

Legal Deadline: Final, Judicial, November 7, 1995.

Abstract: This rule would require that transportation plans, programs, and projects funded or approved under title 23 U.S.C. or the Federal Transit Act be found to conform to the State Implementation Plan in certain attainment areas. The concurrence of the Department of Transportation will be required. The preamble to the transportation conformity final rule (which applies to nonattainment and maintenance areas), published November 24, 1993, announced EPA's intent to propose conformity requirements for urbanized attainment areas which have exceeded 85% of the ozone, CO, NO2, PM-10 annual, or PM-10 24-hr standard. Among other things, this rule would act as a planning tool for areas experiencing growth in their ambient air quality levels so that they can design their transportation activities in ways that will ensure that the areas remain in attainment of the national standard.

3701. CONTROL TECHNOLOGY GUIDELINES (CTG)

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act, sec 183(a)

CFR Citation: Not applicable

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, November 1993.

Abstract: The Clean Air Act required EPA to issue control technology guidelines (CTG's) for 13, including two specifically named, source categories by November 15, 1993. The CTG's address volatile organic compounds (VOC) that are precursors to ozone formation. A CTG covering two of the source categories - chemical plant distillation and reactor process vents - was published by that date. Meanwhile, the States were required to develop rules for the CTG source categories by November 15, 1994. The EPA decided to issue Alternative Control Techniques (ACT) documents for the remaining source categories to help the States. ACT's differ from CTG's in that they are information documents only; they do not contain recommended control levels. ACT's were issued for volatile organic liquid storage, batch operations, wastewater operations, cleanup solvents, lithographic printing, coating of plastic parts, shipbuilding and repair coating operations, wood furniture coatings, and autobody refinishing. In addition, hazardous air pollutant rules are being developed for three of the CTG source categories under Section 112 of the Clean Air Act. These three source categories are aerospace manufacture, wood furniture manufacture, and shipbuilding and repair. CTG-related requirements are being addressed in concert with these hazardous air pollutant rulemakings. EPA also plans to write a national rule to limit the amount of VOC contained in coatings sold to autobody refinishing shops.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7521/CAA 202(m)

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Federal On-Board Diagnostic (OBD) final rulemaking section 86.094-17(d), requires that, "If a malfunction has previously been detected, the MIL may be extinguished if the malfunction does not reoccur during three subsequent sequential trips during which engine speed is within 375 rpm, engine load is within 10 percent, and the engine's warm-up status is the same as that under which the malfunction was first detected, and no new malfunctions have been detected." California has adopted the same requirement, but has limited its applicability to fuel system and engine misfire malfunctions while the federal requirement applies to all malfunctions. California allows MIL illumination associated with all other malfunctions to be extinguished after undergoing three subsequent trips without recurrence of the malfunction regardless of undergoing similar engine conditions. In the interest of minimizing the differences between Federal OBD and California OBD II requirements, and because recent information made available to the Agency suggests that limiting similar conditions data storage to misfire and fuel system malfunctions is most appropriate, we intend to issue this rulemaking to require the same similar conditions data storage as required by the OBD II rulemaking.

Abstract: This action will amend the regulations in 40 CFR part 85, Subpart P to allow entry into the U.S. of vehicles which are originally sold in Canada and which are identical to their U.S. counterparts, without obtaining a certificate of conformity from EPA. This action is in response to a petition for review of import rules. The final rule also addresses certain other issues in part 85, subpart P and subpart R, including: 1) formalizing a longstanding EPA policy regarding the importation of owned vehicles that are proven to be identical to a vehicle certified for sale in the U.S., 2) establishing new emission standards applicable to imported nonconforming vehicles, 3) clarifying the regulatory language that concerns exclusions and exemptions from meeting Federal emission requirements, and 4) providing several minor clarifications to the existing regulations.

Abstract: This action will address the availability of nonconformance penalties (NCPs) and specific upper limits and penalty rates for 1998 and later emission standards for heavy-duty vehicles (HDVs) and engines (HDEs). The availability of NCPs will allow a manufacturer of HDVs and HDEs whose vehicle engines fail to conform to certain applicable emission standards, but do not exceed designated upper limits, to be issued a certificate of conformity upon payment of a monetary penalty. The issues involving NCPs, the administration of NCPs, and production compliance audits are addressed.

Legal Authority: PL 101-549, Sec 222; 42 USC 7547

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 91

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Judicial, September 30, 1994. Final, Judicial, November 22, 1995.

Abstract: This action will implement emission standards and test procedures for currently unregulated marine engines. Section 213 of the Clean Air Act (CAA) as amended requires the EPA to conduct a study to determine whether emissions of carbon monoxide (CO), oxides of nitrogen (NOx), and volatile organic compounds (VOCs) from nonroad engines and vehicles contribute to levels of ambient ozone and CO in more than one area not in compliance with the National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS) for these pollutants. EPA has determined (59 FR 31306) that emissions from such sources significantly contribute to nonattainment of the NAAQS for ozone and CO in more than one area. Since the Agency made this positive determination, section 213 requires EPA to promulgate regulations that will result in reductions in emissions from non-road sources. Consequently, EPA is this proposal to reduce emissions from marine engines.

Abstract: This regulatory action establishes NOx emission limitations for Phase I tangentially fired and dry bottom wall-fired boilers (Group I - Section 407(b)(1)) which must be met by January 1, 1995. Emissions limits for all other types of boilers Group II, Section 407(b)(2)), including cyclones and wet bottom wall-fired units, will be effective in 2000 and will be set in a later rulemaking. Boilers from both groups that are listed under Phase II will be subject to their relevant emissions limits after 2000. In addition, the rule will determine conditions of applications for emission averaging and alternative emission limits for both groups of boilers. The final action (59 FR 13538) on Group I Phase I Boilers was vacated by the U.S. Court of Appeals on 11/22/94. An interim final action is expected in April of 1995.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act section 112

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 63

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, November 15, 2000.

Abstract: The Clean Air Act requires EPA to publish an initial list of all categories of major and area sources of hazardous air pollutants (HAPs) listed in Section 112(b) of the Act and to establish and meet dates for promulgation of - emission standards for each of the listed categories of HAP emission sources. The standards are to be technology-based and are to require the maximum degree of emission reduction determined to be achievable by the Administrator. The EPA has determined that paint stripping operations emits at least one of the HAPS listed in Section 112(b) of the Act, specifically methylene chloride. As a result, the source category is included on the initial list of HAP - emitting categories scheduled for promulgation within ten years of enactment of the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990. The purpose of this action is to begin a regulatory development program such that any emission standards may be promulgated according to the mandated schedule. Legal Authority: PL 101-549/CAA 112

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 63

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, November 15, 2000.

Abstract: This action will result in the reduction of hazardous air pollutants emitted by the boat manufacturing industry. The most abundant pollutant emitted by this industry is styrene, which is listed as a hazardous air pollutant in the 1990 Clean Air Act. Styrene is classified as a possible human carcinogen. The Agency will study the various hazardous air pollutants emitted by the industry and will evaluate pollution prevention techniques which can reduce emissions from these pollutants. Some of the pollution prevention techniques will result in both lower emissions and a cost savings to the manufacturer. There are likely many small businesses in the boat manufacturing industry, but at this time it is not known how many of these small businesses will be subject to the rule.

3726. • NEW SOURCE PERFORMANCE STANDARDS AND EMISSION GUIDELINES FOR OTHER SOLID WASTE INCINERATORS

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: Clean Air Act section 129

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 60

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 129 of the Clean Air Act of 1990 requires the Agency to promulgate New Source Performance Standards (NSPS) and Emission Guidelines (EG) for solid waste incinerators. Section 129 specifically required the Administrator to publish a schedule for regulating Other Solid Waste Incinerators (OSWI). A notice in the Federal Register was published on November 2, 1993 that announced that the Administrator would promulgate OSWI standards by November 15, 2000. The notice also listed what classes of incinerators would be covered by the OSWI standards. Because it is believed that these OSWI emit significant amounts of air pollution that cause public health and environmental problems, the Administrator intends to promulgate the NSPS and EG of OSWI in accordance with section 129. Standards will be set for the following pollutants: particulate matter, opacity, sulfur dioxide, hydrogen chloride, oxides of nitrogen, carbon monoxide, lead cadmium, mercury, and dioxins and dibenzofurans.

3764. REPORTABLE QUANTITY ADJUSTMENTS FOR CARBAMATES

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: PL 96-510, sec 102(a); PL 99-499

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 302

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA has listed carbamate waste streams as hazardous wastes under the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA). RCRA listed wastes, by statute, automatically become hazardous substances under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA) and are assigned a one pound statutory reportable quantity (RQ) unless EPA adjusts them. These substances also become subject to reporting requirements under the Emergency Planning and Community Right to Know Act (EPCRA) with a one pound threshold. EPA, in this action, will propose RQ adjustments for the carbamates. Most RQ adjustments are expected to be greater than one pound. Raising the RQs for these substances would decrease the burden on 1) the regulated community for complying with the reporting requirements under CERCLA and EPCRA; 2) Federal, State, and local authorities for program implementation; and 3) Federal, State, or local authorities, if they release hazardous substances at the RQ level or greater.

Abstract: This action proposes to revise the sites included on the National Priorities List (NPL) of uncontrolled waste sites in the National Contingency Plan (NCP). CERCLA requires that the Agency revise the NPL at least annually. Periodic revisions will allow EPA to include sites on the NPL with known or threatened hazardous substance releases and to delete sites that have been cleaned up.

EPA—CERCLA — Final Rule Stage

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 302.6(c); 40 CFR 355.40(a)(2)(vi)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule affects the requirement in Superfund and the Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act that facilities immediately report to state, local and federal authorities the release of a hazardous substances in an amount that equals or exceeds a "reportable quantity." In 1989, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) set reportable quantities for radionuclides (a category of hazardous substances) by regulation. In that same rule, EPA also established four exemptions to the general reporting requirement, to exclude from it certain releases of naturally occurring radionuclides for which the government does not need reports. These exemptions are for releases from: (1) large land holdings; (2) disturbances of land for purposes other than mining; (3) the dumping of coal and coal ash at utility and industrial facilities with coal-fired boilers; and (4) coal and ash piles at those facilities.

Later, a court ruled that the Agency had promulgated the four exemptions without giving the public opportunity to comment. The Agency subsequently provided the opportunity for public notice and comment on these exemptions. Based on those comments, the Agency is now seeking further comments on the possibility of broadening the exemptions. Depending upon the Agency's analysis of comments received, it could either reaffirm or modify the exemptions. Modification of the exemptions would further reduce the burden on facilities which must report, and on the State and local authorities which must receive and evaluate reports to determine whether reported releases pose a threat to human health and the environment.

Abstract: EPA is adjusting the reportable quantities (RQs) for approximately 230 chemicals on the extremely hazardous substance (EHS) list under section 302 of the Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act. This modification is to make these RQs consistent with the methodology under section 103 of the Comprehensisve Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act (CERCLA). EPA is also correcting errors found in studies used to place the chemicals on the EHS list. The original list became final in the Federal Register on April 22, 1987 (52 FR 13378).

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY (EPA) — Proposed Rule Stage

General

3776. FINAL GUIDELINES FOR CARCINOGEN RISK ASSESSMENT

Priority: Other

Legal Authority: None. This rule is for guidance only.

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Agency will use these guidelines to evaluate suspect carcinogens in line with the policies and procedures established in the statutes administered by the EPA. These guidelines revise and replace EPA Guidelines for Carcinogen Risk Assessment published at 51 FR 33992, September 24, 1986. These guidelines provide EPA staff and decision-makers with the directions and perspectives necessary to develop and use risk assessments. The guidelines also provide the general public with basic information about the Agency's approaches to risk assessment.

To develop guidelines the Agency must find a balance between consistency and innovation. Consistent risk assessments provide consistent bases to support regulatory decision-making. On other hand, innovation is necessary so the Agency will base its decisions on current scientific thinking. In balancing these and other science policies, the Agency relies on input from the general scientific community through established scientific peer review processes. The guidelines incorporate basic principles and science policies based on evaluation of the currently available information. The revisions place increased emphasis on the role of carcinogenic mechanisms in risk assessment and clearer explication of underlying assumptions in risk assessment.

These Guidelines will have minimal to no impact on small businesses or state, local, and tribal governments.

3777. PROPOSED GUIDELINES FOR ECOLOGICAL RISK ASSESSMENT

Priority: Other

Legal Authority: None. This rule is for guidance only.

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed Guideline for Ecological Risk Assessment is intended to guide Agency evaluations of ecological risks in line with the policies and procedures established in the statutes administered by EPA. These Guidelines set forth principles and procedures to guide EPA scientists in the conduct of Agency risk assessments and to inform Agency decision makers and the public about these procedures. In particular, the Guidelines expand on the general ecological risk assessment process described in the Agency report"Framework for Ecological Risk Assessment," (EPA/630/R-92/001) and covers a broad range of ecological concerns. The Guideline stresses the need for sound initial planning of the ecological risk assessment as well as appropriate characterization of the risks, including identification of the major assumptions, uncertainties, and limitations of the assessment.

These guidelines will have minimal to no impact on small businesses or state, local and tribal governments.

3778. • GUIDELINES FOR NEUROTOXICITY RISK ASSESSMENT

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: None. This rule is for guidance only.

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: These proposed Guidelines for Neurotoxicity Risk Assessment (hereafter "Guidelines") are intended to guide Agency evaluation of suspect neurotoxicants in line with the policies and procedures established in the statutes administered by the EPA. These Guidelines set forth principles and procedures to guide EPA scientists in the conduct of Agency risk assessments and to inform Agency decision makers and the public about these procedures. In particular, the Guidelines emphasize that risk assessments will be conducted on a case-by-case basis, giving full consideration to all relevant scientific information. This case-by-case approach means that Agency experts study scientific information on each chemical under review and use the most scientifically appropriate interpretation to assess risk. The Guidelines also stress that this information will be fully presented in Agency risk assessment documents, and that Agency scientists will identify the strengths and weaknesses of each assessment by describing uncertainties, assumptions, and limitations, as well as the scientific basis and rationale for each assessment.

Priority: Other

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6961(b)(2)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 22.37(g)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In October 1992, Congress passed the FFCA which amended the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA). The FFCA provided EPA with administrative order authority. When issuing these orders, EPA will use the 40 CFR section 22 hearing procedures. In the part 22 procedures, Sections 31 and 32, the Environmental Appeals Board (EAB) issues a final order. However, in the FFCA, Congress stated that no order would be final until the Federal agency has an opportunity to confer with the Administrator. As the procedures are currently structured, the Federal agency only gets the opportunity to confer after appealing to the EAB. Thus, there is a direct contradiction between the rules promulgated and the FFCA. We would propose an amendment to state that, in the case of a Federal agency, an EAB order is not final for purposes of the FFCA.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 29 USC 628, sec 115, Civil Rights Act of 1991

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1626

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 115 of the Civil Rights Act of 1991 deleted references to the Portal to Portal Act from the private suit provisions of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA) and replaced them with a requirement that suit be filed no later than 90 days after termination of proceedings or dismissal of a charge by EEOC. Accordingly, section 1626.7(a) is being deleted and section 1626.15(b) is being revised because they were both based upon the Portal to Portal Act. New sections are being added concerning termination of EEOC proceedings and the issuance of notices of the new 90-day limitation period.

Abstract: Under title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the ADEA and the ADA, certain staff members of State and local elected officials were exempt from protection against employment discrimination. Section 321 of the Government Employee Rights Act of 1991 extends employment discrimination protections to the employment of persons who have been chosen or appointed by a State or local elected public official to serve on his or her personal staff, to serve the elected official on the policymaking level, or to serve as an immediate advisor with respect to the exercise of the constitutional or legal powers of the official's office.

Section 320 of the Government Employee Rights Act of 1991 extends protection to certain presidential appointees who were not otherwise protected under the ADEA, title VII, or the ADA. Section 320 does not cover individuals whose appointment is made by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, advisory committee members or members of the uniformed services. These are procedural regulations for processing such complaints of discrimination by previously exempt or uncovered individuals.

Abstract: Passive environmental tobacco smoke has been classified as a Class A human carcinogen by EPA. Current FPMRs ban smoking in GSA-controlled buildings, except in designated smoking areas determined by the occupant agency head. In view of EPA's classification of passive smoke as a carcinogen, legislation has been introduced in the Congress to ban smoking in Federal buildings and an Executive order is being considered to also ban smoking in the executive branch. Upon enactment of legislation or issuance of an Executive order, GSA will revise current policy to address the EPA findings.

NASA's regulatory agenda describes those regulations being considered for development or amendment by NASA, the need and legal basis for the actions being considered, the name and telephone number of a knowledgeable official, whether a regulatory analysis is required, and the status of regulations previously reported.

ADDRESSES: Director, Management Assessment Division (Code JM), Office of Management Systems and Facilities, NASA Headquarters, Washington, DC 20546.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Margaret M. Herring, (202) 358-2264.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: OMB guidelines dated August 2, 1995, "October 1995 Regulatory Plan and Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations," and Executive Order 12866 "Regulatory Planning and Review" require a regulatory plan and a regulatory agenda of those regulations under development and review be published in the Federal Register each October. This edition of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations includes The Regulatory Plan, which appears in Part II of this issue of the Federal Register. NASA's Statement of Regulatory Priorities is included in Part II.

Dated: September 12, 1995.

NATIONAL ARCHIVES AND RECORDS ADMINISTRATION (NARA)

NATIONAL ARCHIVES AND RECORDS ADMINISTRATION

36 CFR Ch. XII

Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations

AGENCY: National Archives and Records Administration.

ACTION: Semiannual agenda.

SUMMARY: This agenda announces the proposed regulatory actions that the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) plans for the next 12 months and those actions that have been completed since April 1995. This agenda was developed under the guidelines in OMB's Memorandum for Regulatory Policy Officers at Executive Departments and Agencies and Managing and Executive Directors of Certain Agencies and Commissions, dated August 2, 1995. NARA's purpose in publishing this agenda is to allow interested persons an opportunity to have more comprehensive documentation of NARA's regulatory plans and to provide a systematic means of monitoring regulatory activity in NARA. Some of the regulations listed in the agenda are considered significant under Executive Order 12866 "Regulatory Planning and Review."

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mary Ann Hadyka, Regulatory Contact, Policy and Planning Division, (301) 713-6730.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: For this edition of the National Archives and Records Administration's regulatory agenda, the most important significant regulatory actions are included in The Regulatory Plan, which appears in Part II of this issue of the Federal Register. Unified Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Federal Council on the Arts and the Humanities, NFAH.

ACTION: Publication of the unified agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: Pursuant to the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601-612, and Executive Order 12866 "Regulatory Planning and Review," dated September 30, 1993, the Federal Council on the Arts and the Humanities is required to publish, in April and October of each year, an agenda of proposed regulations that the Council has issued or expects to issue and current rules that are under agency review.

3948. INDEMNITIES UNDER THE ARTS AND ARTIFACTS INDEMNITY ACT

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 20 USC 971 to 977

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 1160

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Arts and Artifacts Indemnity Act authorizes the Federal Council on the Arts and the Humanities to enter into indemnification agreements for exhibitions of items determined by the Federal Council to be of educational, cultural, historical, or scientific value, the exhibition of which is certified by the Director of the United States Information Agency as being in the national interest. The regulations permit the indemnification of eligible items from outside the United States while on exhibition in the United States. However, under current regulations, U.S.-owned loans may be indemnified only when exhibited abroad.

The Federal Council is considering an amendment that would permit the indemnification of eligible items from the United States while in this country in connection with an exhibition of eligible items from outside of the United States. The proposal is not intended to bring about a major shift in emphasis of the current policy or practice of the indemnity program. Specifically, exhibitions consisting solely of domestic items on exhibition within the United States would continue to be ineligible for indemnification.

3966. RISK-BASED CAPITAL

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 12 USC 4611; 12 USC 4513(b)(1)

CFR Citation: 12 CFR ch 17

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, December 1, 1994.

Abstract: Title XIII of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1992, Pub. L. No. 102-550, known as the Federal Housing Enterprises Financial Safety and Soundness Act of 1992, 12 USC 4501 et seq., gives the Office of Federal Housing Enterprise Oversight (OFHEO) the responsibility for developing a risk-based capital regulation for the Federal National Mortgage Association and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (collectively, the Enterprises). To discharge this responsibility, OFHEO must develop and implement a risk-based capital "stress test" that determines the amount of capital that an Enterprise must hold initially to maintain positive capital throughout a ten-year period of economic stress (stress period).

An advance notice of proposed rulemaking solicited public comment on a variety of issues prior to the publication of a proposed rule. The comment period ended on May 9, 1995. OFHEO will consider the comments in developing its proposed regulation. The proposed regulation will include a discussion of the basis for calculating appropriate default and severity rates to apply during the stress period. The proposed regulation will also discuss OFHEO's housing price index which will be proposed to be used to calculate the seasoning of mortgages. A subsequent second proposed regulation will include the details of all other aspects of the risk-based capital stress test.

Proposed Rule Stage

Abstract: Proposed regulation will interpret section 208(a) of title 18, U.S.C., which prohibits officers and employees of the executive branch from officially participating personally and substantially in a particular matter in which there is a personal financial interest or a financial interest of a related person or organization (absent a waiver under 18 U.S.C. 208(b)). It will also list and describe interests which are considered to be too remote or too inconsequential to affect the integrity of the services of executive branch officers or employees, in accordance with 18 U.S.C. 208(b)(2). Such interests will be exempt from the restrictions of 18 U.S.C. 208(a), generally requiring disqualification. The proposed regulation will also provide guidance to executive branch agencies as to the kinds of interests that are not so substantial as to be deemed likely to affect the integrity of the services the Government may expect from an employee and which, therefore, may be waived from the general rule of disqualification under 18 U.S.C. 208(a) pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 208(b)(1). In addition, guidance will be provided concerning the issuance of waivers to special Government employee advisory committee members pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 208(b)(3). A separate interim final rule has been published exempting certain Financial interests arising from Federal Government executive branch employment as well as from Social Security or veterans' benefits, from the general prohibition in Section 208(a).

Abstract: Interpretive regulation giving guidance for the executive branch on the various substantive restrictions of the current version of the post-Government employment conflict of interest statute 18 U.S.C. 207, which became effective January 1, 1991, pursuant to title I of the Ethics Reform Act of 1989 (Pub. L. 101-194), as amended. Parts of the regulation, dealing with procedures for waivers by the Office of Government Ethics of certain senior official constraints (based on executive agency hardship), designated senior employees, and separate agency designations, have already been published in the Federal Register; such designations are periodically updated by the Office of Government Ethics. The Office of Governments Ethics also has continued to publish in the CFR the interpretive regulation, 5 CFR part 2637 (but now without the no-longer-effective former Senior Employee and old agency component designation listings), under the lifetime bar of the prior version of the post-employment law which still applies to executive branch employees who left the Government before January 1, 1991. Once a complete current post-employment law regulation is published, the old part 2637 regulation will be removed from the CFR.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET (OMB)

OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET

5 CFR Ch. III and 48 CFR Ch. 99

Federal Regulations; OMB Circulars, OFPP Policy Letters, and CASB Cost Accounting Standards Included in the Semiannual Agenda of Federal Activities

AGENCY: Office of Management and Budget.

ACTION: Publication of semiannual agenda.

SUMMARY: The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) is publishing its semiannual agenda of upcoming activities for OMB Circulars, Office of Federal Procurement Policy (OFPP) Policy Letters, and Cost Accounting Standards Board (CASB) Cost Accounting Standards.

OMB Circulars and OFPP Policy Letters are published in accordance with OMB's internal procedures for implementing Executive Order No. 12866 (October 4, 1993; 58 FR 51735). OMB policy guidelines are issued under authority derived from several sources including: Subtitles I, II, and V of title 31, United States Code; Executive Order No. 11541; and other specific authority as cited. OMB Circulars and OFPP Policy Letters communicate guidance, instructions, and information of a continuing nature to executive branch agencies. As such, most OMB Circulars and OFPP Policy Letters are not regulations. Nonetheless, because these issuances are typically of public interest, they are generally published in the Federal Register in both proposed (for public comment) and final stages. For this reason, they are presented below in the standard format of "prerule," "proposed rule," and "final rule" stages.

CASB Cost Accounting Standards are issued under authority derived from 41 U.S.C. 422. Cost Accounting Standards are rules governing the measurement, assignment, and allocation of costs to contracts with the United States Government.

For purposes of this agenda, we have excluded directives that outline procedures to be followed in connection with the President's budget and legislative programs and directives that affect only the internal functions, management, or personnel of Federal agencies.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: See agency person listed for each entry in the agenda, c/o Office of Management and Budget, Washington, DC 20503. On the overall agenda, contact John B. Arthur, (202) 395-3060, at the above address.

Dated: October 11, 1995.

Office of Management and Budget.

John B. Arthur,

Associate Director for Administration.

Abstract: Proposal would give agencies and employees more flexibility by clarifying agency authority to schedule part-time employees on a pay period rather than a weekly basis. The proposal would also define job sharing, a form of part-time employment and would eliminate duplicative material. In addition, in keeping with the NPR initiative to eliminate duplicative appointing authorities, the proposal would combine the on-call and seasonal authorities into a single seasonal authority and would expand that authority to give agencies more flexibility to handle reasonably predictable workload fluctuations.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 5 USC 8151; 38 USC 4301

CFR Citation: 5 CFR 353

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Office of Personnel Management is issuing interim regulations on the restoration rights of Federal employees who leave their employment to perform duty with the uniformed services. These regulations complement the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994 now codified in Chapter 43 of Title 38, United States Code. The new law clarifies, expands, and strengthens the rights and benefits of applicants and employees, alters the appeals procedures of Federal employees and provides Department of Labor assistance to Federal employees in assisting their reemployment rights. The law also required OPM to place certain returning employees when their former agency's determine that it is "impossible or unreasonable" to reemploy them. Although the sections have been renumbered and in some cases renamed, there is no substantive change in the regulations governing the restoration rights of employees who sustain compensable injuries.

Abstract: With the abolishment in December 1993 of the Federal Personnel Manual (FPM), certain policies and procedures enunciated in the FPM must be considered for publication in another format. Since all of these policies and procedures are important to continued program operations, some of them will be published in pamphlets for users and other more significant items will be incorporated in the Code of Federal Regulations. The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) has determined that these regulations are significant and require OMB review prior to publication. However, we see no significant issues arising from implementation of these changes.

PENSION BENEFIT GUARANTY CORPORATION (PBGC)

PENSION BENEFIT GUARANTY CORPORATION

29 CFR Ch. XXVI

Agenda of Regulations Under Development

AGENCY: Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation (PBGC).

ACTION: Agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: This document sets forth the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation's regulatory agenda issued under Executive Order 12866 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act. The agenda lists regulations that are currently under development or review or that PBGC expects to have under development or review during the next 12 months. The effect of this agenda is to advise the public of PBGC's current and future regulatory activities.

ADDRESSES: Office of the General Counsel, Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation, 1200 K Street NW., Washington, DC 20005-4026.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information on the agenda in general, contact Harold J. Ashner, Assistant General Counsel, Office of the General Counsel, (202) 326-4024. For information about a specific regulation project listed on the agenda, contact the person designated in the agenda for that regulation.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Under the President's order on Regulatory Planning and Review, Executive Order 12866 (58 FR 51735, October 4, 1993), each agency is required to prepare an agenda of all regulations under development or review. The Regulatory Flexibility Act, Public Law 98-354, 5 U.S.C. 601, has a similar agenda requirement. Under that law, the agenda must list any regulation that is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

The Office of Management and Budget has issued guidelines prescribing the form and content of the regulatory agenda. Under those guidelines, the agenda must list all regulatory activities being conducted or reviewed in the next 12 months and provide certain specified information on each regulation. All of the items on this agenda are current or projected rulemakings.

This edition of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations includes The Regulatory Plan, which appears in Part II of this issue of the Federal Register. The Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation's Statement of Regulatory Priorities is included in Part II.

Martin Slate,

Executive Director, Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation.

4123. MERGERS AND TRANSFERS BETWEEN MULTIEMPLOYER PLANS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1411

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2672

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: ERISA section 4231 sets basic guidelines for mergers and transfers between multiemployer plans, including a provision for a 120-day notice to the PBGC. The PBGC's regulation on Mergers and Transfers Between Multiemployer Plans contains implementing rules. Neither the statute nor the regulation makes clear whether or how the merger and transfer rules apply where one or more of the plans involved is terminated. This regulation would amend 29 CFR part 2672 to clarify its application to mergers and transfers involving one or more terminated multiemployer plans and to specify the criteria that a merger or transfer involving terminated plans must satisfy in order to protect participants and beneficiaries in the affected plans, as well as the PBGC, from risk of loss as a result of the merger or transfer. The regulation would also liberalize the 120-day notice requirement for all multiemployer mergers and transfers so that such transactions can proceed more expeditiously.

4124. FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE TO MULTIEMPLOYER PLANS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1431

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: ERISA section 4261(a) provides that the PBGC shall pay financial assistance to insolvent multiemployer plans described in sections 4245(f) and 4281(d) who submit an application for the payment of assistance. The PBGC's regulation on Powers and Duties of Plan Sponsor of Plan Terminated by Mass Withdrawal (29 CFR part 2675) specifies the information that plans described in section 4281(d) (i.e., a plan terminated by the withdrawal of all employers) are required to submit in their application for financial assistance; however, the PBGC has not prescribed regulations specifying the information that a plan subject to section 4245(f) (i.e., a plan that has not terminated by the withdrawal of all employers) is required to file. This regulation would, among other things, (1) specify the information for applications for financial assistance from plans described in section 4245(f); (2) incorporate and revise, as appropriate, the requirements in 29 CFR part 2675 that relate to applications for financial assistance for plans described in section 4281(d); and (3) specify the obligation of the sponsor of a plan that has applied for financial assistance to maintain and make available to the PBGC plan records and other information necessary for the PBGC to determine the plan's eligibility for financial assistance and where assistance has been provided, that such funds have been used solely for the purposes of paying guaranteed benefits and reasonable administrative expenses.

4125. DISCLOSURE AND AMENDMENT OF RECORDS UNDER THE PRIVACY ACT

Priority: Other

Legal Authority: 5 USC 552a

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2607

Abstract: The PBGC is dividing one of its systems of records that are subject to the Privacy Act into two systems, and therefore proposing to amend its regulations to describe accurately the pertinent exemption from statutory provisions under the systems of records as so modified. In addition, the PBGC is proposing amendments to reflect its current organization and to increase its standard copying fee (which has not been modified since 1975). The proposed rule also will include several editorial changes.

4126. SUBMISSION OF PREMIUM-RELATED INFORMATION

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1306; 29 USC 1307

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2610

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The PBGC's regulation on Payment of Premiums (29 CFR part 2610) currently requires plan administrators to retain, for six years, all records necessary to support or validate premium payments and to make those records available to the PBGC, upon request, for inspection and photocopying. The PBGC intends to propose amendments to provide for the submission to the PBGC of information in those records and for the supplementation of information submitted in premium filings. By improving the PBGC's ability to tailor its decisionmaking to the variety of situations presented by the administration of premium requirements, the PBGC expects these changes to increase the agency's efficiency and effectiveness.

4127. GUARANTEED BENEFITS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1322

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2613

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under ERISA section 4022, the PBGC guarantees the payment of certain nonforfeitable benefits under single-employer plans that terminate without sufficient assets to fund such benefits. Part 2613 of the PBGC's regulations describes the benefits that are guaranteed, the limitations on the guarantee, and the manner in which guaranteed benefits are paid.

This regulation would amend part 2613 to make it clear the PBGC determines whether a participant is entitled to a guarantee of his or her benefit under a terminated plan based on the participant's age, length of service, disability, or death as of the plan's termination date, rather than as of the day before that date.

4130. AMENDMENTS TO VALUATION OF PLAN BENEFITS (REA, SEPPAA, AND PPA)

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1341

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2619

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Retirement Equity Act of 1984 ("REA") requires plans to provide certain benefits, prohibits the elimination of benefit options and certain early retirement benefits and retirement type subsidies, and mandates the range of interest rates that may be used in calculating the amount of a non-consensual lump sum benefit. The Tax Reform Act of 1986 ("TRA '86") slightly modified the interest rate restrictions and extended them to the calculation of all lump sum benefits.

These rules necessitate several amendments to the PBGC's valuation of benefits regulation (29 CFR part 2619).

The PBGC also plans to amend the regulation to reflect changes in the termination rules made by the Single-Employer Pension Plan Amendments Act of 1986 (SEPPAA) and the Pension Protection Act of 1987 (PPA).

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1301 et seq

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Statutory amendments to various provisions of ERISA have modified rules that underlie certain PBGC regulations. The PBGC has undertaken several projects that address the effects of a number of these amendments. This rulemaking will address others. In particular, it will amend the regulations to reflect changes made by the Retirement Protection Act of 1994 that are not the subject of other PBGC rulemakings. These include amendments to the rules for determining the variable rate portion of the premium payable by certain single-employer plans (see ERISA section 4006(a)(3)) and to the rules under which the PBGC issues notices of noncompliance with standard termination requirements (see ERISA section 4041(b)(2)).

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1343

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2615 subpart A

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Retirement Protection Act of 1994 amended the reportable event requirements in ERISA section 4043 by: (1) applying to contributing sponsors (as well as plan administrators) the requirement to notify the PBGC of a reportable event within 30 days after a person knows or has reason to know of its occurrence; (2) specifying four additional types of events for which notice is required (except as waived by the PBGC); and (3) requiring that, under limited circumstances, a contributing sponsor must notify the PBGC in advance of the occurrence of an event specified in the RPA or prescribed by PBGC regulations. This rule will amend the PBGC's reportable event regulations to implement these statutory changes. The rulemaking will also consider when notice should be required in various situations that may indicate the need to terminate a plan.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b); 29 USC 1350

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: ERISA section 4050, added by the Retirement Protection Act of 1994, provides for a procedure whereby the plan administrator of a terminating single-employer plan could give the PBGC information about any missing participant and either transfer the participant's benefits to the PBGC or annuitize the benefits, and the PBGC would pay the benefits, or give the participant the information needed to obtain payment of the annuity, if and when the participant was located or reappeared. The PBGC is required to issue implementing regulations covering the amount to be paid by the plan to the PBGC and by the PBGC to the participant, as well as what steps plan administrators are to take in searching for participants. The purpose of the proposed regulations is to provide standards and procedures for carrying out the new missing participants provision.

Abstract: The PBGC's standard termination regulations (29 CFR part 2617) provide rules and procedures plan administrators must follow to terminate a defined benefit pension plan that has sufficient assets to pay all benefit obligations to participants at the time of termination. CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2610

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under sections 4006 and 4007 of ERISA, the PBGC has issued its regulation governing the payment of premiums for pension plans subject to Title IV of ERISA (29 CFR part 2610). PBGC studies of ways to simplify premium calculation and filing and to improve premium processing and accounting by PBGC have yielded suggestions for changes in that regulation. As a result, the PBGC has issued a proposed regulation to implement certain changes, relating mainly to filing due dates, treatment of short plan years, simplification of the alternative calculation method, and premium payment requirements for large plans (including what plans are considered large plans for this purpose). The purpose of the changes would be primarily to simplify the premium payment system for plans and the PBGC.

4136. REORGANIZING AND RENUMBERING OF REGULATIONS

Priority: Other

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1301 et seq

CFR Citation: 29 CFR ch XXVI; 29 CFR ch XL

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule will reorganize and renumber the PBGC's regulations to track the statutory provisions to which they relate so as to make it easier for the public to locate regulations implementing particular statutory provisions. The other agencies with significant regulatory responsibilities in the pension area (the Internal Revenue Service and the Department of Labor) already track statutory provisions in numbering their regulations, and practitioners are therefore accustomed to searching for pension regulations under statute-based numbering systems.

Abstract: ERISA section 4010, added by the Retirement Protection Act of 1994, requires that contributing sponsors of certain underfunded single-employer plans and members of their controlled groups provide the PBGC, annually by a date specified in PBGC regulations, with: (1) records, documents, or other information that PBGC regulations specify as necessary to determine the liabilities and assets of plans covered by the termination insurance program, and (2) copies of their financial statements and other financial information as PBGC regulations may prescribe. This rule will include the implementing regulations anticipated by section 4010. The rulemaking will address many of the same types of information as would be addressed in the PBGC's separate rulemaking on plan funding information (see RIN 1212-AA70), and the PBGC has therefore decided not to proceed at this time with that separate rulemaking.

4141. ANNUITY CONTRACTS DISTRIBUTED BY TERMINATING PLANS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b); 29 USC 1341(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2617

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: ERISA section 4041(b) requires terminating plans to provide benefits that are payable in annuity form by purchasing and distributing to plan participants (or beneficiaries) irrevocable commitments from an insurer to pay the annuity benefits. Once the final distribution of assets in accordance with section 4041(b) is completed, PBGC's guarantee under ERISA section 4022 is extinguished.

Under ERISA section 4041(b), the only specific requirement dealing with irrevocable commitments distributed upon plan termination is that they be purchased from a licensed insurance company. (Such purchases are, of course, subject generally to the fiduciary provisions of Title I of ERISA.) Publicity about financial problems within the insurance industry and, specifically, about the serious problems of a few insurers, has sparked concerns about the security of pension annuities that are being, or will be, paid by an insurer pursuant to an irrevocable commitment. PBGC (with the Department of Labor) has been studying this issue.

As part of this ongoing study, PBGC issued an ANPRM in order to solicit comments and suggestions from the public.

4142. NOTICE OF STATE GUARANTY COVERAGE OF ANNUITIES

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1341; 29 USC 1344

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2617

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under title IV of ERISA, a single-employer plan covered by the termination insurance program may terminate in a "standard termination" if the plan has assets sufficient to provide for all benefit liabilities under the plan. The termination process is complete, and the PBGC's guarantee is extinguished, once the plan administrator distributes benefit liabilities by purchasing "irrevocable commitments" (annuity contracts) from an insurer or by distributing benefits in any other permitted form (generally a lump sum cash payment). The recent and highly publicized financial difficulties of certain insurers have focused public attention on the risks faced by participants whose benefits under terminating plans are to be provided through irrevocable commitments issued by such insurers. Under certain circumstances, state guaranty associations may provide some or all of the benefits otherwise lost. Nevertheless, some participants may not know (1) which state guaranty association(s) (if any) cover(s) their annuities, (2) the amount of coverage by the guaranty association(s), and (3) that a change in state of residence can alter their coverage. This regulation would require plan administrators to provide certain information to participants about state guaranty coverage.

Abstract: The Retirement Protection Act of 1994 added section 4011 of ERISA, which requires plan administrators of certain underfunded plans to provide notice to plan participants and beneficiaries of the plan's funding status and the limits on the PBGC's guarantee should the plan terminate while underfunded. The PBGC regulations interpret the new statutory provision and prescribe the time, form, and manner in which the notice is to be provided. The purpose of the regulations is to ensure that participants and beneficiaries in underfunded plans are provided with meaningful, understandable, and timely information about their plan's funding status and their potential exposure in the event their plan terminates.

Part XLIII

Small Business Administration

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION (SBA)

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

13 CFR Ch. I

Improving Government Regulations; Semiannual Agenda

AGENCY: Small Business Administration.

ACTION: Publication of the semiannual agenda of regulations under review or development by the Small Business Administration (SBA).

SUMMARY: This is SBA's 33rd semiannual agenda of regulations. Although SBA is not a regulatory agency, it has attempted to draft agendas that met both the criteria and the spirit of the regulatory review process. This agenda is published pursuant to Executive Order 12866, the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., and Public Law 96-354, effective January 1, 1981.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information on agenda items, SBA encourages the public to contact the individual agency official listed for the particular item.

For information concerning SBA's overall Regulatory Review and Development Program or general semiannual agenda questions, contact Martin D. Teckler, Deputy General Counsel, U.S. Small Business Administration, 409 Third Street SW., Washington, DC 20416, (202) 205-6642.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This SBA agenda highlights the agency's ambitious program to streamline its present and prospective regulatory activity. In response to President Clinton's regulatory review initiative, SBA completed a page-by-page, line-by-line review of all its existing regulations to determine which should be revised or eliminated. As a result, SBA proposes to reduce the overall length of its regulations by over 50 percent while making them more effective, consistent, and understandable.

The SBA agenda contains many regulations that are limited in public impact, but they are included to increase public knowledge of all SBA regulatory activities and allow for increased public participation in the review and development process. Public comments on SBA's previous agendas have been general, and all were positive. They were not directed at specific content nor were any changes suggested or recommended.

The SBA agenda format has three parts. Part I, Proposed Rules, includes rulemakings that will be proposed during the 12-month period covered by the agenda. Part II, Final Rules, includes proposed rules that will be finalized during the period covered by the agenda. Part III, Completed Actions, includes regulations completed or withdrawn and reviews completed since the preceding agenda. This edition of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations includes The Regulatory Plan, which appears in Part II of this issue of the Federal Register. The SBA's Statement of Regulatory Priorities is included in Part II.

Publication of the agenda does not impose any binding obligation on SBA with regard to any specific item in the agenda. Additional regulatory action not listed on the agenda is not precluded.

The SBA's regulations will be developed in a manner that promotes growth in the economy while imposing no unnecessary regulatory burdens on the public. The SBA's regulatory streamlining initiative promotes this goal by improving the Agency's ability to provide services quickly and at minimum cost to its small business customers.

Dated: September 25, 1995.

Philip Lader,

Administrator.

4180. BUSINESS LOAN POLICY; CARE AND PRESERVATION OF COLLATERAL (CPCS)

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 15 USC 631; 41 USC 403(11)

CFR Citation: 13 CFR 120.200

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 5(b)(4) of the Small Business Act sets a limit of $1,000 on the amount of CPC which can be obtained without competitive bid. This section was based on procurement legislation which was in effect at the time the Act was drafted (40 years ago). Since then, the amount contained in procurement regulations has steadily increased. It is currently $25,000. Unfortunately, the Small Business Act was never amended and remains at $1,000. This unrealistic limit greatly impedes the field offices' ability to perform their required tasks efficiently. To correct this oversight and to prevent a recurrence, the end of the second sentence of the Small Business Act will be amended to read ": . . or the amount thereof does not exceed the small purchase threshold as defined in section 4(11) of the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act (41 USC 403(11)." The Agency will use SOP 50 50 1 to set limits on amounts within the small purchase threshold.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 15 USC 631

CFR Citation: 13 CFR 120.200

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In a previous ruling, the Office of General Counsel stated that the Small Business Act limited the Agency's guaranty to loans only. For this reason, when a participating lender servicing a liquidation account finds a term buyer for assets acquired through foreclosure, the Agency is forced to expend funds to purchase the guaranty and establish the account as an immediate participation even if such action is not in the government's best interest. The first sentence of section 5(b)(7) of the Small Business Act will be amended to read "...dealing with or realizing on loans made under the provisions of this Act and receivables relating thereto or emanating therefrom...." The Agency will use SOP 50 51 1 to establish operating parameters for the loan servicing offices.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION (SSA)

SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

Office of the Commissioner

20 CFR Ch. III

Semiannual Unified Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Office of the Commissioner, SSA.

ACTION: Publication of unified agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: Executive Order 12866 entitled "Regulatory Planning and Review," issued September 30, 1993, and the Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980 (Pub. L. 96-354) require each Federal agency to publish (in April and October of each year) a brief description of all regulatory actions then under development or review, expected to be under development or review for the next 12 months, or completed since the previous publication of the agenda. Our last agenda of regulations was published on May 8, 1995.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information about a specific regulatory action, contact the person identified as the agency contact for that action. Comments or inquiries of a general nature should be directed to Ronald J. Sribnik, Regulations Officer, Social Security Administration, 6401 Security Boulevard, Baltimore, MD 21235; telephone (410) 965-2850.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: For this edition of the Social Security Administration's regulatory agenda, the most important significant regulatory actions are included in The Regulatory Plan, which appears in Part II of this issue of the Federal Register. The Regulatory Plan entries are listed in the Table of Contents below and are denoted by a bracketed bold reference, which directs the reader to the appropriate Sequence Number in Part II.

The Social Security Administration has responsibility for the old-age, survivors, and disability insurance programs under title II of the Social Security Act (the Act) and the supplemental security income program under title XVI of the Act. We are not a regulatory agency. For the most part, SSA's regulations do not impose burdens on the private sector or on State or local governments. Our regulations document the rules under which we make eligibility determinations and set forth both the responsibilities of the Agency towards the public and beneficiary's rights and responsibilities under the programs we administer.

Our regulatory efforts can be placed into one of the following three categories: 1) legislative implementation; 2) program improvements to provide better service to SSA customers; and 3) improvements or clarifications to fulfill commitments made as part of the President's Regulatory Reinvention Initiative.

We continue to seek legislative improvements for the programs we administer. However, because of the complexity of our programs, statutory language is rarely detailed enough to govern the actions of agency adjudicative decisionmakers. Supporting regulations are often required. In some instances, the Congress directs SSA to issue implementing regulations. For other legislative provisions, SSA regulations provide program information to applicants for benefits, current beneficiaries, and their legal counsels. Several SSA regulatory items which appear on the Unified Agenda for the first time implement provisions of the Social Security Independence and Program Improvements Act of 1994.

Providing world-class service to our customers is a principal objective of the Social Security Administration. Our regulatory program supports this overarching Agency goal. One of the areas in which we are working hard to deliver high quality service is our disability determination process. Several of our agenda items support improvements to disability program administration. We plan to update many of the medical listings of impairments used in the disability determination process to make them consistent with the latest advances in medicine. Updated listings will facilitate making the correct disability determination as quickly and efficiently as possible. Also, some of the regulatory items support SSA's Disability Redesign Plan. The Disability Redesign aims to streamline our disability determination process and provide better service to applicants for disability benefits.

SSA's regulatory program supports the President's Reinventing Government (REGO II) initiative to create a Federal Government that works better and costs less. We list four regulations which would carry out REGO II initiatives.

Cycling Payment of Social Security Benefits for future beneficiaries is designed to pay social security benefits on several payment dates each month instead of making all the payments on the same date, as is our current practice. The current use of one payment date creates a workload spike each month for SSA, for other Federal agencies, and for financial institutions and other businesses which participate in or depend on issuance of social security benefits. It has become exceedingly difficult for our customers to access our services on or around "check day." Spreading the issuance of payments throughout the month and reducing workload spikes for SSA and others will result in better service to our customers. As a result, our customers will have better access to SSA personnel and services in our field facilities and through use of our national 1-800 teleservice network. Current beneficiaries can expect to continue to receive their benefit payments on the third of each month. The additional payment dates will be assigned to new beneficiaries as their benefit awards are processed.

Two other agenda items support the following REGO II initiatives: Providing "One-Stop" Service for Aliens Applying for Social Security Cards and Promoting "One-Stop" Benefit Applications. The goal of each of these initiatives and the supporting regulations is to streamline service to our customers by improving the efficiency of current processes.

Consistent with the President's Regulatory Reinvention Initiative, we are working diligently to improve our program benefit regulations and to develop partnerships with large segments of the community of stakeholders interested in Social Security programs. Our aim is to clarify or improve over 50 percent of the Code of Federal Regulations pages for which we are responsible. The remainder of our Unified Agenda items are such improvements and clarifications.

The October 1995 regulatory agenda for the Social Security Administration follows.

Dated: September 27, 1995.

Ronald J. Sribnik,

SSA Regulations Officer.

Abstract: On September 20, 1993, the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) published a regulatory change concerning the documents which certify the alien status of a lawful permanent resident within the United States. The change which establishes INS Form I-551, Alien Registration Receipt Card, as the definitive evidence of lawful permanent resident status is effective September 20, 1994. Since aliens who apply for SSI benefits as lawful permanent residents must submit evidence of this status, we are revising the title XVI regulations to reflect the change in the INS regulations. INS delayed the effective date of its regulation until March 1996.

Abstract: In the past several years, portions of the United States have experienced natural disasters that have had unprecedented effects on supplemental security income (SSI) recipients. In August 1992, Hurricane Andrew devastated south Florida causing damage estimated in excess of $18 billion. Because of the extent of the devastation, many SSI recipients in the area were unable to use insurance payments to repair or replace their damaged property within the timeframes provided by regulations at that time. With the expiration of existing timeframes, the payments would have counted as a resource for SSI purposes. On March 17, 1994, the Social Security Administration (SSA) published interim-final regulations which provided victims of Hurricane Andrew with an additional 12-month time period if needed in which to repair or replace their property. These final regulations will provide SSA with the flexibility to consider these types of occurrences and provide individuals with additional time to repair or replace damaged or destroyed excluded resources when certain criteria are met.

Abstract: We revised sections 404.1615 and 416.1015 of the current regulations regarding the certifications required on disability determination forms. Current regulations require that, unless the disability determination is made by a State agency disability hearing officer, disability hearing officer, disability determinations will be made by a team consisting of a State agency medical or psychological consultant and a State agency disability examiner, even when the determination is made on technical, nonmedical grounds. We propose to remove the requirement that a medical or psychological consultant make the determination jointly with the disability examiner when there is no medical evidence to be evaluated.

Abstract: Pursuant to the Court order in Gould, et al. v. Sullivan, No. C2-87-964 (S.D. Ohio, October 2, 1992), we proposed a rule for determining benefits in the SSI program. Under section 1611(c)(4)(A) of the Social Security Act, if the Secretary determines that reliable information is currently available concerning the income and other circumstances of an individual for a month, the Secretary may use that information to determine an individual's SSI benefit amount for that month. This discretionary method of determining SSI benefit amounts is an exception to the use of information from a prior month, known as retrospective monthly accounting (RMA), as provided in section 1611(c)(1) of the Act. The proposed rule explained that the Secretary has determined that no information exists which is reliable and currently available to use in computing SSI benefit amounts pursuant to section 1611(c)(4).

Abstract: These proposed regulations reflect the provisions of section 13733 of Pub. L. 103-66 which allows us to consider, absent evidence to the contrary, an ineligible parent or spouse who is absent from a deeming household due solely to an active duty military assignment, to be living in the same household as the eligible individual for deeming purposes. This will prevent possible adverse SSI effects which could otherwise result when a military deemor is absent from the household.

4276. COMPUTATION OF SSI BENEFITS FOR THE FIRST THREE MONTHS OF PAYMENT (476P)

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1302; 42 USC 1383

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 416.320

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: SSI eligibility and payment are calculated by taking into account income received by the applicant/recipient. Two calculations must be made for each month. The first is the eligibility computation and is based on the current (payment) month's income. The second is the eligibility computation, which, under retrospective monthly accounting, is based (usually) on the income of a prior month called the budget month. Generally the budget month is 2 months prior to the payment month. The transitional computation for the first 3 months of SSI payment is an exception to the general rule described above. While the eligibility computation continues to apply to the current month's income, the budget month on which each of the first 3 months' payments are based is the first month of eligibility. This policy was intended to facilitate the transition into 2 month retrospective accounting cycle and to avoid penalizing the recipient for income received prior to initial SSI eligibility. However, the policy also has the effect of counting income which is only received in one month more than one time. In Jones v. Shalala the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that SSA's transitional computation for the first 3 months of eligibility is not permissible because it will result in the triple counting of nonrecurring income received only in the first month of eligibility. The proposed policy addresses the triple countying of nonrecurring income.

4277. DEFINITION OF "LARGEST BENEFIT AMOUNT" FOR PURPOSES OF DETERMINING THE EARNINGS RECORD ON WHICH A PERSON WHO IS SIMULTANEOUSLY ENTITLED TO CHILD'S INSURANCE BENEFITS (481P)

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Reinventing Government: This rulemaking is part of the Reinventing Government effort. It will revise text in the CFR to reduce burden or duplication, or streamline requirements.

Abstract: Section 202(k)(2)(A) of the Act (42 U.S.C. 402(k)(2)(A)) contains the statutory requirements for determining the earnings record on which SSA will pay a person, who is simultaneously entitled to child's insurance benefits on the earnings records of more than one worker. Generally, the child's benefits will be paid on the earnings record that yields the highest primary insurance amount (PIA). However, under certain circumstances, the child's benefits will be paid on the earnings record that yields a lower PIA if that record produces the "largest benefit" to which the child could be entitled under section 202(d) without the application of the reduction under the "family maximum" provisions. In implementing section 202(k)(2)(A), SSA has determined the "largest benefit" under section 202(k)(2)(A) by comparing the original benefit amount (i.e., 50 percent of the PIA of a living worker and 75 percent of the PIA of a deceased worker) calculated on the dependent and/or survivor claim of the child on the earnings record of each worker without applying any reductions or deductions. The United States District Court for the Northern District of Alabama in Agee v. Sullivan rejected this interpretation and held that SSA must compare the amounts payable to the child under each earnings record after considering all applicable deductions and reductions other than the reduction under the family maximum provisions. Legal support for both interpretations can be found in the statutory language and legislative history of section 202(k)(2)(A). We have found current regulations implementing section 202(k)(2)(A) to be ambiguous. We propose to amend these regulations to reflect the longstanding SSA interpretation, rather than the interpretation adopted by the district court in the Agee decision.

Abstract: Current SSI regulations reflect the concept that deeming (the process of considering another persons income to be your own) applies only in household situations. Currently, children in medical care facilities are not subject to parental deeming because they are not considered to be in the same household as their parents. While maintaining the concept of "household" for deeming purposes, these proposed rules will expand upon current policy from the household and, as a result, subject to parental deeming. This extends the current policy that is applicable to children away at school to children in medical care facilities. That is, a child who is born in or enters a medical care facility and who is subject to the control of a parent will be considered temporarily absent from the parental household. During this absence, deeming will apply.

Abstract: This regulation will implement section 5 of Pub. L. 103-387, the Social Security Domestic Employment Act of 1994 which authorizes SSA to use certain delinquent debt collection procedures available to other Federal agencies, but which were not available to SSA under the Debt Collection Act of 1982. The procedures include reporting delinquent debtors to credit agencies, contracting with private debt collection agencies, and recovering debts by administrative offset of other Federal payments to which the debtor may be entitled. The procedures may be applied only if the overpayment was paid to a person after he or she attained age 18, the debt is not recoverable by other means provided by the Social Security Act, and the debtor is no longer a beneficiary. Authority to use such debt collection procedures sunsets September 30, 1999.

Abstract: We propose to revise our rules on full-time elementary or secondary school students to include students enrolled in home schooling or independent study programs authorized by State or local law, e.g., political subdivision, tribal government, or the District of Columbia. Current rules cover only students in traditional institutional educational settings; however, many States (or other jurisdictions) provide for home schooling and independent study programs considered equivalent to traditional schools. We also propose to clearly show that nonpayment provisions apply to certain prisoners and certain other inmates of publicly funded institutions who otherwise would meet student benefit requirements. In addition, we propose to remove outdated rules on student benefits relating to months before August 1982.

Abstract: We propose to revise our rules on reduction of Social Security benefits based on disability on account of receipt of workers' compensation or public disability benefits provided under Federal (other than Social Security), State, or local laws or plans. We will clarify how we subtract medical, legal, or related expenses from settlement agreements and how we subsequently prorate the reduction of SSA disability benefits. We also propose to update provisions that have not been changed since 1984 and to remove many outdated, unnecessary computation examples. This revision should result in better understanding and smoother administration of this portion of the regulations.

Abstract: Under this process we will explore the development of a controlled, confidential electronic process by which employees at large companies can quickly file for retirement and/or Medicare through their company personnel office. This option would allow workers to apply for a company pension, social security, and health benefits all at one time and in one place. SSA is currently assessing the interest of companies and organizations in participating in such a process.

Abstract: The Social Security Administration issues listings of impairments to evaluate disability and blindness under the Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) programs. This rule extends the expiration date for the adult mental disorders listings. We have made no revisions to the medical criteria in the listings; they remain the same as they now appear in the Code of Federal Regulations. This extension will ensure that we continue to have medical evaluation criteria in the listings to adjudicate claims for disability based on mental impairments at step three of our sequential evaluation process.

Abstract: These revisions to 44.302(a) and 52.244-2 are a result of recommendations submitted in response to the FARC's request for industry's views and are as follows: (1) The threshold for performing CPSR's was raised from $10 million to $25 million to recognize the effects of inflation on this threshold. The raised threshold will reduce the administrative burden on both the contractor and Government by reducing the number of reviews. (2) The $10,000 threshold in the clause was raised to $25,000 for notification to the contracting officer on proposed subcontracts involving fabrication, purchase, rental, installation, or other acquisition of special test equipment or any items of facilities to recognize increased cost of equipment and effects of inflation. (3) We also raised the threshold at 52.244-2(b)(1) requiring additional information on certain subcontracts from $10,000 to $25,000. This increase recognizes rising hourly wage rates and contract costs.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 40 USC 486(c); 10 USC 2301 to 2331; 42 USC 2473(c)

CFR Citation: 48 CFR 49.105; 48 CFR 49.206-3; 48 CFR 49.303-2; 48 CFR 52.249-2; 48 CFR 52.249-3; 48 CFR 52.249-5; 48 CFR 52.249-6; 48 CFR 52.249-11

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Civilian Agency Acquisition Council and the Defense Acquisition Regulations Council are proposing changes concerning termination of contracts to preclude excessive delays in processing terminations for the convenience of the Government. The proposed change will require contractors to prepare and submit termination inventory schedules within 120 days from the effective date of termination, unless otherwise extended by the Termination Contracting Officer (TCO). This will enable the TCO to initiate early inventory screening and final disposition, thereby substantially reducing the time required to achieve termination settlement.

Abstract: The Civilian Agency Acquisition Council and the Defense Acquisition Regulations Council have agreed to an interim rule amending the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR). This regulatory action was not subject to Office of Management and Budget review under Executive Order 12866, dated September 30, 1993.

Commodity Futures Trading Commission

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

COMMODITY FUTURES TRADING COMMISSION (CFTC)

COMMODITY FUTURES TRADING COMMISSION

17 CFR Ch. I

Regulatory Flexibility Agenda

AGENCY: Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

ACTION: Publication of regulatory flexibility agenda.

SUMMARY: The Commodity Futures Trading Commission, in accordance with the requirements of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, is publishing a semiannual agenda of significant rules which the Commission expects to propose or promulgate over the next year. The Commission welcomes comments from small entities and others on the agenda.

ADDRESSES: Comments should be sent to: Gerald P. Smith, Special Assistant to the Executive Director, Commodity Futures Trading Commission, 1155 21st Street NW., Washington, DC 20581, (202) 418-5160.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq. (RFA), sets forth a number of requirements for agency rulemaking. Among other things, the RFA requires that:

(a) During the months of April and October of each year, each agency shall publish in the Federal Register a regulatory flexibility agenda which shall contain:

(1) A brief description of the subject area of any rule which the agency expects to propose or promulgate which is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities;

(2) A summary of the nature of any such rule under consideration for each subject area listed in the agenda pursuant to paragraph (1), the objectives and legal basis for the issuance of the rule, and an approximate schedule for completing action on any rule for which the agency has issued a general notice of proposed rulemaking; and

(3) The name and telephone number of an agency official knowledgeable concerning the items listed in paragraph (1).

5 U.S.C. 602(a). The Commission has prepared an agenda of significant rules which it presently expects may be considered during the course of the next year, irrespective of their potential impact on small entities.[1]

The Commission's agenda represents its best estimate of significant rules which will be considered over the next 12 months.[2] In this regard, section 602(d) of the RFA, 5 U.S.C. 602(d), provides: "Nothing in [section 602] precludes an agency from considering or acting on any matter not included in a regulatory flexibility agenda or requires an agency to consider or act on any matter listed in such agenda."

For this edition of the Commission's regulatory agenda, the most important significant regulatory actions are included in The Regulatory Plan, which appears in Part II of this issue of the Federal Register. The Regulatory Plan entries are listed in the Table of Contents below and are denoted by a bracketed bold reference, which directs the reader to the appropriate Sequence Number in Part II.

The Commission's October 1995 regulatory flexibility agenda is set forth below.

Issued in Washington, DC, on October 10, 1995, by the Commission.

Jean A. Webb,

Secretary of the Commission.

References in boldface appear in the Regulatory Plan in Part II of this issue of the Federal Register.

[1] The Commission has published its definition of small entity to be used by the Commission in connection with rulemaking proceedings. 47 FR 18618 (April 30, 1982). Pursuant to those definitions, the Commission is not required to list many of the agenda items contained in this regulatory flexibility agenda. See 5 U.S.C. 602(a)(1). Moreover, the Commission has previously certified, pursuant to section 605 of the RFA, 5 U.S.C. 605, that certain items contained in this agenda will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Accordingly, listing of a rule in this regulatory flexibility agenda should not in any event be taken as a determination that a rule, when proposed or promulgated, will in fact require a regulatory flexibility analysis. However, the Commission hopes that the publication of an agenda, which includes significant rules, regardless of their potential impact on small entities, may serve the public generally by providing an early and meaningful opportunity to participate in and comment on the formulation of new or revised regulations.

[2] In addition to publishing the regulatory flexibility agenda, the Commission also makes available to the public, on a monthly basis, a calendar and, on a weekly basis, an advisory, which lists rules that the Commission is considering or will consider in the near future.

Consumer Product Safety Commission

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY COMMISSION (CPSC)

CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY COMMISSION

16 CFR Ch. II

Regulatory Flexibility Act; Semiannual Regulatory Flexibility and Unified Agendas

AGENCY: Consumer Product Safety Commission.

ACTION: Publication of regulatory flexibility and unified agendas.

SUMMARY: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) requires each Federal agency to publish, twice each year, a regulatory flexibility agenda listing the rules expected to be proposed or promulgated which are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, including small businesses, small organizations and small governmental units. In this document, the Commission publishes its semiannual regulatory flexibility agenda.

Additionally, Executive Order 12866 requires each agency to publish an agenda of regulatory actions expected to be under development or review by the agency during the next year and provides that such an agenda may be combined with an agency's regulatory flexibility agenda published in accordance with the RFA.

DATES: The Commission welcomes comments on each subject area of the agenda, particularly from small entities. Written comments concerning the agenda should be received in the Office of the Secretary by December 31, 1995.

ADDRESSES: Comments on the regulatory flexibility agenda should be mailed to the Office of the Secretary, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, DC 20207, telephone (301) 504-0800, or delivered to the Office of the Secretary, Room 501, 4330 East-West Highway, Bethesda, Maryland 20814. Comments should be captioned "Regulatory Flexibility Agenda."

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information on the agenda in general, contact: Allen F. Brauninger, Office of the General Counsel, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, DC 20207; telephone (301) 504-0980. For further information regarding a particular item on the agenda, consult the individual listed in the column headed "Contact" for that particular item.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) (5 U.S.C. 601-612) contains several provisions intended to reduce unnecessary and disproportionate regulatory requirements on small businesses, small governmental organizations, and other small entities. Section 602 of the RFA (5 U.S.C. 602) requires each agency to publish, twice each year, a regulatory flexibility agenda containing a brief description of the subject area of any rule expected to be proposed or promulgated which is likely to have a "significant economic impact" on a "substantial number" of small entities. The agency must also provide a summary of the nature of the rule and a schedule for acting on each rule for which the agency has issued a notice of proposed rulemaking. The regulatory flexibility agenda shall also contain the name and address of the agency official knowledgeable about the items listed. Further, agencies are required to provide notice of their agendas to small entities and to solicit their comments by direct notification or by inclusion in publications likely to be obtained by such entities. Additionally, Executive Order 12866 requires each agency to publish, twice each year, a regulatory agenda of regulations under development or review during the next year and states that such an agenda may be combined with the agenda published in accordance with the RFA.

The regulatory flexibility agenda published below lists the regulatory activities expected to be under development or review during the next 12 months. It includes all such activities, whether or not they may have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

The agenda contains a brief description and summary of each regulatory activity, including the objectives and legal basis for each; an approximate schedule of target dates, subject to revision, for the development or completion of each activity; and the name and telephone number of a knowledgeable agency official concerning particular items on the agenda. All agency contacts have the same address: Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, DC 20207.

CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY COMMISSION (CPSC) — Prerule Stage

4426. PETITION HP 95-1 REQUESTING DEVELOPMENT OF A SAFETY STANDARD FOR PROTECTIVE BATTING HELMETS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 5 USC 553(e) Administrative Procedure Act; 15 USC 2051 Consumer Product Safety Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 00

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: A petition from the Academy of Facial Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery requests the Commission to develop a safety standard for protective batting helmets intended for children younger than 15 years of age. The standard requested by the petition would require all protective batting helmets subject to its provisions to be manufactured with a face guard that conforms to Standard F 910 published by ASTM (formerly the American Society for Testing and Materials). On November 1, 1994, the Commission published a notice in the Federal Register inviting comments on the petition from interested parties. On July 14, 1995, the the Commission voted to defer a decision on the petition until until additional information becomes available about circumstances surrounding facial injuries associated with baseball and softball. The Commission's decision to grant or deny the petition is expected in April, 1996.

Abstract: A petition from the New York City Department of Consumer Affairs requests the Commission to develop a rule to ban certain back yard play sets. The petition asserts that back yard play sets present unreasonable risks of injury to children if they do not meet the requirements of a voluntary standard for home playground equipment published by ASTM (formerly the American Society for Testing and Materials); are not accompanied with adequate information about ground surfacing; or lack specific features described in the petition. The staff is preparing a briefing package for consideration by the Commissioners of the agency which they will use in deciding whether to grant or deny the petition. If the Commission grants the petition, it will publish an advance notice of proposed rulemaking to begin the rulemaking proceeding requested by the petition.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1261 Federal Hazardous Substances Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1500

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: A petition from Roger L. Wabeke requests the Commission to issue a rule under the Federal Hazardous Substances Act to ban sulfuric acid drain cleaners intended for household use. In his petition Mr. Wabeke states that he has investigated several accidents which resulted from the explosion and eruption of hot, concentrated sulfuric acid used to clean clogged drain pipes. The petition asserts that sulfuric acid is too dangerous for sale to the general public. The Commission staff will prepare a briefing package for consideration by the Commissioners of the agency which they will use in deciding whether to grant or deny the petition.

4429. LABELING REQUIREMENTS FOR PACKAGES OF CHARCOAL

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 5 USC 553(e) Administrative Procedure Act; 15 USC 1262(b) Federal Hazardous Substances Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1500

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On August 10, 1995, the Commission proposed to amend requirements for labeling of packages of charcoal intended for household use. Existing regulations require packages of charcoal intended for household use to be labeled with the following statement enclosed within a ruled border: "WARNING: Do Not Use for Indoor Heating or Cooking Unless Ventilation is Provided for Exhausting Fumes to Outside. Toxic Fumes May Accumulate and Cause Death." The proposed amendment would change the labeling statement to: "CARBON MONOXIDE HAZARD - Burning charcoal indoors can kill you. It gives off carbon monoxide, which has no odor. NEVER burn charcoal inside homes, vehicles, or tents." The proposed amendment also requires the label to include a warning symbol consisting of an exclamation mark enclosed within a triangle, the word "WARNING" and a pictogram showing the places where charcoal should not be burned. The Commission proposed this amendment to make the warning label more noticeable and more easily understood.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1261 Federal Hazardous Substances Act; 15 USC 1262 Federal Hazardous Substances Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1500

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On August 2, 1994, the Commission published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) to begin a proceeding which may result in the issuance of mandatory design or performance requirements for baby walkers. A baby walker is a device that supports a child so that the child can use his or her feet to move about before or while learning to walk. Typically, a baby walker consists of a fabric seat which has leg openings and is mounted to a rigid plastic deck. The deck is attached to a base which usually is mounted on wheels to allow mobility. In 1994, an estimated 25,500 children younger than 15 months of age were were treated in emergency rooms for injuries associated with baby walkers. The majority of these injuries resulted from falls down down stairs or steps. Among the regulatory options under consideration by the Commission are mandatory performance or design requirements to reduce the likelihood that a child will be able to maneuver a baby walker into a position where it can fall down stairs or steps. In November, 1995, the staff is scheduled to send a briefing package concerning baby walkers to the Commission.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1193 Flammable Fabrics Act; 15 USC 2079(b) Consumer Product Safety Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1615; 16 CFR 1616

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The flammability standards for children's sleepwear are applicable to children's sleepwear garments in sizes 0 through 14, and to fabrics intended for use in such garments. The standards were issued to eliminate or reduce unreasonable risks of deaths and burn injuries to children associated with ignition of sleepwear garments. On October 25, 1994, the Commission published proposed amendments of the standards to exempt tight-fitting sleepwear garments and garments for infants from the requirements of the standards. On October 11, 1995, the staff sent a briefing package to the Commissioners of the agency which they will use in deciding whether to issue final amendments of the standard.

4434. MULTIPLE TUBE MINE AND SHELL FIREWORKS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1261 Federal Hazardous Substances Act; 15 USC 1262 Federal Hazardous Substances Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1500

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On July 1, 1994, the Commission published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) to begin a proceeding which may lead to amendment of existing regulations applicable to multiple tube mine and shell fireworks devices. These products are comprised of several vertical tubes with a common fuse. Some have a horizontal base; others do not. Each tube is loaded with propellant and one or more shells or mines. When the fuse is ignited, the tubes fire sequentially, producing audible reports or a display of stars or other visual effects or both. The Commission has received reports of two deaths and two burn injuries involving multiple tube mine and shell fireworks devices which became unstable and tipped over after they were ignited. On July 5, 1995, the Commission proposed an amendment of regulations applicable to fireworks to establish a performance test for the stability of multiple tube mine and shell devices that have any tube with an inner diameter of 1.5 inches or greater. The test requires that a fireworks device subject to the proposed amendment shall have a minimum tip angle of 60 degrees. In February, 1996, the staff is scheduled to transmit a briefing package to the Commissioners of the agency which they will use in deciding whether to issue the proposed amendment as a final rule.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

FARM CREDIT ADMINISTRATION (FCA)

FARM CREDIT ADMINISTRATION

12 CFR Ch. VI

Unified Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Farm Credit Administration.

ACTION: Departmental unified agenda of regulations and review list.

SUMMARY: The Farm Credit Administration (FCA), as an independent regulatory agency in compliance with Executive Order 12866, sets forth the following agenda of regulations which it will have under development and review during the period of October 1995 through April 1996.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Cindy R. Nicholson, Paralegal Specialist, Regulation Development, Office of Examination, Farm Credit Administration, 1501 Farm Credit Drive, McLean, Virginia 22102-5090, (703) 883-4498, TDD (703) 883-4444.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) contains several provisions intended to reduce unnecessary and disproportionate regulatory requirements on small entities. FCA regulations, which apply to Farm Credit banks and associations and certain other federally chartered entities, generally do not and will not have a substantial impact on "small entities" as that term is defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

The FCA, as an independent regulatory agency, is exempt from certain provisions of Executive Order 12866. It participates in this joint publication to further the public interest by including FCA in a single source of information concerning current and projected rulemaking and reviews of existing regulations, pursuant to section 4 of the Executive Order 12866.

Dated: September 15, 1995.

Floyd Fithian,

Secretary, Farm Credit Administration Board.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

FARM CREDIT SYSTEM INSURANCE CORPORATION (FCSIC)

FARM CREDIT SYSTEM INSURANCE CORPORATION

12 CFR Ch. XIV

Unified Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Farm Credit System Insurance Corporation.

ACTION: Departmental unified agenda of regulations and review list.

SUMMARY: The Farm Credit System Insurance Corporation (Corporation), in compliance with Executive Order 12866, sets forth the following agenda of regulations which it will have under development and review during the period of October 1995 through April 1996.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Cindy R. Nicholson, Paralegal Specialist, Farm Credit System Insurance Corporation, 1501 Farm Credit Drive, McLean, Virginia 22102-0826, (703) 883-4498, TDD (703) 883-4444.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) contains several provisions intended to reduce unnecessary and disproportionate regulatory requirements on small entities. Corporation regulations, which apply to Farm Credit banks and associations, generally do not and will not have a substantial impact on "small entities" as that term is defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

The Corporation, as an independent regulatory agency, is exempt from certain provisions of Executive Order 12866. It participates in this joint publication to further the public interest by including the Corporation in a single source of information concerning current and projected rulemaking and reviews of existing regulations, pursuant to section 4 of the Executive Order 12866.

Dated: September 15, 1995.

Floyd Fithian,

Secretary, Farm Credit System Insurance Corporation Board.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

47 CFR Ch. I

Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations; October 1995

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Publication of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: Twice a year, the Commission publishes a list in the Unified Agenda of those major items and other significant proceedings under development or review that pertain to the Regulatory Flexibility Act. The Agenda also provides the CFR citations and legal authorities which govern these proceedings. The Regulatory Flexibility Act (94 Stat. 1167; 5 U.S.C. 605) includes notations on the applicability of the Regulatory Flexibility Act to each item. The Unified Agenda will be published in the Federal Register in April and October of each year.

ADDRESSES: Federal Communications Commission, 1919 M Street NW., Washington, DC 20554.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Nancy Camp, Office of Managing Director, (202) 418-0442.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Unified Agenda of Major and Other Significant Proceedings

The Commission encourages public participation in the FCC rulemaking process. To help keep the public informed of significant rulemaking proceedings, the Commission has prepared an agenda of important proceedings now in progress. OMB will publish the Unified Agenda in the Federal Register in April and October of each year.

Regulatory Plan

For this edition of FCC's regulatory agenda, the most important regulatory actions are included in The Regulatory Plan, which appears in Part II of this issue of the Federal Register. The Regulatory Plan entries are listed in the Table of Contents and are denoted by a bracketed bold reference, which directs the reader to the appropriate Sequence Number in Part II.

The following terms may be helpful in understanding the status of the proceedings included in this report:

Docket Number - assigned to a proceeding if the Commission has issued either a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking or a Notice of Inquiry concerning the matter under consideration. The Commission has used docket numbers since January 1, 1978. Docket numbers consist of the last two digits of the calendar year in which the docket was established, plus a sequential number, which begins at 1 with the first docket initiated during a calendar year (e.g., Docket 80-1 or Docket 83-1). The abbreviation for the responsible Bureau usually precedes the docket number, as in "MM Docket 79-164," which indicates that the responsible Bureau is the Mass Media Bureau. A docket number consisting of only five digits (e.g., Docket 29622) indicates that the docket was established before January 1, 1978.

Notice of Inquiry (NOI) - issued by the Commission when it is seeking information on a broad subject or trying to generate ideas on a given topic. A comment period is specified during which all interested parties may submit comments.

Further Notice of Inquiry (FNOI)

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) - issued by the Commission when it is proposing a specific change to the FCC Rules and Regulations. Before any changes are actually made, interested parties may submit written comments on the proposals.

Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (FNPRM)

Memorandum Opinion and Order (MO&O) - issued by the Commission to deny a petition for rulemaking, conclude an inquiry, modify a decision, or deny a petition for reconsideration of a decision.

Rulemaking (RM) Number - assigned to a proceeding after the appropriate Bureau/Office has reviewed a petition for rulemaking but before the Commission has taken action on the petition.

Report and Order (R&O) - issued by the Commission to state a new or amended rule or state that the FCC Rules will not be changed.

William F. Caton,
Acting Secretary,
Federal Communications Commission.

Abstract: Action seeks comment on proposals for reforming the Universal Service Fund (which gives local exchange carriers with greater-then-average costs in the local loop assistance that helps keep local rates reasonable) and the Dial Equipment Minutes Weighting Program (which helps very small local exchange carriers cover their local switching costs). The proposals concern several approaches to these assistance mechanisms for promoting universal service. The Notice refers the proposed changes to the Federal-State Joint Board in this proceeding for a recommended decision.

Abstract: The Commission adopted a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) seeking comments on a wide variety of policy and technical issues concerning the portability of telephone numbers. Number portability is the ability of end users to retain their telephone numbers when they switch to a new service provider, a new location, or a new service. Through this NPRM, the Commission is examining the overall benefits, technical feasibility, and implementation costs of number portability in its various forms.

In particular, the Commission increased the minimum productivity or X-factor from 3.3 to 4.0 percent, increased the number of X-factor options from two, revised its sharing requirements and exogenous cost rules, and required Local Exchange Carriers to make a one-time rate reduction. The Commission also stated that it would address several other issues in a further notice of proposed rulemaking.

Legal Authority: 47 USC 154; 47 USC 303(r)

Abstract: The Commission seeks to adopt rules governing the entry of foreign carriers into the U.S. international facilities-based service marketplace. The Commission proposes to add as an additional public interest factor in examining Section 214 applications from foreign-affiliated carriers whether there is, or will be, effective market access available in the foreign carrier's primary markets for U.S. carriers to provide services similar to those the foreign carrier seeks to provide in the U.S. The Commission also proposes a specified level of foreign carrier ownership in a U.S. carrier at which the proposed entry standard would apply. The Commission asks whether it should adopt effective market access as an element of Section 310(b)(4) public interest analysis.

Abstract: The Commission seeks to develop a record and to solicit comments on the proposed policies. The proposed policies are designed to ensure that sufficient spectrum is available to operate a viable and independent U.S. licensed mobile satellite service system in the L-band. The proposed policies, to the extent possible, also seek to make any additional spectrum coordinated internationally available for mobile-satellite service systems. The proposed policies impose no additional burdens. In order to be effective, these rules must apply to all licenses and thus there is no significant alternative.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 47 USC 154; 47 USC 303(r); 47 USC 721(c)

CFR Citation: 47 CFR 25

Abstract: The Commission proposes to eliminate the distinction between the transborder policy and separate international satellite policy and to treat all U.S. licensed geostationary fixed satellites under a single regulatory scheme. As a result, all U.S. licensed fixed satellites will be permitted to provide domestic and international services on a co-primary basis. The proposed action is expected to increase competition in fixed satellite services by increasing the amount of satellite capacity available for both domestic and international services and eliminate regulations that impair business' ability to meet their customers' needs.

Abstract: The Commission seeks to adopt a sharing plan for satellite and terrestrial services in the 27.5-29.5 GHz frequency bands. In a negotiated rulemaking conducted in 1994, the parties could not reach a consensus regarding the sharing of this band. In this proceeding, the Commission will adopt licensing policies and procedures, and other qualification requirements, so that the Local Multipoint Distribution Services, Fixed-Satellite Services, and feeder links for Mobile Satellite Systems can all be accommodated within the 27.5-29.5 GHz band. The action will permit a variety of innovative communication services to be made available to the public.

CFR Citation: 47 CFR 73

Abstract: Congress enacted the Children's Television Act of 1990 (CTA) to "increase the amount of educational and informational broadcast television programming for children." The CTA directs the Commission to review, in any application for license renewal, whether a television broadcast licensee has "served the educational needs of children through the licensee's overall programming specifically designed to serve such needs."

The Commission adopted rules implementing the CTA in 1991. In 1993, the Commission initiated this proceeding by adopting a Notice of Inquiry to examine whether its rules should be revised to identify more clearly the levels and types of programming necessary adequately to serve children's educational needs. Based on an informal review of more than 320 license renewal applications, we did not believe that the level of educational programming performance was consistent with the CTA's long-term objectives, and concluded this fact might be largely attributale to broadcasters' uncertainty regarding the scope of their obligation. In June 1994, we also convened an en banc hearing on the subject of children's television programming.

Based on comments responding to the Notice of inquiry and submitted in conjunction with the en banc hearing, the Commission adopted a Notice of Proposed Rule Making (NPRM) in April 1995 to propose changes to its rules. These proposals are designed to improve the information available to parents and the local community regarding educational television programming, and to revise our definition of "educational and informational" programming to give licensees clearer guidance regarding the types of programming required by the CTA. In addition, the Commission is evaluating other options, including monitoring broadcaster performance, establishing a safe-harbor processing guideline or a programming standard, and allowing stations to meet a quantitative guideline or standard by sponsoring programs shown on other stations.

Abstract: These three notices of proposed rulemaking (NPRMs) form a reexamination of the Commission's rules governing the relationship between broadcast television networks and their affiliates. There are eight rules consideration in these three proceedings.

The first NPRM considers changes to the requirement that stations file their network affiliation agreements with the Commission

The second NPRM considers changes to five rules that regulate network/affiliate programming practices. The first rule requires an affiliate to be able to reject programming. The second rule prohibits networks from optioning an affiliate's time. The third rule prohibits a station from affiliating exclusively with a network. The fourth rule prohibits a station from having exclusive rights to network programming. The fifth rule prohibits a station from affiliating with an entity that operates more than one network.

The third NPRM considers changes to two rules regulating broadcast television advertising. The first advertising rule prohibits a broadcast television network from influencing or controlling the rates its affiliates set for the sale of their non-network advertising time. The second advertising rule prohibits a broadcast television network form representing any of its affiliates in the sale of nonnetwork advertising time.

The basic purpose in each of these proceedings is to address whether the rules under consideration continue to promote the public interest in light of changes in the video marketplace. As a result, these proceedings ask questions with a view to either modifying or eliminating the rules if changes in the video marketplace warrant them.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

CFR Citation: 47 CFR 73.3555

Abstract: This proceeding considers changes to the Commission's rules governing the ownership of television stations and the joint ownership of television and radio stations. There are five basic issues considered in the proceeding. First, how many television stations should an entity be allowed to own across the nation. Second, how many television stations should an entity be allowed to own within a given "market." Third, how should the commission count satellite stations for the purposes of applying the national ownership limits. Fourth, should an entity be allowed to own both radio and television stations within a given "market." And fifth, should the holder of a leased marketing agreement with another station be considered to have an attributal interest in that station. In addressing these basic issues, the proceeding must also resolve what constitutes a station's "market" for the purposes of applying the different ownership rules, and how should UHF and VHF stations be counted.

Abstract: In this proceeding, the Commission is considering revisions to the mass media attribution rules, by which we define what constitues a "cognizable interest" for purposes of applying our ownership restrictions to specific situations. We are evaluating changes to our attribution rules relating to such areas as stockholding benchmarks and partnership interests, and are also reviewing our "cross-interest policy." We also comment on how to treat, for attribution purposes, interests in new business forms such as limited companies.

Abstract: By this NPRM, the Commission proposes to establish final rules for the processing of applications and licensing for Personal Communications Services (PCS). Specifically, we are proposing rules that will apply to PCS license applicants who have successfully bid for spectrum or have filed applications that are determined not to be mutually exclusive with any other application, and are therefore, not subject to competitive bidding. Within this scope, we propose rules to govern the "long-form" application process, initial licensing, construction, operation and technical requirements, unused-spectrum recovery, unserved-area licensing procedures, assignments and transfers, and license renewal procedures.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

12 CFR Ch. III

Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

ACTION: Publication of semiannual agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) is hereby publishing items for the October 1995 regulatory agenda. The agenda contains information about FDIC's current and projected rulemakings, existing regulations under review, and completed rulemakings.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Persons identified under regulations listed in the agenda. Unless otherwise noted, the address for all FDIC staff identified in the agenda is Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, 550 17th Street NW., Washington, DC 20429.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Twice each year, the FDIC publishes an agenda of regulations to inform the public of its regulatory actions and to enhance public participation in the rulemaking process. Publication of the agenda is in accordance with both the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) and the FDIC statement of policy entitled "Development and Review of FDIC Rules and Regulations" (44 FR 31007, May 30, 1979; 44 FR 32353, June 6, 1979; 44 FR 76858, December 28, 1979; 49 FR 7288, February 28, 1984).

The FDIC amends its regulations under the general rulemaking authority prescribed in section 9 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1819) and under specific authority granted by the Act and other statutes.

The Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act of 1989 (FIRREA), the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 (FDICIA), and the Riegle Community Development and Regulatory Improvement Act of 1994 (CDRI) contain reforms that significantly restructure the regulation of financial institutions. As a consequence, many of the regulations included in this agenda are in response to FIRREA, FDICIA, and CDRI. The FDIC is continuing to develop regulations implementing the most recent legislative requirements. These include the requirement in section 303 of CDRI that the Federal banking regulators conduct a review of all their regulations and written policies to streamline them, remove inconsistencies, improve efficiency, reduce unnecessary costs, and make uniform all regulations and guidelines implementing common statutory or supervisory policies. Specifically, proposed changes to the FDIC's regulations will be noted in future semiannual agendas as they emerge from these reviews.

Interested persons may petition the FDIC for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of any regulation by submitting a written petition to the Executive Secretary, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Washington, DC 20429. Petitioners should include complete and concise statements of their interest in the subject matter and reasons why the petitions should be granted.

Dated: September 15, 1995.
Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.
Jerry L. Langley,
Executive Secretary.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION (FDIC) — Prerule Stage

4540. ELIGIBILITY FOR DEPOSIT INSURANCE; BEING ENGAGED IN THE BUSINESS OF RECEIVING DEPOSITS OTHER THAN TRUST FUNDS AND RELATED ITEMS

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1815; 12 USC 1819

CFR Citation: 12 CFR ch III

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Being "engaged in the business of receiving deposits other than trust funds" is a necessary condition for consideration of an application for deposit insurance and for continued insurance after an application has been granted. However, the FDIC has never defined by way of regulation or policy statement what constitutes being "engaged in the business of receiving deposits other than trust funds." The FDIC is now considering a rulemaking to do that; this regulatory action will assist the FDIC in that effort.

4541. CAPITAL MAINTENANCE—RECOURSE ARRANGEMENTS AND DIRECT CREDIT SUBSTITUTES

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1815; 12 USC 1816; 12 USC 1818; 12 USC 1819; 12 USC 1828; 12 USC 1831; 12 USC 3907; 12 USC 3909

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 325

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The FDIC, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, and the Office of Thrift Supervision ("Agencies") are revising their risk-based capital standards to address the regulatory capital treatment of recourse arrangements and direct credit substitutes that expose banks, bank holding companies, and thrifts to credit risk. One portion of the NPRM addressing the risk-based capital treatment of low-level recourse transactions is required to be published as a separate final rule by CDRI.

In addition, the Agencies published, in an ANPRM, a preliminary proposal to use credit ratings to match the risk-based capital assessment more closely to an institution's relative risk of loss in certain asset securitizations. The Agencies are also seeking comment on the need for a similar system for unrated asset securitizations and on how such a system would be designed. The Agencies intend that any final rules adopted in connection with these regulatory actions that result in increased risk-based capital requirements would apply only to transactions that are consummated after the effective dates of such final rules.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1819; PL 103-204

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 308

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Program Fraud Civil Remedies Act ("PFCRA") requires specified Federal agencies to follow certain procedures to recover penalties and assessments against persons who file false claims and statements. The Resolution Trust Corporation Completion Act (PL 103-204) subjects the FDIC to the requirements of the PFCRA. An interagency task force was established by the President's Council on Integrity and Efficiency to develop model regulations for implementing the PFCRA. This regulatory action adopts, with minor variations, the model regulations set forth by the Council's task force.

Abstract: This rulemaking defines (1) spot and other short-term foreign exchange agreements and (2) repurchase agreements on qualified foreign government securities to be qualified financial contracts "QFCs" under the FDI Act, 12 USC 1811 et seq. The promulgation of this rule is not intended to exclude other agreements which otherwise may qualify as QFCs. The FDI Act provides special rules for the treatment of QFCs in the event that the FDIC is appointed receiver or conservator for an insured depository institution in default. Parties to QFCs are permitted to liquidate, terminate, and net their agreements.

Abstract: This regulatory action implements section 314 of the CDRI. It provides relief from certain duplicative reporting requirements for sound, well-managed institutions with over $9 billion in assets which are subsidiaries of multibank holding companies. It also provides that the FDIC will notify a large insured institution in writing if it decides a review by an independent public accountant of the institution's quarterly financial reports is required. This regulatory action also includes several minor technical amendments to the guidelines and interpretations concerning compliance with the audit requirements.

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 325

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulatory action modifies the definition of the OECD-based group of countries in the FDIC's risk-based capital guidelines. Claims on the governments and banks of this group generally receive lower risk weights than corresponding claims on the governments and banks of non-OECD based countries. This amendment is based on an announcement by the Basle Committee on Banking Supervision that, subject to national consultation, the Basle Committee plans to introduce a change to the Basle Accord in 1995. The effect of this modification would be to exclude from the OECD-based group of countries which are eligible for the lower risk weights any country that has rescheduled its external sovereign debt within the previous five years.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: PL 103-328

Abstract: This rulemaking implements section 107 of the Riegle-Neal Interstate Banking and Branching Efficiency Act of 1994 (PL 103-328), which provides that the FDIC restrict the amounts and types of initial deposits of less than $100,000 which could be accepted by an uninsured state-licensed branch of a foreign bank. CFR Citation: 12 CFR 325

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Reserve System, and the FDIC are jointly amending their risk-based capital requirements to incorporate a measure for market risk. The amendments generally apply only to institutions that have (1) total assets exceeding $5 billion and either on-balance-sheet trading activities representing at least 3 percent of total assets or a volume of off-balance-sheet trading activities with notional amounts exceeding $5 billion, or (2) total assets of $5 billion or less and a volume of trading activities representing at least 10% of total assets. Capital charges for market risk will be calculated by such institutions using either their own internal value-at-risk model(s), or, alternatively, risk measurement techniques developed by supervisors. The effect of this measure is to require certain institutions to hold hold capital based on the measure of their market risk exposure.

Abstract: A rule published by the Office of Government Ethics ("OGE") at 5 CFR 2635 replaced all agency ethics rules, including the FDIC's. OGE's rule permits supplemental rules on certain conflicts of interest unique to each agency. The FDIC has published such supplemental regulations at 5 CFR 3201 relating to extensions of credit, restrictions on holding the securities of federally insured depository institutions, restrictions on the purchase of the property of failed federally insured depository institutions, interest in FDIC decisions, and related matters. Final regulations must be promulgated by 08/01/93, with an effective date no later than 12/01/93.

Abstract: Section 132 of FDICIA requires Federal financial institutions regulators, including the FDIC, to prescribe by regulation certain safety and soundness standards for insured depository institutions and depository institution holding companies. Standards must be prescribed in three principal areas: (1) operational and managerial; (2) asset quality and earnings; and (3) employee compensation. Under this regulatory action, an insured depository institution or depository institution holding company that fails to meet any of the prescribed standards, will be required to submit and implement an acceptable plan to achieve compliance. Failure to submit or implement such a plan within the time allowed will result in an order to correct the deficiency.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1821

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 360

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On August 10, 1993, Congress amended section 11(d)(11) of the FDI Act to establish priorities for paying claims against failed institutions. The priorities are as follows: (1) administrative expenses of the receiver, (2) deposit liabilities, (3) other general or senior liabilities, (4) subordinated debts, (5) shareholders' obligations. Legal Authority: PL 95-128

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 345

Abstract: The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the FDIC, and the Office of Thrift Supervision developed new regulations and standards for procedures assessing a financial institution's performance under the Community Reinvestment Act (CRA). CFR Citation: 12 CFR 325

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The FDIC, the OCC, and the FRB are amending their risk-based capital standards to implement a revision to the Basle Accord. The effect of this revision is twofold. First, long-dated interest rate and exchange rate contracts are subject to higher conversion factors and new conversion factors are set forth that specifically apply to derivative contracts related to equities, precious metals, and other commodities. Second, institutions are permitted to recognize a reduction in potential future credit exposure for transactions subject to qualifying bilateral netting arrangements.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1441; 12 USC 1817 to 1819

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 327

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule establishes a new assessment rate schedule of 4-31 basis points for institutions whose deposits are subject to assessment by the Bank Insurance Fund ("BIF"). The new schedule applies beginning on the first day of the month after the month in which the BIF achieves the designated reserve ratio ("DRR") of 1.25 percent of total deposits. Further this rule widens the assessment rate spread from 8 basis points to 27 basis points. Finally, the rule establishes a procedure for adjusting the rate schedule semiannually by means of an adjustment factor of plus or minus 5 basis points as necessary to maintain the DRR at 1.25 percent.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1815; 12 USC 1816; 12 USC 1818; 12 USC 1819; 12 USC 1828; PL 102-242

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 325

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulatory action amends the capital adequacy standards for banks, bank holding companies, and savings associations to treat originated mortgage servicing rights ("OMSRs") the same as purchased mortgage servicing rights ("PMSRs") for regulatory capital purposes. The rule was developed together with the Federal Reserve System, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, and the Office of Thrift Supervision, in response to the Financial Accounting Standards Board's issuance of Statement No. 122, "Accounting for Mortgage Servicing Rights," which eliminates the distinction between OMSRs and PMSRs by requiring OMSRs to be capitalized as balance sheet assets, a treatment previously required only for PMSRs.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1441; 12 USC 1817 to 1819

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 327

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulatory action changes assessment procedures in three ways. First, it delays the collection date for the first quarterly assessment for the first semiannual period. Second, it gives insured institutions the option of prepaying the first quarterly payment during the prior December. The FDIC's purpose in making these two changes is to relieve certain institutions of the regulatory burden of having to make an extra assessment payment in 1995, while at the same time affording flexibility to other institutions to make such a payment if they so desire. Third, the rulemaking replaces the interest rate applied to underpayments and overpayments of assessments with a new, more sensitive rate derived from the three-month Treasury bill discount rate, making the rate more sensitive to market conditions.

CFR Citation: 18 CFR 2

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Commission adopted a policy statement that addresses its authority to issue or deny new hydropower licenses at the time of relicensing, and its authority over the decommissioning of a licensed project when no new license is sought or a new license is rejected or denied, as well as pre-retirement planning and funding. The Commission stated that it has the authority to deny new licenses to hydroelectric projects when existing licenses expire. Such action would occur if the Commission concluded that the project, no matter how conditioned, could no longer meet the comprehensive development standard of the Federal Power Act. In the great majority of cases, decommissioning is likely to result from a license holder's desire to abandon an uneconomical facility rather than the Commission deciding it should be closed. The Commission also concluded that its authority over decommissioning extends to determining what project features, beyond the turbines and generators, should be removed, if the project is decommissioned. In issuing future licenses, the Commission may require that funding for decommissioning be provided in certain circumstances. (Docket No. RM93-23-000.)

SUMMARY: Pursuant to section 4(b) of E.O. 12866 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), the Commission anticipates having under consideration, during the period from October 1, 1995, to September 30, 1996, actions in the areas listed below.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information concerning Commission rulemaking proceedings or the status of any matter listed below, contact: Joseph C. Polking, Secretary, 800 North Capitol Street NW., Washington, DC 20573, (202) 523-5725.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 602 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 602) requires the publication of an agenda of items for which regulatory agencies may propose or promulgate a rule which is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Section 4(b) of Executive Order 12866 also requires agencies to publish a regulatory agenda. The agendas include information on regulatory activities being conducted or reviewed during the succeeding 12 months by the Commission.

The following is the Commission's unified regulatory agenda. The agenda does not necessarily include all petitions for rulemakings which are under staff review.

In addition, the Commission maintains a compilation of the status of pending rulemaking proceedings and a listing of rules that have become final since the publication of the most recent regulatory agenda. This will be made available to the public, including the press and interested persons.

For this edition of the Commission's regulatory agenda, the most important significant regulatory actions are included in The Regulatory Plan, which appears in Part II of this issue of the Federal Register. The Regulatory Plan entries are listed in the Table of Contents below and are denoted by a bracketed bold reference, which directs the reader to the appropriate Sequence Number in Part II.
